WPA 'Pork Barrel,' Governor Charges

Tariff Equivalent, Soil Conservation Asked For Farmers.

Text of Gov. Landon's Address—Page 9.

By the Associated Press.

Topeka, Kans., Jan. 29.—Gov. Alf M. Landon assailed "political wasters" of the New Deal and called for "better housekeeping" in the National Government tonight to the cheers of Kansas Republicans, who formally offered him to the country for President.

In the first public exposition of his views on national issues, Landon condemned "half-baked legislation, maladministration and the dangerous short cuts to permanent change attempted in the name of emergency."

His address at a Kansas Day Republican rally climaxing the seventy-fifth anniversary of the State's admission to the Union, was broadcast nationally.

18 Delegates Assured.

Indorsed by the Republican State Central Committee, assuring him of 18 delegates from his home State pledged to vote for his nomination for President at Cleveland in June, and urged by a resolution of the Kansas Day Club to allow use of his name as a candidate, Landon smilingly avoided committing himself.

He made no mention of candidacies in his speech.

"I greatly appreciate the expression of those who know me best," he commented on the indorsement by the State committee.

A "thank you" was his affable and only reply during the ceremonies to many party workers who greeted him as "the next President."

Assails 'Waste.'

Gov. Landon asserted New Deal mismanagement and waste are "delaying the return of prosperity" and detailed his views on Government spending, relief, the farm problem and other major issues.

Accompanied to the dinner by Mrs. Landon and his daughter, Peggy Anne, the Governor was introduced to the crowd of more than 2,500 men and women from Kansas and other States by John D. M. Hamilton, Kansas national committeeman and counsel for the Republican national committee.

Hamilton told the assemblage that Landon "by his courage, by his honesty of purpose, by his clear and sympathetic understanding of our problems has given to the State of Kansas in her hour of need an administration of its affairs that merits the confidence, brings pride to the heart of every Kansan."

Crowd Applauds.

The crowd stood as the Governor arose to speak. Applause swept the big auditorium for a full minute.

Landon, wearing a tuxedo, smiled and waved his right hand in a familiar gesture.

Outbursts of applause frequently interrupted him.

The Governor was given an ovation again as he concluded his address.

Asserting New Deal mismanagement and waste are "delaying the return of prosperity," the Governor said what the country "really needs is better housekeeping."

Outlining his views on national problems for the first time since mention of his name as a Republican Presidential possibility, the man hailed by his proponents as the "Kansas Budget Balancer" declared:

"The clinching proof of the New Deal's failure is that almost as many persons are out of work today as there were when it first set up shop in 1933. * * * A nation will survive to correct its political mistakes. But if an unsound financial program is coupled with

'Grass Roots' Choice

GOV. EUGENE TALMADGE.

Georgian Is 'Indorsed' by 'Grass Root' Democrat Meeting.

By Franklyn Waltman.
A Staff Correspondent.

Macon, Ga., Jan. 29.—Bitterly denouncing President Roosevelt and the New Deal, a self-styled Jeffersonian Democratic convention, in a 4-hour session here today, adopted a platform calling for a revival of the Democratic 1932 principles and indorsed Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia as their standard-bearer.

What the indorsement of Gov. Talmadge means is not clear. It came about when Hugh Howell, chairman of the Georgia State Democratic ticket, at the end of an impassioned speech, shouted:

"Let's take old Gene Talmadge out of Georgia and let's ask him to let us use his name as a candidate for the Presidency, to go before the people of other States."

Declines Comment.

A few minutes later Howell asked all who favored that suggestion to yell "Yea!" There was a deafening shout. Howell declared he knew the convention favored "Old Gene" and he did not ask for the "noes." After the meeting several of those attending from other States said the vote did "not commit anyone to anything." They contended that there had been an informal agreement with Gov. Talmadge that the question of candidacies would not be brought up.

Gov. Talmadge declined to make any comment on the action of the "convention," which, incidentally, was filled with Georgia adherents of the Governor. Of the approximately 3,800 persons who attended the meeting, not more than 300 or 400 were from other Southern States—if that many. It has been impossible to obtain a registration list.

But whatever the significance of the indorsement of Gov. Talmadge, this meeting may go down in history, for probably there never has been a gathering south of the Potomac River in which a Democratic President was so bitterly assailed in such vitriolic language as was Mr. Roosevelt today.

Mrs. Roosevelt Assailed.

The President was portrayed as a breaker of his oath of office, as a "lawbreaker," a "Rasputin," a "Stalin" and as one seeking to spread communism throughout America. Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes was termed a "Chicago chinch bug," and PWA Administrator Harry Hopkins "a communistic commissar of relief."

Even Mrs. Roosevelt's name was brought into the fiery denunciations for her support of the Wagner-Costigan anti-lynching bill. Along with the President she was accused of "daring to encourage communism among American Negroes."

Speaker after speaker, for most

Nazis Will Push Drive on Jews, Minister Warns

Aid Links Semitic 'Pack' to Soviet on Eve of 3d Hitler Anniversary.

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, Jan. 29.—Germany served notice today it will continue its unrelenting drive against Jews in a strong restatement of Nazi principles on the eve of the third anniversary of Adolf Hitler's dictatorship.

Hans Frank, minister without portfolio, told the German academy's economic council:

"We do not care what the world says about our Jewish legislation."

He praised the Reichsfuehrer for settling the Jewish question "in such a dignified and objectively justified form" and warned that the Nazi regime would ruthlessly eradicate the "Jewish pack of bolshevistic preachers."

"Introduced Pestilence."

Foreign critics haven't the slightest idea about the vital necessities of the German people," Frank declared. "Such Jews as came to live among us showed their gratitude by introducing pestilence into our spiritual life."

National socialism is bringing a fourfold change in legal conceptions of the country, he asserted.

"We are putting the idea of a people in place of the idea of an institution as our conception of the state," the minister said.

"We are placing the common weal ahead of private gain.

"We are substituting the idea of a community built on blood affinity for the idea of a state as the sum total of its subjects.

To Ignore Consequences.

Future consequences will not stand in the way of the antisemitic campaign, Frank asserted.

"The experience we've had with Jews is such that no foreigner would criticize our legislation if he knew the facts," the minister told his audience.

"The Jew may do business in Germany unhampered, but he must under no circumstances deposit his intellectual excrements with us."

His warning to "Moscow" came from what he said were continued efforts to undermine what the national socialist state has done for civilization.

"Let those tremble who think they can apply bolshevik methods to our country," he cautioned. "Bolshevism is criminality."

Nazi law, the minister said, has taken account of five cardinal factors—blood, soil, honor, labor and the will to defend.

King Edward Acts at Threat Of New Crisis

Counter Attack Started Against Propaganda Laid to Rome.

By the Associated Press.

London, Jan. 29.—Great Britain's new King Edward VIII quickly attacked today the grave international problems surrounding his empire.

He had his busiest day, receiving distinguished foreign visitors, including representatives of Nazi Germany and anti-Nazi Austria. Observers said he was anxious to strengthen international relations.

He thanked them for their sympathy upon the death of his father and then engaged in a broad general discussion of state affairs.

Baldwin, Eden Confer.

Not only the King, but Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and Eden spent many hours conferring with visiting diplomats—here for the funeral of King George V yesterday.

The British government displayed increasing signs of irritation at what it termed continued Italian propaganda in Egypt and the middle East.

Abandoning protests and representations to Rome as a means of trying to halt the reported Fascist propaganda, government officials released a broadside against three recent statements assertedly broadcast from Rome, all of which they declared untrue.

The cabinet returned to work after the funeral of the King and whipped together defense budget estimates for Parliament.

Eden discussed with Pierre Etienne-Flandin, new French foreign minister, French fears that Germany is preparing for a Rhineland coup. It was stated authoritatively, however, that the matter was not discussed in Eden's earlier conference with Von Neurath.

British Minimize Fears.

The British view, it was learned in responsible quarters, is that French fears of an immediate Nazi move to re-occupy the demilitarized Rhineland are exaggerated, inasmuch as the zone is definitely a part of the Locarno Pact, which London feels Germany is unwilling to scrap.

The same diplomats who called on King Edward later separately saw Prime Minister Baldwin.

A more aggressive British attitude toward Italy was indicated by the vigor with which the British denied what they called radio reports broadcast from Rome and picked up in Ethiopia.

Referring to a report said to have been broadcast last night to the effect that two schools at Jijiga used by the Egyptian Red Cross as hospitals were actually barracks, the British stated their observer at Harar reported the schools were genuine hospitals and that not an armed man was in either of them.

Another Story Denied.

According to the British, another Rome report stated a Swedish Red Cross mission at Harar was really an Egyptian wireless station, at which all operators wore Red Cross insignia. This was vigorously denied.

Both broadcasts allegedly were sent out from Rome last night in English.

In connection with the scheduled presentation of the budget estimates to Parliament Tuesday, informed quarters said they believed a huge defense loan, possibly of 200,000,000 pounds (about $1,000,000,000), might be floated to improve the nation's armaments.

Bandit Gets $218 In Hotel Holdup

John Conn, 58, and Thomas Sellers, 52, both delegates from Iowa to the United Mine Workers Conventions, were relieved of $218 last night by an armed bandit who met them in a corridor of a down town hotel, robbed them at gun point, forced them to disrobe and barricaded them in the closet of their room.

The pair had returned to the hotel and were about to enter their room when a man in the corridor whipped out a gun and told them to precede him into the room. There he took $93 from Conn and $125 from Sellers. Then he made them take off their clothes and enter a closet, against the door of which he wedged a chair.

President Requests Congress To Raise 2¼ Billion for Bonus; Senate Speeds AAA Substitute

Treadway Indicts Wallace in House

Criticism of Court for 'Legalized Steal' Is Attacked.

By Robert C. Albright.

Submerging doubts as to constitutionality, the Senate Agriculture Committee yesterday ordered a favorable report on the Administration's broad AAA substitute, in the teeth of House Republican charges that the Secretary of Agriculture "ought to be impeached" for attacks on the Supreme Court.

The Senate committee voted 15 to 2 for the Wallace farm program of "dubious" validity, but 2 of the 15 "ayes" "reserved the right" to oppose the bill when it reaches the Senate floor.

Another meeting of the committee was called today to hear inflationist demands of Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat), of Oklahoma. Thomas wants the committee to include in its report recommendations that the President use expansionist powers he now possesses to raise farm and other prices.

No Changes in Committee.

The Administration's farm bill, giving Secretary Wallace discretionary powers as wide as or wider than those he employed under AAA, was reported without a single new change in the text. Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, joint author of the measure, was instructed to draft the report.

As Senate leaders cleared decks to consider the measure on Monday, Representative Allen T. Treadway, of Massachusetts, ranking minority member of the Ways and Means Committee, rose in the House chamber to indict Wallace for his vitriolic criticism of the high court's rice miller's ruling.

Treadway took particular exception to Wallace's charge that refund of $180,000,000 in impounded taxes to processors was "the greatest legalized steal in American history."

"Any official who will make a statement of that nature about the Supreme Court ought to be impeached," Treadway shouted.

Should "Take a Sprint."

"If he hasn't the decency and sense to apologize, he ought to be the one to 'take a walk' rather than some other folk I have referred to here recently. Walking would not be quick enough to get him out of office. He ought to go on a sprint, just as fast as the President can retire him."

Treadway said the Supreme Court's decision was brought upon the Administration by their "ill-conceived legislation," and that Wallace, "more than any one man, probably is responsible for the foolish, ill-advised and unconstitutional legislation" which the Supreme Court invalidated.

"I, for one, hold no brief for the present Administration — far from it," Treadway continued, "but if the head of the Nation will accept the advice of a modest, retiring Republican, I suggest that the President of the United States begin cleaning out his Cabinet, from the Secretary of Agriculture, up or down.

"I cannot conceive of anyone in official lige, particularly a member of the President's Cabinet, having the nerve, the gall and the ignorance to say that the Supreme Court brought about 'the greatest legalized steal in American history.'"

Treadway said Wallace deserves a medal "for ability to make in-

Marine Band Walkout Stirs Political Tempest in Capital

Snell Condemns Action; Darrow Resolution Demands Reason.

In the wake of the Navy-Marine walkout on the Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense, a political storm raged over the Capital yesterday.

As more than 50 delegates, representing 40 patriotic women's organizations throughout the Nation, were winding up their three-day session at the Mayflower Hotel, Republican Leader Bertrand H. Snell, of New York, condemned on the floor of the House the action of the Marine Band, which left Tuesday night's dinner without having played a single number and the cancellation of speeches by one Marine and two naval officers.

As the day drew to a close, Representative George P. Darrow, of the Seventh Pennsylvania District, introduced a resolution in the House calling on Secretary of the Navy Swanson to supply information as to why the Marine Band was recalled. The resolution was referred to the House Committee on Naval Affairs.

Snell's attack came a few minutes after the Secretary of the Navy, at a press conference, had expressed his complete approval of the officers' cancellation of their speeches as proper resentment of an attack on their Commander in Chief by Bainbridge Colby, former Secretary of State, who, in a talk Monday, criticized the Roosevelt Administration for "conspiracy to nullify the Constitution."

REP. VIRGINIA JENCKES, who canceled talk.

Stating she "resented the failure of the conference's officers to defend Mr. Roosevelt against the Colby attack," Representative Virginia Jenckes (Democrat), of Indiana, dealt the conference a further blow yesterday when she also canceled

D.C. Thousands Dance Tonight At Birthday Ball

Roosevelt to Celebrate at Home as Throngs Aid Paralysis Fund.

President Roosevelt will celebrate his birthday tonight with his own circle of close friends in the White House, while a galaxy of radio and stage stars entertain birthday guests in the ballroom of six of the Capital's leading hotels.

The Chief Executive will digress from his private entertaining to extend greetings over the radio to participants in the 7,000 birthday balls to be held throughout the country.

The broadcast, over more than 460 stations, the largest hookup ever attempted, will begin at 11:30 p. m. The President's greetings will be followed by dance music from Washington, College Park, Md., Chicago, New York and San Francisco. The broadcast from College Park will be from the ball of the Rossbourg Club, social club at the University of Maryland.

Guests at the President's own party will be his intimates during the days when he was Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and Democratic Vice Presidential candidate in 1920.

One of the group, however, is in the Naval Hospital recovering from illness. He is Louis McHenry Howe. The others will visit him before the birthday dinner at the White House.

Guests at White House.

The White House guests will be Thomas Lynch and Stanley Prenosil, of New York; James Sullivan, of Boston; Kirke Simpson, of Washington; Stephen Early and Marvin H. McIntyre, of the White House secretariat; Miss Marion Dickerman and Nancy Cook, of New York; Miss Marguerite Lehand and Grace Tully, personal secretaries to the President, and Miss Margaret Durand, secretary to Howe.

An evening of activity, beginning with the White House dinner, is in store for Mrs. Roosevelt, who will visit all the birthday balls in the Capital.

Leaving the White House about 10 p. m. Mrs. Roosevelt will go to the Raleigh, then to the Willard, Washington and Mayflower, finishing at the Shoreham and Wardman Park.

Move Begun at Parley to Unseat Green; Victory Scored on Autonomy.

The last gavel of the day cracked amid general pandemonium at a roaring second-day session of the convention of the United Mine Workers of America yesterday—a session that had seen the following developments:

1. A pledge by Senator Joseph F. Guffey (Democrat), Pennsylvania, to continue battling for "the great humanitarian principles" of the Guffey-Snyder coal act should the Supreme Court declare it unconstitutional.

Districts Score Victory.

2. Beginning of a movement to unseat William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, by removal of his rank as representative of the United Mine Workers.

3. A bitter cat call-marked battle by delegates from "provisional districts" for self-government and election of their own officials rather than continuing under of officials appointed by John L. Lewis, the union president, and his executive board.

This battle, during which Lewis was called "a dictator" by an excited delegate, ended in a temporary parliamentary victory for the provisional districts. They had shouted all afternoon for a roll call vote on the acceptance of a committee report which follows Lewis' recommendations that officers for provisional districts be appointed, not elected, until financial recovery in such districts is complete.

Lewis Makes Plea.

In a standing vote on acceptance of the report as a whole, 1,014 voted in favor of its acceptance and 602 against it. However, since but 30 per cent of the convention is needed to secure a roll call vote, and 602 votes constitute more than 30 per cent of the 1,716 delegates present, the dissenters won the right to a roll call vote, which will be taken today.

The temporary victory of the dissenters, apparently doomed to defeat today on a roll call vote, came as a surprise to listeners that Letter to Byrns Offers No New Tax Plan or Other Method.

Inflationists Hint New Money Fight

Bond Delay Until July 1 Forecast 'to Keep Deficit Down.'

By Felix Bruner.

President Roosevelt late yesterday asked Congress to appropriate $2,249,178,375 to pay the soldiers' bonus.

The request was in the form of a letter to Speaker Byrns. No suggestion for taxes or concerning the method of raising the money was contained in the letter.

Beyond a mere announcement that the letter had been sent and the amounts asked, the White House declined to comment. Byrns had left his office before the letter arrived and had not seen it.

The Speaker said, however, that he would refer it to the House Appropriations Committee, of which Representative Buchanan (Democrat), of Texas, is chairman.

The bonus bill, providing for the issuance of bonds to veterans in amounts equaling the face value of their compensation certificates and exchangeable for money after June 15, was passed by both houses over President Roosevelt's veto, but it contained no provision for raising the money. It was expected to be followed by an appropriation bill similar to the one asked in President Roosevelt's letter.

The huge cost of administering the bonus, above the actual payment, was indicated by a request in the President's letter for an appropriation of $3,500,000 for expenses of the Veterans' Administration and $8,676,375 for similar expenses of the Treasury in administering the law.

White House Statement.

The White House statement announcing that a request for the bonus appropriation had been made follows:

"The President today, in a letter addressed to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, submitted supplemental estimates of appropriations totaling $2,249,178,375, for the consideration of the Congress.

"At the same time, the President transmitted a letter by Charles H. Fullaway, administrative assistant to the acting director of the budget, explaining the estimates and the various amounts the Government would require in order to carry out the provisions of the adjusted compensation payment act.

"For administrative expenses of the Veterans' Administration, equipment, rentals and other necessary expenses, to enable the Veterans' Administration to perform the duties required by the act, $5,500,000 was estimated. To establish an adjusted service certificate fund, to provide for the payment of the face value of the service certificates authorized under the act of 1936, $2,237,000,000 was estimated.

"For expenditure under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, including the employment of necessary personnel, rental of quarters, supplies and materials, printing and engraving, and such other services as may be necessary to carry out the pro-

Flier Sights Body Of Rainier Climber

Seattle, Jan. 29 (AP).—The body of Delmar Fadden, 23, mountain climber missing since January 13, was found late today at the 13,000-foot elevation on Mount Rainier, victim of an attempt to scale the 14,408-foot peak in January, a feat never accomplished.

The body was sighted from an airplane by Ome Daiber, Seattle mountaineer. Last week Daiber led volunteer searchers afoot above the 10,000-foot level and found some of the missing young man's belongings.

Daiber believed Mount Rainier National Park service rangers would ascend the peak to recover Fadden's body.

Fadden is the thirteenth person to die in efforts to scale the snow-capped peak. Its crevasse-cut heights have lured 11 men and 2 women to their deaths in the last 40 years.

Razor Battle in Prison's Bath Described by Slayer of Loeb

Convict Says 'Thrill Murderer' Hounded Him With Offers of Money and Easy Jobs; 'My Life Was Miserable,' He Tells Amazed Officials.

By the Associated Press.

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 29.—Under a first-degree murder charge, James Day, a convict, was held in solitary confinement tonight while State and county investigators checked his graphic 2,000-word account of the razor slaying of Richard Loeb, "thrill killer" of Bobby Franks in 1924.

Day's statement to Dr. John A. Larson, psychiatrist at Stateville Prison, shocked authorities in its allegations of sordidness behind the grim walls and brought renewed expressions of determination to clean up all angles of Tuesday's bathroom murder.

The 23-year-old larcenist accused his victim of hounding him with offers of money, prison "soft snaps" and other favors to induce him to submit to improper advances.

A coroner's jury found Loeb and been slashed to death—56 lacerations were counted on his body—in a fight. The jurors labeled the slaying "homicide" and recommended Day be held for the Will County grand jury.

Prosecutor William McCabe made arrangements for an interview with Day tomorrow, at which no prison officials would be present. He said he did not expect grand jury action before March.

"We are going to treat this like any other murder and there's no need to summon the grand jurors before that time," said McCabe.

The legal development was overshadowed, however, by Day's sensational account. It was made public by A. L. Bowen, State director of welfare and Gov. Henry Horner's personal representative in the inquiry, along with the warning that it did not hang together completely.

At the inquest, Day stood on his constitutional rights, and was silent. Before he was led, semi-hysterical back to the prison, he cried out:

"My life has been miserable here ever since I entered the place."

Pleading he was only defending himself from an unnatural attack, Day's statement said he met Loeb in the bathroom attached to the former officers' dining hall of the prison yesterday by appointment. He asserted Loeb held the razor and demanded that he submit to him.

Crazed Chauffeur Kills Cook, Wounds Employer, Ends Life

By the United Press.

Cleveland, Jan. 29.—An insane chauffeur, Frank Pozsgai, late today shot and killed Miss Lena Schengbier, 43, and then committed suicide after critically wounding his wealthy employer, John A. Kling, president of the Cleveland Building Supply Co.

Miss Schengbier, the Kling family cook, died at St. Luke's Hospital of abdominal bullet wounds suffered during an altercation with Pozsgai in the kitchen of the Kling mansion in suburban Shaker Heights earlier in the afternoon.

According to police, Kling ran into the kitchen to learn the cause of a sudden burst of gunfire. He found Pozsgai standing in the middle of the room and the cook lying on the floor with a bullet wound in the stomach.

The aged industrialist attempted to wrest the gun from Pozsgai's hand, and was shot in the hip and clubbed on the head.

The chauffeur then ran to the garage, leaped into a car and raced the motor, the servants said, apparently with the intention of committing suicide by asphyxiation. He evidently changed his mind, however, and shot himself.

Kling was taken to St. Luke's Hospital. His condition is grave.

The chauffeur had been in the family's employ for 12 years. It is believed his reason snapped when he learned he was to be discharged.

Kling is the retired president of the Cleveland Builders Supply Co., one of the largest firms in the city, which he founded 45 years ago. He retired six months ago.

Girl Burned as Fire Nemesis Pursues Sorely-Beset Family

The gods of fire, whose wrath has killed one son, blinded another and consumed his house, again visited in angry mood the family of Walter Montz, a relief worker of Branchville, Md., yesterday, burning the back and arms of his 11-year-old daughter, Dora.

In the single room where Montz, his wife and six children now make their home with barely enough space to move around, Dora backed against a stove as she was dressing the smallest child, Gary, 4.

Dora's dress caught fire and the flames were shooting along the length of her body as her mother, Mrs. Lillian Montz, fought with the terrified girl to tear burning clothing from her scarred flesh.

In her panic the girl fought back, Mrs. Montz afterward said, and it was with great difficulty the mother was able to save her child from the death that took her first born in Kalamazoo, Mich., 12 years ago.

Dora was taken to Providence Hospital by the Bladensburg rescue squad. Attendants last night said the girl's burns were severe, but that she was expected to live.

In Kalamazoo the Montz's first child, Roderick, then aged 3, was playing near a grass fire. His clothing and that of his younger brother, Pryor, then aged 2, caught fire. Roderick died. Pryor, now 15 years old, was blinded for two years.

Some years later, Montz, a steam fireman by trade, moved his family to Douglass, Nev., for their health. There the home in which they lived was burned to the ground.

The fire in Dora's clothing also

Leaders Worry Over Dissention In Both Parties

Smith-Talmadge Defection Alarms Democrats as Borah Stirs G. O. P.

Dissention within the ranks of both major political parties was causing leaders considerable concern yesterday.

With Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia and Alfred E. Smith, of New York, "taking a walk," it was becoming evident that the Democratic National Convention will not be the peaceful love feast usually expected at a convention of the political "ins."

The Republicans were faced with a growing battle among Presidential aspirants for convention votes, a battle that is expected to disrupt the peace and harmony necessary to presentation of a united front against the New Deal.

Senator Borah's statement in his New York speech that certain unnamed Republican leaders might lead the party to defeat was viewed with some concern.

Smith, replying to the speech of Senator Robinson, challenged President Roosevelt to answer his attack on the New Deal made at the Liberty League dinner here.

In New York, according to the Associated Press, former Gov. Smith, commenting on Robinson's radio speech, said "there is only one man who should try to answer." This was an open challenge to President Roosevelt.

Smith in a statement said:

"Poor Joe—I am sorry for him. They put him on a tough spot. He did the best he knew how, but it was no answer. As I said in my speech at the Liberty League dinner, there is only one man who should try to answer me.

"No, I won't make any reply to what Senator Robinson said, but I will say a few words about my old friend Joe. I was an unhappy warrior to hear him read off his speech, over which he stumbled so that I felt sure it was canned and did not come from the heart of the Joe Robinson that I have known.

"Its purpose was to becloud the issue and, while I won't reply to him, I want the issue kept clear. Of course, I said I was for farm relief—I still am. In my Omaha speech in 1928 I proposed a constitutional and effective method. That doesn't keep the American people from rising up to protest against a silly and unconstitutional plan.

"Of course I said that in war time we wrapped up the Constitution and went under war-time powers. That doesn't keep the American people from demanding obedience to the Constitution in times of peace.

"Of course I said that I thought there should be a dictator of Federal public works with full power. Federal public works are the proper concern of the Federal Government. That doesn't keep the American people from protesting against Federal interference with the individual lives of our citizens.

"When he called the roll of who was at the Liberty League dinner I happened to see the great Democratic Governor of the State of Maryland, Albert C. Ritchie the candidate of the Democratic Party for the Presidency, John W. Davis; the great Democratic Governor of the State of Massachusetts, Joseph B. Ely, and hundreds of other upstanding leaders of Democracy, Northern and Southern alike, who are unlike some of my old friends who feel forced to give lip service to the New Deal and seem unable to put country above party."

Effort to Arouse Race Prejudice Marks Political Gathering of Southern Democrats.

By Franklyn Waltman

MACON, Ga., Jan. 29.—Amid the color and fervently bitter oratory which marked the four-hour convention of Southern Democrats to rally opposition to President Roosevelt, the apparently carefully studied effort to arouse race prejudices stands out as the most significant and the most disturbing.

There is no doubt that those seeking to lead a Southern rebellion against President Roosevelt have decided to make the Negro an innocent football of their plans just as the religious issue was raised in 1928. Their attacks are directed also against the Jew and whoever has a name that is not Anglo-Saxon. Moreover, it is not a whispering campaign. There is little subterfuge about it. The campaign is carried on, baldly and brazenly, from the public platform in open daylight.

* * * *

As those participating in the so-called "Convention of the Jeffersonian Democrats" reached the Macon municipal auditorium they found in their chairs copies of a newspaper titled "The Georgia Woman's World." On the right-hand side of the front page was a photograph of Mrs. Roosevelt in evening clothes, with a mustached Negro escorting her, hand on her elbow. Beneath the photograph it was stated: "Mrs. Roosevelt is shown with Edgar Brown escorting her to her car after she had talked to Negro women at Howard University in Washington last week." Brown is described as a Negro press agent of CCC.

On the left-hand side of the front page was a photograph of Representative Mitchell, Negro Democrat from Chicago. Set in two-column measure is reprinted what purports to be a speech delivered by the colored Congressman declaring that "Mr. Roosevelt has appointed more Negroes to responsible governmental positions than the last three Republican Administrations taken together."

* * * *

In the center of the front page, the newspaper had this to say:

"Notwithstanding the fact that he was elected by the Democratic Party, President Roosevelt has put in office and as members of his Cabinet Republicans, Communists, Socialists and Negroes. He has permitted Negroes to come to the White House banquet table and sleep in White House beds. He has appointed 13 times more Negroes than any Republican President this country has ever had.

"One woud think and expect him to at least put Democrats in his Cabinet, but instead he put Ickes, a Republican, and listens to Frankfurter, Tugwell, Epstein, Dr. Rubinow, Zimmerman and others whose birth, training and thought lie wholly outside of the United States."

* * * *

Anything that might be expected to arouse Southern prejudices against the Negro has been put on by this publication, even at the expense of distortion. Photographs of Mrs. Roosevelt attending functions at such Government institutions as Howard University are presented without mention of the official nature of such institutions.

But the worst piece of distortion is a photograph of a Negro labeled in bold type: "Confidential secretary to President Roosevelt." Beneath the picture it is asserted that Fred Pryor, a Negro in the Navy Department, had been assigned "to the Executive offices in the White House for duty as a clerk to Louis McHenry Howe"—who has been at the Naval Hospital in Washington since last spring. This newspaper has been widely circulated throughout the South.

* * * *

Even the leaders of the revolting Democrats feel some shame at such tactics. John H. Kirby, the chairman of the meeting, publicly disavowed on behalf of his organization any responsibility for the distribution of the newspaper, but he added, apparently in order not to offend anyone, that he supposed such literature "could not be greatly condemned in old Dixie."

But even Chairman Kirby was silent when a few minutes later the noted Southern author, Thomas Dixon, assailed as "the worst communistic organization in America" the Association for Advancement of Colored People for daring to appeal to the "convention" by telegraph to make a declaration in behalf of the constitutional rights of Negroes. He termed Mrs. Roosevelt's support of the Wagner-Costigan anti-lynching bill as "an infamous and outrageous insult" to the people of the South.

Nor did Mr. Kirby dissent when that oratorical firebrand from Louisiana, the Rev. Gerald K. L. Smith, compared New Deal activities with Federal support after the Civil War of carpet-baggers under "a Negro governor" in Louisiana and declared the Roosevelts were seeking to make Communists out of American Negroes.

Southerners in the press section expressed disgust with this aspect of the meeting. Undoubtedly the better class Southerner has no sympathy with such tactics—but they had better look out or there will be another Ku Klux Klan operating under their nose.

* * *

President Roosevelt's friends down here contend that the Republicans are supplying the money for the Talmadge-Kirby campaign. If the Republicans are, they must be crazy, for the result of this type of campaign will only consolidate the Negroes of the Northern States behind the President and may throw into his column the votes of some doubtful States.

AAA Substitute Voted, 15 to 2, By Senate Unit

"It looks like I'm in danger," he observed laughingly to reporters.

He appeared confused over just how impeachment proceedings are instituted, and asked reporters if that wasn't a Senate function. Correspondents explained that any House member could impeach an official, but that Treadway had not actually moved for impeachment.

Passing over the incident, Secretary Wallace discussed the Administration's revised farm plans, now hinging on passage of the bill reported yesterday by the Senate Agriculture Committee.

With the possible exception of cotton, Wallace said an effective control program covering 1936 crops can be moved into operation if the Senate bill is enacted within 30 days. With cotton nearing planting time, he said there might be a "tight squeeze" in regard to that commodity.

The Administration's farm chieftain estimated the cost of the new program at $500,000,000 a year, approximately the cost of AAA. He said it would cost more if the domestic allotment method is undertaken in addition.

Under the new program, he said the Administration hopes to remove 30,000,000 acres from intensive crop production, and even then there might be a surplus, which operation of his ever-normal granary plan might help to alleviate.

Wallace Laughs It Off.

Undaunted by Treadway's statement, he repeated that he considered the refund of $180,000,000 in impounded AAA taxes "the greatest legal steal in American history," observing that while the Supreme Court seemed to believe the processors paid the taxes, it was his opinion that the consumers paid them.

"In spirit," he insisted, "our method of operation has always been just as the Supreme Court would like to see it."

Then, explaining the plan of State AAA co-operation to be instituted under the new bill after 1938, he took another sly jab at the court.

In two years," he said, "we will have ready all of the necessary red tape to carry out the Supreme Court's desires."

He emphatically predicted that the needed enabling acts, to place the State plan into operation, would be obtained from all of the "significant States" in the time required.

He added:

"I am sure that the various county committees of farmers will be able to bring about an economic democracy, and check any political democracy that appeals to emotions."

Three Bureaus at Work.

Wallace confirmed reports that not only the Agriculture Department, but the Treasury and Justice Departments also, are working on retroactive legislation to recover the $180,000,000 in impounded processing taxes turned back to the processors by the Supreme Court's rice millers' decision.

In many cases, he said, return of the taxes would amount to more than a miller's normal year's profits. Reports persist that the new legislation would take the form of excess profits taxes.

The two Senators voting "no" on yesterday's favorable report on the Administration's farm bill were Senate Majority Leader Charles L. McNary, who believes the new program, like the AAA, will certainly be invalidated by the courts, and Senator Peter Norbeck (Republican), of South Dakota. It was Senator James P. Pope (Democrat), of Idaho, who moved to report the bill.

Two Senators were absent—Henrik Shipstead, Minnesota Farmer-Laborite, and Lewis B. Schwellenbach (Democrat), of Washington.

Two Reserve Voting Privilege.

The two other Senators who voted to report the measure, but reserved the right to vote as they pleased when the measure reaches the Senate floor, were Chairman Ellison D. Smith, of the Agriculture Committee, and Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas Republican.

Said Senator Smith:

"The general spirit of the committee, I think, is that the members are not very sanguine as to whether this—in the light of the Supreme Court's decision—meets the issue.

"Personally, I have grave doubts as to its constitutionality in its present form. At first I thought it constitutional, but after hearing those supposed to be versed in the law, I have my doubts. Certain powers that are given and certain objectives named bring it very nearly to the line outlined by the Supreme Court."

Said Senator Capper:

"There is no doubt in my mind about the need for farm legislation. Wheat growers in my State particularly need assistance to overcome recent unfavorable crop conditions. But I am not convinced that this plan is constitutional. I have said I will not support it unless I believe it is."

Senator Bankhead alone of the committee members said he had no doubts about constitutionality.

"If the committee's majority is any indication, it will pass the Senate overwhelmingly," he predicted.

Financing Plan in Doubt.

Bankhead said he did not know how the money to finance the plan would be raised, and reiterated: "Ask Henry Morgenthau about that."

Thomas, together with a representative of Father Charles E. Coughlin, will go before the committee this morning in support of the Thomas plan to incorporate in the committee's report a recommendation that the President use his present powers to expand the currency and further devalue the dollar, in an effort to raise farm prices.

Late yesterday, Representative J. Will Taylor (Republican), of Tennessee, introduced in the House what he called a "constitutional" substitute for the Administration's farm plan, by "establishing a system of Federal subsidies which will enable each State to better co-operate in a nation-wide program of soil conservation and preservation."

Move Begun at Parley to Unseat Green; Victory Scored on Autonomy.

Taking the platform to analyze and defend his position after a score of delegates had made brief, but heated pleas for autonomy in their districts, Lewis used all the magic of his sonorous tone in trying to convince the dissenting group. He pleaded quietly, arguing earnestly and attacking violently by turns. Shaking his mass of dark hair, jerking his forefinger, slapping his small plump hands, his eyes glinting under his great gloomy brows, the head of the most powerful single union in the country used every wile of force and suasion to win acceptance of the committee report, and to stave off the autonomy plea. When this failed, he stalked the platform thoughtfully, chewing an unlit cigar.

The morning session was less dramatic, except for the huge ovation given Senator Guffey when he pledged to continue to battle for the miners' rights despite any possible adverse Supreme Court decision.

Protection to Miners.

The Senator termed the Guffey-Snyder act a law which would "result in the conservation of a great national resource, guarantee to the men who work in the mines both decent wage rates and working conditions," and protect "the owners and operators of the bituminous coal mines not only against their own follies, but also against the ruthless competition of their fellow operators, as well as domination by consumers and transportation groups who for years had made the industry an object for aggrandizement in their own selfish interests," to assure "a dependable coal supply to the Nation between capital and labor."

Senator Guffey then paid high tribute to President Roosevelt and the union's leaders for their aid in restoring "economic liberty" to the people in the industry. He criticized the "powerful minority" seeking "to discredit this law and to block its operation by obtaining court injunctions," expressed hope that the Supreme Court would declare the measure constitutional, and failing that, pledged himself to continue the battle.

Green Removal Sought.

The move to deal a blow at William Green, the A. F. of L. president, came under consideration after the Fayette City, Pa., local had handed in a resolution asking his removal as a mine union delegate to the A. F. of L. because of his crafts-union position, which is directly against the industrial-union idea of the mine men.

Lewis has argued that mass production industrial workers should be unionized, thus vastly increasing the A. F. of L.'s numerical strength, now 3,000,000, possibly to nearly 30,000,000, the total of employed workers in the Nation. Green has held out against this program.

Upon Green's return from a Miami session of the executive council of the A. F. of L., probably next week, he may appear at the mine workers' meeting, it was believed, to answer his critics. If he were removed as delegate from the mine workers to the federation, or if his union card were taken away, it was predicted other unions would quickly step in to protect him.

In answering the numerous demands for autonomy, Lewis reviewed the United Mine Workers' history through scenes of strike, terror and bloodshed, and through what he termed "the shameful times" when elected officials of the districts that are now provisional districts embezzled funds, made bad investments and otherwise "betrayed and besmirched" the union's record.

Pension Inquiry Urged in Congress

By the Associated Press

A Congressional investigation of groups promoting old-age pension plans was asked in a resolution introduced yesterday by Representative Bell (Democrat), Missouri.

"For several years various individuals and groups of people have conceived and promoted numerous schemes and plans under the pretext of obtaining pensions for the aged and needy," Bell said. "Now several groups of fraudulent promoters are engaging themselves in working the so-called pension racket."

The Bell resolution said:

"These schemers and promoters are collecting from the old people of this country vast sums of money.

"Some of these schemes, including the so-called Townsend plan, are wholly visionary, fantastic and impossible of fulfillment."

Foreign Trade Council Is Headed by Farrell

New York, Jan. 29 (AP).—The incorporation of the National Foreign Trade Council, with James A. Farrell, director of the United States Steel Corporation, as chairman, was announced tonight at the council's annual dinner meeting.

Others elected to the board of directors are Gerard Swope, of the General Electric Co., and Walter C. Teagle, of the Standard Oil Co.

The council was formed in 1914 to expound commercial policies and to aid the Government promote American foreign trade.

Veteran Pledges Bonus To Pay $75 Fraud Fine

Milwaukee, Jan. 29 (AP).—A former service man's pledge of part of his bonus to pay a $75 fine was accepted by Judge George E. Page in District Court today.

George Angle asked the judge to grant him until June 15 to pay the fine after being found guilty on a charge of defrauding the county of $69.40 worth of relief supplies. He said he would be able to pay the fine when he got his bonus.

President Asks Bonus Cash

visions of the act, $6,678,375 was estimated."

The fact that no suggestion for new tax legislation was made by the President was taken to indicate that the Administration expected to borrow the money. Secretary Morgenthau already has indicated that raising of the money would be by "orthodox" methods.

Although the law provides that redemption of bonds issued to veterans shall begin June 15, President Roosevelt already has indicated that it probably will be impossible to distribute the first bonds before July 1 and that destribution will not be complete for six weeks thereafter.

Delay in issuing the bonds will throw the expense of the bonus into the next fiscal year, beginning July 1, and thus estimated expenditures for the present year will not be upset. Passage of the bonus threw overboard President Roosevelt's budget calculations for next year.

Action of the President in making his request in the form of a letter to the Speaker of the House was unusual. Such requests usually go to the Capitol from the Budget Bureau. The White House explained, however, that a letter had been transmitted from the Budget Bureau to Speaker Byrns explaining the amounts estimated by the President as necessary.

While it is the evident intention of the Administration to finance bonus payments through borrowing, some members of the House are expected to attempt to upset this plan. It was explained that tax provisions ordinarily would not be contained in an appropriation bill, but that if they should be agreed upon they would be contained in a third measure.

It was also recalled that Representative Patman (Democrat), of Texas, and other inflationists had indicated they would use the forthcoming appropriation bill to advance their contention that the bonus should be paid through the issuance of new money. It is expected that a fight of considerable more proportions than the argument during the present session over the bonus itself would develop over the method of payment.

Congress is faced with three possibilities, all of which are expected to be put forward:

1. Financing of the bonus through borrowing.
2. Enactment of new tax legislation of sufficient proportions to raise the money.
3. Issuance of "printing press" money to pay the bill.

Representative Josh Lee (Democrat), Oklahoma, is expected to offer a bill to pay the bonus in greenbacks, and Representative James G. Scrugham (Democrat), Nevada, has a proposal to issue notes against free gold and silver in the Treasury. The latter is similar to a proposal by Senator Thomas, defeated in the Senate.

Senator McCarran (Democrat), Nevada, has suggested that the Treasury buy silver up to its authorized limit and monetize the metal at $1.29 an ounce. He said that the profit from this transaction would pay half the cost of the bonus. He suggested the remainder be paid in Treasury notes.

The Senate has twice voted down inflationary plans, but some Senators have indicated that their opposition was due to the fact that an attempt was being made to include the money-raising schemes in the bonus bill instead of in a separate measure.

Meanwhile, Government agencies directly involved were going ahead at top speed with the mechanics of paying the bonus.

Hundreds to Get Work.

Director Alvin W. Hall, of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, said that the task of turning out 38,000,000 baby bonds by mid-June or shortly afterward would require the hiring of 330 extra employes. The first of these new employes will be taken on in two or three weeks, shortly after the first bonds come off the press.

The Veterans' Administration, faced with the tremendous task of handling 3,500,000 applications and computing the amount due each, expects to expand its working force by upward of 2,500 clerks and interviewers.

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, announced he will give a 15-minute radio talk at 10:45 tonight to answer questions concerning the adjusted compensation act. It will be carried over the Columbia network.

Personnel increases in the General Accounting Office and at least two Treasury bureaus, the Public Debt Service and the Office of Accounts and Deposits, were held likely, but officials said it was too early to estimate the number of persons who would be needed.

Tax Talk Increases

Meanwhile, there is more and more conversation among members of Congress concerning the possibility of new tax legislation. Complete silence on the part of the Administration was taken as an indication that it hoped this troublesome problem could be postponed until after election. No statement has been forthcoming except that the question is being studied.

Both Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee and Chairman Doughton of the House Ways and Means Committee said they could not make predictions at this time, but Doughton suggested that a rounded tax bill at the next session might be advisable.

While bonus legislation, except for preliminary cost of administration, will not affect the Government's financial situation this year, farm legislation, expected to be enacted within the next few weeks, will vitally affect expenditures immediately. It is estimated that such exependitures might increase the current deficit by $800,000,000.

Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, settled the question of whether the Government would derive revenue from income tax on the bonus payments themselves. He ruled that such payments would be exempt from taxation.

District of Columbia Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, announced it has set up machinery to expedite filing bonus of applications at departmental headquarters, 1624 H street northwest. Veterans will be fingerprinted and their questions answered by a staff under supervision of Commander Edward K. Inman and O. W. Hollingsworth, service officer.

At least one organization is planning to hold a formal celebration of passage of the bonus bill. The Knights of Columbus will hold open house Saturday from 7:30 p. m., and has invited all Washington veterans to attend. Representatives of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Catholic War Veterans and other patriotic bodies will attend.

Hummer Aided Recluse Killing, Slayer Testifies

Colored Man Relates Story of Brush Murder at Fairfax Trial.

Henry Edwards, colored, took the stand in the murder trial of Hugh Hummer, 50-year-old Falls Church plumber, in the Fairfax County (Va.) courthouse yesterday and insisted that the man who helped him kill Truman Brush, 76-year-old Falls Church recluse last summer, was none other than Hummer, his former employer.

Edwards has entered a plea of guilty to a murder charge in the slaying of Brush.

Circuit Judge Walter T. McCarthy questioned Edwards on several points in his testimony, accusing him of being untruthful, then asked:

Several Confessions.

"You tell the jury that Hummer helped you kill Brush?"

Edwards replied at once:

"Yes sir."

Previously defense attorneys in cross-examining the 58-year-old Negro brought from him an admission that several confessions to the crime he made to Fairfax County police following his arrest last September implicated two other men as well at Hummer.

Edwards then was asked if he could identify his signature on the alleged confessions. The Negro replied that he couldn't be certain whether the signatures were his. He denied in response to a question by Judge McCarthy that he had been promised a lighter sentence for his testimony.

Edwards testified that the day before Brush was killed Hummer had come to him with a plan for robbing the recluse of money believed to be hidden in his house.

Hummer and Edwards, according to the Negro's testimony, waylaid Brush as he was walking along a wooded path leading from his house to the home of Hummer, who was a tenant of the murdered man.

Both he and Hummer struck with rocks, Edwards said, and Hummer asked the recluse where his money was hidden. Edwards quoted Brush as pleading with Hummer for his life, asking him if he had not "always been good to him."

Hummer, according to Edwards' testimony, answered Brush's pleas by threatening him with death until Brush told him he had some money hidden beneath a doorstep of the house and under a couch.

The Negro said Hummer then struck Brush again and then went to search the house for cash. Later, Edwards said, Hummer returned and said he had been unable to find the money, though the Negro also testified that the following day Hummer had given him some cash in a tin can.

Says Hummer Found Body.

John Vandermark, a neighbor of Hummer, told of the defendant coming to his home the day after the alleged murder and reporting that he had found Brush lying near the path and saying:

"The old man seems to be dead." Vandermark said he summoned the Falls Church town sergeant, A. P. Shumate, who began the investigation and later called his attention to what appeared to be blood stains on Hummer's shoes.

The case is the first to be prosecuted by Paul E. Brown, Fairfax County's new Commonwealth's attorney, since his election January 1.

Film Dance Director's Wife Gets $500 Alimony

Los Angeles, Jan. 29 (AP).—Margarita Levy won a divorce and $500 a month alimony today from Samuel Levy, film dance director known as Samuel Lee. They have a daughter, Patricia Lee Levy, 4.

Mrs. Levy, the former Margarita Murray, of the New York stage, had asked $1,150 a month, saying her husband earned from $18,000 to $30,000 a year.

Mrs. Levy said she was a nervous wreck trying to induce him to stop gambling.

Asked if she hadn't gambled along with Lee, she replied:

"Not because I wanted to—he forced me to."

Mother Who Drowned Child to Die in Chair.

Newburgh, N. Y., Jan. 29(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Sherwood, 27, today heard herself sentenced to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing Prison the week of March 16, and accepted it with the same apathy that marked her attitude during her trial for drowning her child.

County Judge Jonathan D. Wilson pronounced sentence. Mrs. Sherwood's conviction of first-degree murder by an Orange County jury made the death sentence mandatory. The verdict included a recommendatoin of mercy, which will be sent to Gov. Herbert H. Lehman.

The former burlesque dancer will be taken to the Sing Sing death house within two days, jail attaches said.

Bus Crash, Killing 4, Blamed on Carelessness

Oklahoma City, Jan. 29 (AP).—A school bus accident on an icy highway today near Tupelo, which killed the driver, three children and injured five others of the 26 occupants, was termed "a needless sacrifice to carelessness and thoughtlessness" tonight by Highway Safety Director J. M. Gentry. Saying he was advised the bus traveled without chains, Gentry dispatched an assistant to investigate. The bus went into a ditch. The victims were Alene Drennon, 17; Billie Parigan, 14; Alene Hagar, 12, and the driver, Roy Harbour, 47.

Firestone Plant Idle as Union Man Is Ousted

'Sit-Down' Protest Ties Up Machines; Reinstatement Demands Ignored.

By the Associated Press.

Akron, Ohio, Jan. 29.—While 1,000 workers of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. remained idle in a "sit down" protest, the company refused tonight to reinstate a union worker whose suspension caused the passive resistance.

W. R. Murphy, Firestone labor superintendent, said a union committe asked that Clayton Dicks be returned to work pending an impartial investigation of a fist fight with a nonunion worker last Wednesday after an argument over wage rates.

Dick's suspension for the remainder of the week cannot be revoked, Murphy said he told the committee.

Workers in the tire building department began a protest movement against Dicks' suspension late yesterday by sitting idle at their machines.

As shifts were changed today, some of the workers left and others remained, with the result that about twice the normal number of workers held places at the machines.

With this surplus of men in the building, part of the protest became converted from "sit down" to "stand up." Conversation and an occasional game of checkers helped pass the time.

This morning a few wives of the workers appeared at the building to ask where their husbands were, and others telephoned, but when word of the "sit down" had been passed around, the queries stopped.

A restaurant in the building provided workers with meals. Smoking was permitted in the restaurant, but not in the shop.

Rich Sportsman Commits Suicide

New York, Jan. 29 (AP).—Despite an income of about $5,000 a month, James Gore King Lawrence, 41, society sportsman and world traveler, apparently decided today that life was not worth living.

His aunt, hearing a shot, found him dead in his bachelor apartment on Park avenue, his head blown off with one of the expensive shotguns in his collection.

Authorities pronounced the death suicide. He had been under treatment for a nervous disorder.

Four years ago his mother, Mrs. Katherine Lawrence, fell to her death from the window of a hospital where she was a patient. She had returned from a walk with her son and waved to him before plunging from a fifth floor window.

Lawrence's family was distinguished for many years on the American turf. The Lawrence realization, a Belmont Park stake, was named for his late father.

scorched the rompers of aGry, but the baby escaped injury.

Montz left the house before the accident to go to work on a relief project at Riverdale School. The other children, Pryor, Ardeth, 9; Donald, 8, and Newell, 6, had gone to school.

Family in One Room.

Montz came to Branchville about three years ago. His meager resources have dwindled to the point where it was necessary this winter for him to take over a vacant house in Branchville.

The house was virtually without window glass. The windows were plugged up with cardboard. There was only one stove. So Montz moved his family into one room of the place where they sleep on two beds and where the heat from the stove is sufficient to keep them warm.

Montz was a soldier in France during the World War. With the $800 due him on his bonus certificate he expects to make a down payment on a home.

Vestris Ship Claims Settled at $500,000

New York, Jan. 29 (AP).—Claims growing out of the sinking of the steamship Vestris in 1928 with a loss of 110 lives were settled today for approximately $500,000, covering loss of life, cargo and injuries.

The payment agreed to by the Liverpool, Brazil & Riverplate Steam Navigation Co., Inc., operator, and Lamport & Holt, Ltd., owner of the ship, contrasted with original claims for more than $2,000,000 filed against the companies and the $81,000 which they claimed was their total responsibility because of limited liability.

The order signed by Judge Henry W. Goddard in Federal court note that in making a substantial payment the defendants did not admit any degree of responsibility for the accident. The order exculpates them from any such responsibility, limits liability to the amount paid to the claimants' committee and bars the filing of any further claims.

Pilot Fatally Hurt, 5 Escape in Crash

Denton, Tex., Jan. 29 (AP).—A forced landing in a snowstorm fatally injured Pilot Ted Kincannon, of American Airlines, today and shook up his five passengers. The plane, southbound from Chicago, struck a clump of trees in coming down southeast of here.

The passengers were slightly cut and bruised. The list given out by the airlines office identified them as John Schultz, New York; M. P. Youker, Dallas; T. P. Malloy, Shreveport, La.; George Rice, San Antonio, Tex., and William Littlewood, chief engineer of American Airlines, Chicago.

Kincannon, who suffered an injury over the left eye and a fracture of the right leg, died in an ambulance taking him to Frisco, Tex.

W. T. Byrum, in whose ambulance Kincannon died, said the plane was badly smashed, with one wing tangled in the trees at the edge of a plowed field near Little Elm, 18 miles southeast of here. The heavy snowstorm limited visibility to a few hundred feet.

Loeb Killer Describes Battle

Then the fight started, with both combatants nude.

Day's statement added:

"I grabbed the razor . . . slashed at him. Blood flew in my face . . . he got me by the throat. Steam was in my eyes, but I kept slashing . . . He sank into a sitting position. He lunged at me . . . . I slashed at him some more and kept on slashing until he fell, mumbling. Loeb stood straight up . . . he knocked me down. . . . He fumbled with the key and ran out."

The inquest failed to clear up two angles of the killing—where Loeb had obtained the key to the bathroom and how the razor which ended his life had got into the prison.

Capt. Austin Humphrey, of the prison guards, testified he did not know how Loeb had gained the key, but said it was customary for some of the prisoners attached to the penitentiary's correspondence school, of which Loeb was an instructor, to bathe there. Loeb had been engaged in remodeling the old dining hall of the prison officers for use by the school. The bathroom was attached to the dining hall.

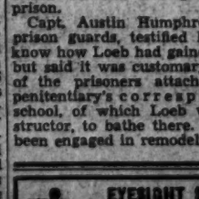

While the fatal razor was the same kind as used in the prison barber shops, penal officials said all the barbershop blades were accounted for.

A slight show of conflict between investigating groups marked the inquest when Warden Joseph Ragen said county authorities were not notified promptly when Loeb died.

"We were trying to save a man's life," said the warden. "We saw no need to notify the State's attorney at once."

While the State and county investigators were digging into the charges of eroticism among prison inmates, the slain Loeb, who was serving a life term, was carried surreptitiously to his final resting place in a Chicago cemetery. The Loeb family, prominent in Chicago, kept all details of the funeral guarded and six policemen walked about the small undertaking establishment where the body lay up to the hour of service.

Yesterday his partner in the kidnaping and slaying of Bobby Franks, Nathan Leopold, had seen him in the prison hospital briefly before he died. Today Leopold, also serving a life sentence for the 12-year-old crime, declined to testify at the coroner's inquest. The men were cellmates in the same prison block, but officers said that Leopold was at least 100 feet away from the bathroom when Day and Loeb engaged in their furious fight at 12:15 p. m. yesterday.

Federal Hiring On Merit Basis Held Essential

By the Associated Press.

The merit system in public appointments was upheld as an essential of good government by President Roosevelt last night in a letter read in a radio broadcast sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

The program, arranged to "bring to the public attention the urgent need for the elimination of the spoils system," included also a speech by Secretary Roper urging special schools for civil service personnel and addresses by Mayor LaGuardia of New York and Gov. Fitzgerald of Michigan.

President Roosevelt's message was read by Mrs. Harris T. Baldwin, vice president of the league, in the absence of Miss Marguerite M. Wells, the president. It follows in full:

"I do not need to tell you, as a leader among the public-spirited women of America, that it is most difficult, if not impossible, for a government to raise and maintain in any field a standard higher than the public will support.

Cites Information Need.

"This is why it is essential that national organizations of the character and strength of the National League of Women Voters should secure and disseminate accurate information on vital questions which have implicit within them, not alone principles of efficiency and economy of interest to taxpayers, but, above that, the principles of good government.

"It matters not what political party is in power by the elective will of the people, the Government functions for all, and there can be no question of greater moment, or broader effect, than the maintenance, strengthening, and extension of the merit system, established in the competitive principles of the civil service act, whose fifty-third birthday anniversary is being celebrated this month.

Praises Campaign.

"The National League of Women Voters has chosen wisely in conducting a campaign for securing trained personnel in the Government service through the open competition provided only by the merit system, and I am glad to assure your great organization of my support in this effort."

Roper suggested that lecture courses on the Government might be of value to members of Congress.

Civil service personnel, the Secretary said, should not fluctuate with elections, although he added that changes in higher ranking personnel were necessary to carry out aims of the new administrations.

Mayor LaGuardia said American cities "can no longer afford the luxury of being administered under the spoils system."

"Turning out city employes after election and appointing a new set as a reward for political activity or work in a campaign," he declared, "is not only costly, but so inefficient as to ruin a city."

Tribute to George V By House Assailed

By the Associated Press.

The House's recent adjournment out of respect to the late King George V of England was protested on the floor yesterday by Representative Sweeney (Democrat), Ohio.

He said he had nothing against the King, but "I despise the system he represents; it is the symbol of imperialism."

"I am disgusted," he shouted, "with the toryism and the desire of our people to become subservient to British influence in this country. I want the record to show that I protest the action of this House."

The Ohioan said he thought it quite all right for President Roosevelt to send a message of condolence, and for other usual expressions in such cases, but insisted that for the House to adjourn was going too far.

"I don't recall," he said, "that the British Parliament ever adjourned out of respect to a dead United States President."

Work Alliance Seeks 6 Billion for Relief

New York, Jan. 29 (AP).—The executive board of the Workers Alliance of America today announced plans for a drive to obtain from Congress a $6,000,000,000 appropriation to carry on direct and work relief next year.

The board said 1,000,000 post cards would be sent to members of Congress demanding approval of the relief program. Washington, D. C., was selected for the second annual convention of the alliance.

Twenty Million Still 'On Relief,' Hopkins Says

Senators Are Told Burden Remains at Peak of Last Year.

By the Associated Press.

A dozen Democratic Senators were informed at a private conference with Harry L. Hopkins yesterday that almost as many persons are on the dole or work relief as a year ago.

The relief population reached an all-time peak of more than 20,000,000 last January, and Hopkins was reported to have said yesterday that while there had been a "slight" improvement, the relief load was about the same now.

About 1,000,000 "unemployable" heads of families, however, now are being supported by State and local governments, rather than through Federal relief.

Secretary Morgenthau recently told the Senate Finance Committee that possibly $2,000,000,000 would be asked by the Administration for the next fiscal year's relief program.

Another subject discussed at the conference was the requirement that 90 per cent of those given work relief jobs be taken from direct relief rolls.

Some of the Senators were said to have told Hopkins of complaints that persons in need who had been too proud to go on the dole were being barred from WPA, but the majority was reported to have agreed with the WPA administrator that it was better to continue the rule.

Because of difficulties in obtaining skilled labor, PWA non-Federal and housing projects, and several projects supervised by Army engineers, have been exempted from the 90 per cent requirement.

Hopkins, who was accompanied by Aubrey Williams, assistant PWA administrator, met the Senators in the office of Majority Leader Robinson, who said neither future relief appropriations nor legislation were discussed, but that the meeting was to go over the whole relief situation.

Neither Hopkins nor Williams would comment, but Hopkins' estimate of the size of present relief population was interpreted in some quarters as an indication that the number of destitute is not diminishing as rapidly as was hoped.

Also present at yesterday's conference were Senators Wagner, of New York; Costigan, of Colorado; Black, of Alabama; Guffey, of Pennsylvania; Duffy, of Wisconsin; Murphy, of Iowa; Minton, of Indiana; Burke, of Nebraska, and O'Maheney, of Wyoming.

Underwear Sales Boom.

Sioux City, Iowa, Jan. 29 (AP).—It may bunch under the socks and bag at the knees, but long woolen underwear has been selling during the cold wave as it hasn't sold in years, Sioux City clothing merchants reported today.

They said the increase in sales is due mostly to purchases by those "virile young men who often defy the weather by going without their hats."

More Snow Ahead For Capital Today

More snow was expected for Washington before dawn today, as winter still held the Capital in its icy grasp, lending Arctic beauty as compensation for discomfort from the most prolonged, severe cold cold wave since the winter of 1917-1918.

The snow, the Weather Bureau predicted, will continue throughout today, with yesterday's temperatures prevailing. By tonight temperatures will drop once more.

A crescent moon shone on icy streets and sidewalks last night and skates clicked on the Mirror Pool.

Talmadge Race For Presidency Urged by Parley

of the four hours, poured vitriol on the Roosevelts and their administration — the quiet white-haired Texas lumberman, John Henry Kirby; the piercing black-eyed, red suspendered Gov. Talmadge; the fervent, somewhat fanatical Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, of Louisiana; the tall, dignified, yet angry and thunderous-voiced Thomas Dixon, the author, and several less colorful orators.

Like the ocean surf beating on the shore, these voices battered at the President and the New Deal without ceasing — quiet, refined voices, voices with the drawl of the South, voices with the twang of the mountain and the swamp. Homely and ungrammatical language was used. "Ain't" was a common expression. Once Gov. Talmadge paused to exclaim.

"You ketch the p'int," and Howell at one point commanded:

"Listen at me."

Orators Cheered On.

The audience — from neatly dressed lawyers to men in overalls with hard hands—thrilled to these orators, yelling back at them, "yea, yea," and "you tell 'em Gene," and "let 'em have it." Frequently the speakers retorted with:

"I'll tell 'em."

Although staged in a modern municipal auditorium, the meeting was an old-fashioned Southern political rally, the kind which takes place at a crossroads or down in the Georgia swamps, marked by demagoguery in full blossom. It was like an evangelical, revival meeting, especially when the Rev. Mr. Smith spoke.

As the Huey Long leader assailed President Roosevelt as a man "who has given us the Russian primer and cursed the bible," a man on the stage waved his chair around his head. When Smith finished an aged man, with a beard and in threadbare clothes, rushed up to the political clergyman and kissed him on the cheek.

Platform Acclaimed.

In this atmosphere a lengthy platform was loudly acclaimed as the guide for the movement to turn the South against President Roosevelt. The platform committee reported that "we have reviewed the platforms of other Democratic national conventions" and that it had found the 1932 platform of the party "a profound document upon which a sound government must be based."

This platform, reported the committee, "has been repudiated and treated as only a scrap of paper." President Roosevelt, it was recalled, promised the Nation "he would take that platform to his bosom and carry out each and every plank thereof to the best of his ability," but instead he has "repudiated, abandoned and sidetracked" it.

"Since March 4, 1933," read the convention's platform, "there has been practically a suspension of constitutional government in our country and a radical departure from the time-honored teachings of the Democratic Party."

The platform declared that those assembled "declare that our support will be given only to such candidates as have that great faith" with the 1932 Democratic platform, and added that "we do not regard the occupant of the White House as a Democrat—he has broken the pledge of our party and violated the platform of 1932."

Bureaucracy Charged.

"The occupant of the White House has abandoned faith in the Constitution and set up a bewildering bureaucracy, which is neither sane in its economic practices nor serviceable in performing the duties of the character of government, established for us," the declaration continued.

The Supreme Court was described as "the balance wheel of our governmental system," and it was declared that "its power to pass upon acts of Congress is the greatest safeguard to the rights of the citizen." After asserting that "every reasonable aid" could be given under the Constitution to agriculture and labor, rhetorical questions were asked which indicated opposition to the AAA "theory of scarcity."

Praising thrift and perseverance in work, the platform hailed individual efforts and declared "we oppose every form of regimentation which deprives a free citizen of the United States of the incentives which were given him in the character of our great Government."

All "patriotic Americans" were invited to join "in wresting this Government from the control of Socialists and Communists."

Indorses 1932 Platform.

Finally the platform put those present on record as accepting "word for word, line for line, the unfulfilled parts of the national Democratic platform adopted in Chicago in 1932," and recommending that "a candidate of truth and character be nominated and elected who will put into practical execution the provisions of that great document."

In addition this platform advocated two additional planks—one providing that "Government should get out of business at the earliest possible time and cease to compete with private industry," and the other recommending a constitutional limit on the amount of taxes which Congress can levy and appropriate.

This platform was adopted after Gov. Talmadge delivered a blistering attack on the New Deal.

Although he covered all of his prepared speech, Talmadge did not adhere to the sequence of the advance copy. Frequently he interpolated shots at the President and the New Deal, which he referred to as the "boondoggling crowd in Washington."

Finds States Rights Invaded.

The Governor attacked the New Deal for its invasion of the rights of the States. He reminded his audience he had refused to "goose-step"—amid yells of "atta boy, Gene." And for that had been characterized by Secretary Ickes as a man who would not keep his word. But the people of Georgia and the people of the country would answer for his veracity, shouted the Governor, by driving Secretary Ickes and "all his cohorts from Washington and never allowing them to return."

Assailing the AAA, Governor Talmadge asserted that "before their crazy dream of prosperity from scarcity will ever work in this world, they'll have to invent some ointment to take the place of sweat."

In the midst of his speech, the Georgian paused to pay tribute to Huey Long as "a great statesman." He also praised Gov. Oscar K. Allen of Louisiana, explaining he would have been at this meeting had he not felt the illness coming on which caused his death.

His audience hooted its delight when in referring to relief workers sent here, he spoke of "women who never had a baby coming down here and trying to tell us how to raise our children."

Rebel Yells Given.

When the Governor concluded with a plea to all good Democrats to go back to the doctrines of Washington, Jefferson and Jackson, the National Guard Band present played "Hitch Old Dobbin to the Shay," some in the audience let go a series of rebel yells and a group of men in overalls rushed to the platform, pummeling the speaker and shaking his hand.

Howell followed Talmadge with his pleas for an indorsement of the Governor, which he received, and then the Rev. Mr. Smith came on. The touselled red-haired clergyman with the eagle beak and resonant voice began with a tribute to his dead chieftains—Long and Allen—asserting that Talmadge was "one of the greatest friends Huey Long ever had."

In this emergency, he asserted, "the foes of communism are my friends, the foes of socialism my friends, and the foes of Franklin D. Roosevelt are my friends and the friends of Louisiana and of Huey P. Long."

Text of Gov. Talmadge's Speech to Georgia Rally of 'Grass Roots' Democrats

By the Associated Press.

Macon, Ga., Jan. 29.—The text of the address by Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia before the convention of anti-Roosevelt Democrats here today follows:

My fellow countrymen:

The South has been the champion and the defender of Democratic principles for three-quarters of a century.

The South fought for States' rights.

That great conflict is over. We are back in the Union, and back to stay.

The South wishes to share her part of the burdens and responsibilities of the National Government.

States' rights are in the balance today more than they were in the days of 1861. At that time, States' rights were obliterated by humanitarian pleas for the freedom of slaves.

Today, in every capital of the various States, and in every county site in America, the Federal Government is working consistently to tear down States' rights.

States to Be Subservient.

If the present program is continued for four more years, the lines between the States will be only a shadow on paper, and the government of the separate States will be subservient to the will of a central power in Washington.

This time, there is nothing to becloud the issues of soverignty of States and local self-government.

Our brothers in the East, and North, and West, are with us to see that local self-government and the sovereignty of our separate States are not obliterated by the whims of bureaucrats.

Every true Democrat hangs his head in shame when he realizes that under a Democratic Administration are boards, and boards, and boards—and that the President in Washington has had enacted laws where they could tell the manufacturers, storekeepers, hotels and shops what to pay their labor, and how many hours they could work.

And the present Administration crowned this challenge to State's rights with the NIRA, taking for its emblem a blue eagle.

Originator Inspired.

The originator of the thought must have been inspired, because during the reign of the NIRA the American eagle (emblem of our great country) was certainly blue and sad.

But let's not say any more about the NIRA. It is gone. And nine months after the Supreme Court said that it was gone, the President said so. He then announced that he was stopping the pay of thousands and thousands of workers who were being paid millions of dollars per month out of the taxpayers' money to carry on an organization that the Supreme Court had ruled unconstitutional.

Again every true Democrat hangs his head in shame when he realizes that under the name of a Democratic administration, boards and bureaus, and the President himself, say that the way to bring back prosperity in this country is through scarcity—have less to eat, and less to wear!

To carry out his crazy, infamous plan, they ordered millions of hogs and cattle killed, and thrown into the rivers or buried. Millions more of little suckling pigs were shipped off to Chicago.

On top of this, they paid a premium to get someone to cut a good brood sow's throat.

It took a little time for this travesty, but when they struck the sheep and goats they drove them on top of the mountains, forcing them to jump off the cliffs and kill themselves in the valleys below.

And when the starving people went there to retrieve some of these carcasses that were not too badly mangled by the rocks, the trained welfare workers ran them off, leaving them as food only for the coyotes and wolves.

They burned up wheat and oats, and plowed under cotton here in the South.

Yet, in Washington, with their faces wreathed in smiles, they were telling the people that they were bringing back "the abundant life."

And something else happened, too, while all this was going on!

What next do we see? Importation in greater numbers than ever before of these same products that had been destroyed here in America.

And they are announcing that they want to keep it up!

When the Supreme Court again saved America by saying that the AAA was unconstitutional, announcements came from Washington that Tugwell, Frankfurter, Wallace, and even the President himself, were studying and looking for plans to devise a law that would get around the Supreme Court, and continue their policy of scarcity here in America.

They do all of this under the name of a Democratic Administration.

What else do they do?

They have Cabinet officers who try to intimidate governors and legislatures to pass their New Deal legislation in order to centralize government in Washington.

I am sad to say that some of the governors in these United States have "goose-stepped" into line and saddled on their States and counties taxes that it will take a century to pay, giving over the freedom and sovereignty of their States to boards and bureaucrats in Washington.

Georgia did not "goosestep" on the New Deal bills which they sent down to Atlanta to me to be crammed through the Legislature, providing for thousands of Federal jobs in the State of Georgia at the expense of the State.

And, when the Governor of Georgia did not "goose-step" he was labeled by a member of the Cabinet as "his chain-gang excellency, whose word is no good."

The only one of the New Deal bills that passed was one to defraud the counties of the State out of the highway scrip, where they had a bonded indebtedness for roads.

Secretary Ickes had accepted these highway certificates, contrary to law, and wanted to make the Governor of Georgia a party to his illegal contract.

This explains the wrath of Ickes when he tries to make the people of America believe that the word of the Governor of Georgia is not good.

I hope that he is listening in at this talk, as I want to tell him something now.

The people of Georgia can answer this for him, and the people of the United States are going to answer it in November of this year by driving him and all of his cohorts from Washington and never allowing them to return.

Trying to help the farmer! Telling him what to plant on his land, and how little, and then telling him that taxing it over 50 per cent of its worth will help him! and those who were hired and given jobs with the Government pretend to believe it.

Before their crazy dream of "prosperity from scarcity" will ever work in this world, they will have to invent some ointment to take the place of sweat.

The Democrats of the South owe it to the Nation to rally to the principles of Thomas Jefferson, the founder of this party.

You owe it to the North, and the East, and the West, to help in this fight to see that no Communist or Socialist steals the Democratic nomination, and mocks you with smiles and jeers by telling you that the South is always solidly Democratic.

Yes, the South is Democratic, true to the faith and true to the principles of Thomas Jefferson:

"Sovereignty of States' rights;

"The least governed are the best governed;

"Local self-government."

The South is going to remain true to these fundamentals of Democracy.

Issues of 1936.

What is the fight for the Democratic Party in 1936? What is the fight for all true Americans in 1936?

Here it is:

Shall we cling to our present form of government, or abolish it?

Shall we barter away Americanism for communism?

Shall we continue to borrow and spend, or settle down and settle up?

Shall we substitute lunacy for sanity?

Shall we convert Democrats into bureaucrats?

Shall we share our wealth through charity, or lose it through taxation?

Shall we replace Impartial Uncle Sam with Old Mother Hubbard playing favorites?

Shall we remain idle and import food, or work and produce it?

Shall we starve the litter of 12 to feed the thirteenth pig, or give them all a break?

Shall we pamper or punish enemies within our gates?

Shall we march under the Stars and Stripes, or march under a crazy quilt?

You Americans, good and true, cannot be bought and bribed.

In self-defense, you have had to take parity checks, bicycles, skates, rat-traps, or any other thing that Washington thought they could buy your souls with.

Washington has not been paying for these things. The Government is not paying for them.

The Government never pays for anything. It collects the money from the people—and has made every man, woman and child in America a taxpayer a thousand-fold more than they ever dreamed.

The Supreme Court has come to our rescue.

Let's hold up their hands. Let's don't allow a bunch of Communists to have four more years to appoint the successors to such stalwart men as Chief Justice Hughes, and Associate Justices Butler, McReynolds, Sutherland and Van Devanter.

If the New Dealers can pick their own Supreme Court, the wheels of our democracy would catch fire and burn down our freedom.

The New Dealers have tried by billions of dollars to hold back a natural recovery due this country. They are determined that the bonus checks will be paid in June, so that there will be a flush of money to go on through until election time in November.

But the play is too plain. No such joker can come from under the table and fool the soldiers of America who defended this country, and ask only for the payment of an acknowledged debt.

True Americans' Job.

What else is the job of Democrats and all other true Americans this year?

Rewrite the platform of 1932? Nominate men on this platform whose word is so good that the best test of it is to have the New Dealers call him a "liar." Then America will know that his word is good.

Cut taxes!

Stop nine-tenths of the Federal activities in America!

Stop all competition of the Government with private industry!

Cut down the expense of the Federal Government by tearing down seven-eighths of the buildings of Washington, and cover the grounds with beautiful parks!

Pay up the national debt!

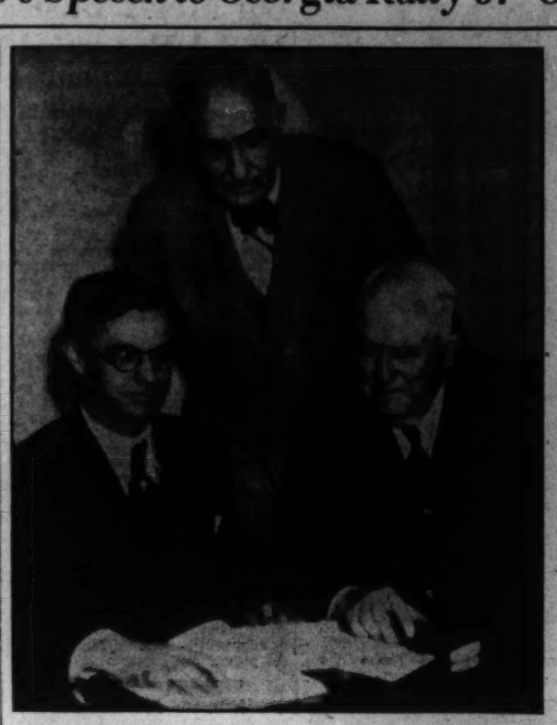

Go back to the doctrine (not a $50 a plate mockery celebration) of that stalwart man, Andrew Jackson, who celebrated the victory of the Battle of New Orleans by announcing to America that within one year he had kept his platform pledge and paid up all the debts of America.

Go back to the doctrine of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, who warned us that autocrats would rise up in the name of emergency to tear down our form of government.

And that sturdy soldier, George Washington, said that whenever this happens, to rise up and smite them.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-six will go down in history equal in performance with July 4, 1776.

"How sure the bolt that Justice wings;
How weak the arm a traitor brings;
How mighty they who steadfast stand
For freedom's flag and freedom's land."

Some men know — others are discovering —

— what Four Roses and the Finest Champagne have in common

GREAT CHAMPAGNE, most honored of wines, is a blend—a blend of various champagnes, each the finest quality—each contributing to the bottling some subtle virtue of its own.

So, too, with Four Roses—America's most magnificent whiskey. Four Roses is a blend—a blend of the finest American straight whiskies—every drop distilled in the United States.

This way of producing Four Roses is the result of Frankfort's 70 years' experience in making fine American whiskies. And these years have demonstrated, proved, and re-proved for us the fact that the best whiskey of all is a blend of the finest American straight whiskies.

You see, each straight whiskey has some distinguishing trait of aroma, richness, body, or smoothness. And, blended together as only Frankfort knows how, the outstanding qualities of these fine whiskies combine to make Four Roses a more superb whiskey than any one of the separate whiskies would be alone.

So, when you face the inevitable choice between buying straight whiskey; whiskey that's blended with neutral spirits; or a blend of straight whiskies and nothing but straight whiskies—remember what so many men of mellow years already know, what so many other men are gladly learning—that the best whiskey is a blend of all straight, all American whiskies—in other words, Four Roses!

Four Roses
— IT'S A PERFECT BLEND
— OF ALL STRAIGHT
— ALL AMERICAN WHISKIES

Frankfort Distilleries, Louisville & Baltimore, makers of Four Roses, Paul Jones, Old Oscar Pepper, Mattingly & Moore—all blends of straight whiskies.

New Neutrality Law Unlikely, Connally Holds

By the Associated Press.

Hours of debate failed yesterday to harmonize views of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on neutrality legislation, bringing from one member prediction that nothing would be done save extension of the temporary law.

Prof. Edwin M. Borchard, international law professor at Yale, came before the committee at the request of Senator Johnson (Republican), California, a bitter foe of the legislation. Borchard told the committee he thought the country would be better off if the legislation is not enacted."

Senator Robinson (Democrat), Arkansas, told him there are "many of us who disagree with you."

Views of Connally.

Senator Connally (Democrat), of Texas, came out of the conference predicting that probably nothing would be done except to extend the present neutrality act, February 29. That law embargoes shipments of munitions and arms to belligerents. The new legislation proposed to make this permanent as well as to give the President broad powers to extend a limited embargo to "materials of war," such as cotton, oil, iron and steel.

Chairman Pittman (Democrat), Nevada, still stuck by his prediction that the legislation would be reported promptly and enacted with little change.

Evidence that the breach among supporters of neutrality legislation on the Senate Munitions Committee had been healed appeared today when Senator George (Democrat), Georgia, appeared for the committee to ask $7,369 of the Senate contingent funds for completion of the munitions investigation.

George and Senator Pope (Democrat), Idaho, broke with the committee when Chairman Nye (Republican), North Dakota, used part of his evidence as a basis for accusing former President Wilson of "falsifying," in denying knowledge of secret allied treaties for dividing up Europe.

George told the contingent funds committee, headed by Senator Byrnes (Democrat), South Carolina, an agreement had been reached by the investigators to end hearings within ten days, to wind up their work by early March, and to give thorough consideration to any possible testimony "that might affect foreign countries or arouse animosity."

While the contingent funds committee did not act at once on the request, there was general belief the money would be granted after another brief flurry of comment on the floor.

Senator Nye, in Detroit, where he went for a speech, said the whole Wilson incident was unfortunate. He contended however that part of the row over it was chargeable to an effort of the "financial crowd" to discredit the committee's work.

"The thing was piling up to the point where it became absolutely necessary for the financial crowd to do something to discredit the committee and its work. The Wilson statements gave them their chance," he contended.

Manchu Rebels Kill 4 Japanese

By the Associated Press.

Moscow, Jan. 29.—The official Soviet news agency Tass reported from Khabarovsk tonight that a detachment of 109 Manchukuoan soldiers, rebelling against Japanese occupation of Manchuria, crossed into Soviet territory after killing four Japanese officers.

The Manchukuoans, headed by Lieut. Ho Gin Sha, asked for refuge and were interned, the dispatch added.

The account did not give the name of the place where the reported rebellion occurred, but said there was a battle in the barracks, during which the Japanese were slain.

The detachment crossed the border in the Grodekov region.

Soviet authorities took possession of the arms of the interned men, which included two machine guns and 115 rifles, Tass reported.

Soviet dispatches from Ulan Bator, capital of the Outer Mongolia Peoples Republic, said six Manchukuoan soldiers crossed into Mongolian territory three days ago, fired on a Mongolian border post and retreated across the frontier after an hour and a half fight in which there were no casualties.

Previously, dispatches said, Japanese and Manchukuoan soldiers appeared on various parts of the Mongolian frontier and removed border signs.

Dental Alumni to Meet.

Current dental problems will be discussed tonight at 8 o'clock by the District chapter of the Georgetown University School of Dentistry Alumni Association in the school, 3900 Reservoir road northwest. A program of boxing and music will follow.

'Civil War' Seen As Ship Union Inquiry Nears

By the Associated Press.

San Francisco, Jan. 29.—The assertion of Harry Bridges, left wing union leader, that he had been questioned by Federal agents induced speculation tonight concerning its relation to the tense Pacific Coast water-front situation.

Bridges contends the situation is developing into civil war proportions.

Several weeks ago ship-owners advocated a Justice Department investigation of their charges that the water-front unions repeatedly had violated agreements growing out of the 1934 strike.

No Inquiry Ordered.

Bridges declined to disclose what was said and the Federal agents would not discuss the matter. The Justice Department in Washington said Attorney General Cummings had not ordered an investigation.

"They came around last night," Bridges said "and I simply told them we already had stated our case in the statement which we sent to President Roosevelt and Secretary Perkins."

Recently, the unions requested a Congressional investigation, charging ship owners were about to start a lockout in an attempt to smash the labor organizations, with a membership of 35,000.

The International Seamen's Union asked the appointment of a Presidential commission to investigate. The State Chamber of Commerce asked for a Federal investigation to determine whether the unions were acting in restraint of trade.

Proclaim Independence.

Monday, the I. S. U. voted to revoke the Sailors Union charter. The latter today proclaimed its independence of the I. S. U.

Albert Michelson, attorney for the Sailors' Union, declared it would resist as an "independent organization" a Federal court injunction suit brought by executives of the International Seamen's Union, seeking control of Sailors' Union funds at all ports and capital stock of buildings here and at San Pedro.

Sailors' Union officials remained in charge of the building here despite the temporary injunction and declared seamen were being dispatched to ships as usual.

Pastor Dead at 100; Large Family Survives

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 29 (AP).—The Rev. Charles Henry Nash, who celebrated his 100th birthday last December 6, died here last night.

Survivors include his wife, two daughters, three sons, 14 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

He was born in North Granville, N. Y., and at 22 entered Troy Conference Academy at Poultney, Vt., to prepare for the ministry. He went to Kansas after serving pastorates in Westport and Glen Falls, N. Y. Later, he came to Florida and served in pulpits in Barton, Ocala and Sanford before coming to Tampa.

He served churches in Clearwater and Thonotosassa after retiring at the age of 71. Funeral services will be tomorrow.

Nazis Promise Not to Fortify Area of Rhine

Acute Difficulty Solved in International Crisis, French Believe.

By the United Press.

Paris, Jan. 29.—Germany has promised she will not violate the Versailles Treaty by fortifying or occupying militarily the Rhineland zone, the foreign office announced today, thus solving an acute difficulty in the international situation.

Pierre Etienne Flandin, foreign minister, returned today after attending the funeral of King George V and consulting with Britain's foreign secretary, Anthony Eden. He reported to the cabinet that Germany pledged to Britain she would not send any military formation into the demilitarized Rhineland zone, established by peacemakers at the close of the World War.

Flandin expressed complete satisfaction with his conferences at the British foreign office. He said the two governments were in perfect accord on all questions of German foreign policy and actions contemplated in the immediate future.

France now considers Germany's promise to have closed completely a problem which the French had considered grave.

The usually well-informed newspaper Oeuvre said that France had received assurances from Italy that the Fascist state would be on her side in the event of trouble with Germany over the demilitarized zone.

France had asked Italy what attitude Mussolini's government would take should Germany rearm the zone, Oeuvre said, and received a reply that Italy would follow France's lead. Asked if Italy would be able to render assistance on the continent in view of the Italo-Ethiopian war, Italy replied that as only seven divisions of regulars were in East Africa, plenty of manpower was available. Money might be needed, however, it was said.

THE MEN'S STORE

Presents a totally new idea

The Guayabera

(Pronounced WY-A-BERA)

It is not a jacket, nor is it a shirt. It is both. The inspiration comes from South America and Cuba where the great sugar planters wear a shirt-jacket of this type. It is ideal for all informal wear in warm climates—southern cruises and resorts, and is headed for great popularity this coming Summer season.

The material is pure Irish linen, combining both jacket and shirt in one garment smartly and with dignity. It is to be worn with neck open for active sports. And it is trim-looking with the neck closed and a bow tie.

You will find it in The Men's Store exclusively in Washington; in crisp cool colors: champagne, Gloucester, African brown, green, rust or white— $5 of the four hours, poured vitriol on the Roosevelts and their administration — the quiet white-haired Texas lumberman, John Henry Kirby; the piercing black-eyed, red suspendered Gov. Talmadge; the fervent, somewhat fanatical Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, of Louisiana; the tall, dignified, yet angry and thunderous-voiced Thomas Dixon, the author, and several less colorful orators.

Talmadge Race For Presidency Urged by Parley

Like the ocean surf beating on the shore, these voices battered at the President and the New Deal without ceasing — quiet, refined voices, voices with the drawl of the South, voices with the twang of the mountain and the swamp. Homely and ungrammatical language was used. "Ain't" was a common expression. Once Gov. Talmadge paused to exclaim.

"You ketch the p'int," and Howell at one point commanded:

"Listen at me."

Orators Cheered On.

The audience — from neatly dressed lawyers to men in overalls with hard hands—thrilled to these orators, yelling back at them, "yea, yea," and "you tell 'em Gene," and "let 'em have it." Frequently the speakers retorted with:

"I'll tell 'em."

Although staged in a modern municipal auditorium, the meeting was an old-fashioned Southern political rally, the kind which takes place at a crossroads or down in the Georgia swamps, marked by demagoguery in full blossom. It was like an evangelical, revival meeting, especially when the Rev. Mr. Smith spoke.

As the Huey Long leader assailed President Roosevelt as a man "who has given us the Russian primer and cursed the bible," a man on the stage waved his chair around his head. When Smith finished an aged man, with a beard and in threadworn clothes, rushed up to the political clergyman and kissed him on the cheek.

Platform Acclaimed.

In this atmosphere a lengthy platform was loudly acclaimed as the guide for the movement to turn the South against President Roosevelt. The platform committee reported that "we have reviewed the platforms of other Democratic national conventions" and that it had found the 1932 platform of the party "a profound document upon which a sound government must be based."

This platform, reported the committee, "has been repudiated and treated as only a scrap of paper." President Roosevelt, it was recalled, promised the Nation "he would take that platform to his bosom and carry out each and every plank thereof to the best of his ability," but instead he has "repudiated, abandoned and sidetracked" it.

"Since March 4, 1933," read the convention's platform, "there has been practically a suspension of constitutional government in our country and a radical departure from the time-honored teachings of the Democratic Party."

The platform declared that those assembled "declare that our support will be given only to such candidates as have that great faith" with the 1932 Democratic platform, and added that "we do not regard the occupant of the White House as a Democrat—he has broken the pledge of our party and violated the platform of 1932."

Bureaucracy Charged.

"The occupant of the White House has abandoned faith in the Constitution and set up a bewildering bureaucracy, which is neither sane in its economic practices nor serviceable in performing the duties of the character of government, established for us," the declaration continued.

The Supreme Court was described as "the balance wheel of our governmental system," and it was declared that "its power to pass upon acts of Congress is the greatest safeguard to the rights of the citizen." After asserting that "every reasonable aid" could be given under the Constitution to agriculture and labor, rhetorical questions were asked which indicated opposition to the AAA "theory of scarcity."

Praising thrift and perseverance in work, the platform hailed individual efforts and declared "we oppose every form of regimentation which deprives a free citizen of the United States of the incentives which were given him in the character of our great Government."

All "patriotic Americans" were invited to join "in wresting this Government from the control of Socialists and Communists."

Indorses 1932 Platform.

Finally the platform put those present on record as accepting "word for word, line for line, the unfulfilled parts of the national Democratic platform adopted in Chicago in 1932," and recommending that "a candidate of truth and character be nominated and elected who will put into practical execution the provisions of that great document."

In addition this platform advocated two additional planks—one providing that "Government should get out of business at the earliest possible time and cease to compete with private industry," and the other recommending a constitutional limit on the amount of taxes which Congress can levy and appropriate.

This platform was adopted after Gov. Talmadge delivered a blistering attack on the New Deal.

Although he covered all of his prepared speech, Talmadge did not adhere to the sequence of the advance copy. Frequently he interpolated shots at the President and the New Deal, which he referred to as the "boondoggling crowd in Washington."

Finds States Rights Invaded.

The Governor attacked the New Deal for its invasion of the rights of the States. He reminded his audience he had refused to "goose-step"—amid yells of "atta boy, Gene." And for that had been characterized by Secretary Ickes as a man who would not keep his word. But the people of Georgia and the people of the country would answer for his veracity, shouted the Governor, by driving Secretary Ickes and "all his cohorts from Washington and never allowing them to return."

Assailing the AAA, Governor Talmadge asserted that "before their crazy dream of prosperity from scarcity will ever work in this world, they'll have to invent some ointment to take the place of sweat."

In the midst of his speech, the Georgian paused to pay tribute to Huey Long as "a great statesman." He also praised Gov. Oscar K. Allen of Louisiana, explaining he would have been at this meeting had he not felt the illness coming on which caused his death.

His audience hooted its delight when in referring to relief workers sent here, he spoke of "women who never had a baby coming down here and trying to tell us how to raise our children."

Rebel Yells Given.

When the Governor concluded with a plea to all good Democrats to go back to the doctrines of Washington, Jefferson and Jackson, the National Guard Band present played "Hitch Old Dobbin to the Shay," some in the audience let go a series of rebel yells and a group of men in overalls rushed to the platform, pummeling the speaker and shaking his hand.

Howell followed Talmadge with his pleas for an indorsement of the Governor, which he received, and then the Rev. Mr. Smith came on. The touselled red-haired clergyman with the eagle beak and resonant voice began with a tribute to his dead chieftains—Long and Allen—asserting that Talmadge was "one of the greatest friends Huey Long ever had."

In this emergency, he asserted, "the foes of communism are my friends, the foes of socialism my friends, and the foes of Franklin D. Roosevelt are my friends and the friends of Louisiana and of Huey P. Long."

Text of Gov. Talmadge's Speech to Georgia Rally of 'Grass Roots' Democrats

By the Associated Press.

Macon, Ga., Jan. 29.—The text of the address by Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia before the convention of anti-Roosevelt Democrats here today follows:

My fellow countrymen:

The South has been the champion and the defender of Democratic principles for three-quarters of a century.

The South fought for States' rights.

That great conflict is over. We are back in the Union, and back to stay.

The South wishes to share her part of the burdens and responsibilities of the National Government.

States' rights are in the balance today more than they were in the days of 1861. At that time, States' rights were obliterated by humanitarian pleas for the freedom of slaves.

Today, in every capital of the various States, and in every county site in America, the Federal Government is working consistently to tear down States' rights.

States to Be Subservient.

If the present program is continued for four more years, the lines between the States will be only a shadow on paper, and the government of the separate States will be subservient to the will of a central power in Washington.

This time, there is nothing to becloud the issues of soverignty of States and local self-government.

Our brothers in the East, and North, and West, are with us to see that local self-government and the sovereignty of our separate States are not obliterated by the whims of bureaucrats.

Every true Democrat hangs his head in shame when he realizes that under a Democratic Administration are boards, and boards, and boards—and that the President in Washington has had enacted laws where they could tell the manufacturers, storekeepers, hotels and shops what to pay their labor, and how many hours they could work.

And the present Administration crowned this challenge to State's rights with the NIRA, taking for its emblem a blue eagle.

Originator Inspired.

The originator of the thought must have been inspired, because during the reign of the NIRA the American eagle (emblem of our great country) was certainly blue and sad.

But let's not say any more about the NIRA. It is gone. And nine months after the Supreme Court said that it was gone, the President said so. He then announced that he was stopping the pay of thousands and thousands of workers who were being paid millions of dollars per month out of the taxpayers' money to carry on an organization that the Supreme Court had ruled unconstitutional.

Again every true Democrat hangs his head in shame when he realizes that under the name of a Democratic administration, boards and bureaus, and the President himself, say that the way to bring back prosperity in this country is through scarcity—have less to eat, and less to wear!

To carry out his crazy, infamous plan, they ordered millions of hogs and cattle killed, and thrown into the rivers or buried. Millions more of little suckling pigs were shipped off to Chicago.

On top of this, they paid a premium to get someone to cut a good brood sow's throat.

It took a little time for this travesty, but when they struck the sheep and goats they drove them on top of the mountains, forcing them to jump off the cliffs and kill themselves in the valleys below.

And when the starving people went there to retrieve some of these carcasses that were not too badly mangled by the rocks, the trained welfare workers ran them off, leaving them as food only for the coyotes and wolves.

They burned up wheat and oats, and plowed under cotton here in the South.

Yet, in Washington, with their faces wreathed in smiles, they were telling the people that they were bringing back "the abundant life."

And something else happened, too, while all this was going on!

What next do we see? Importation in greater numbers than ever before of these same products that had been destroyed here in America.

And they are announcing that they want to keep it up!

When the Supreme Court again saved America by saying that the AAA was unconstitutional, announcements came from Washington that Tugwell, Frankfurter, Wallace, and even the President himself, were studying and looking for plans to devise a law that would get around the Supreme Court, and continue their policy of scarcity here in America.

They do all of this under the name of a Democratic Administration.

What else do they do?

They have Cabinet officers who try to intimidate governors and legislatures to pass their New Deal legislation in order to centralize government in Washington.

I am sad to say that some of the governors in these United States have "goose-stepped" into line and saddled on their States and counties taxes that it will take a century to pay, giving over the freedom and sovereignty of their States to boards and bureaucrats in Washington.

Georgia did not "goosestep" on the New Deal bills which they sent down to Atlanta to me to be crammed through the Legislature, providing for thousands of Federal jobs in the State of Georgia at the expense of the State.

And, when the Governor of Georgia did not "goose-step" he was labeled by a member of the Cabinet as "his chain-gang excellency, whose word is no good."

The only one of the New Deal bills that passed was one to defraud the counties of the State out of the highway scrip, where they had a bonded indebtedness for roads.

Secretary Ickes had accepted these highway certificates, contrary to law, and wanted to make the Governor of Georgia a party to his illegal contract.

This explains the wrath of Ickes when he tries to make the people of America believe that the word of the Governor of Georgia is not good.

I hope that he is listening in at this talk, as I want to tell him something now.

The people of Georgia can answer this for him, and the people of the United States are going to answer it in November of this year by driving him and all of his cohorts from Washington and never allowing them to return.

Trying to help the farmer! Telling him what to plant on his land, and how little, and then telling him that taxing it over 50 per cent of its worth will help him! and those who were hired and given jobs with the Government pretend to believe it.

Before their crazy dream of "prosperity from scarcity" will ever work in this world, they will have to invent some ointment to take the place of sweat.

The Democrats of the South owe it to the Nation to rally to the principles of Thomas Jefferson, the founder of this party.

You owe it to the North, and the East, and the West, to help in this fight to see that no Communist or Socialist steals the Democratic nomination, and mocks you with smiles and jeers by telling you that the South is always solidly Democratic.

Yes, the South is Democratic, true to the faith and true to the principles of Thomas Jefferson:

"Sovereignty of States' rights;

"The least governed are the best governed;

"Local self-government."

The South is going to remain true to these fundamentals of Democracy.

Issues of 1936.

What is the fight for the Democratic Party in 1936? What is the fight for all true Americans in 1936?

Here it is:

Shall we cling to our present form of government, or abolish it?

Shall we barter away Americanism for communism?

Shall we continue to borrow and spend, or settle down and settle up?

Shall we substitute lunacy for sanity?

Shall we convert Democrats into bureaucrats?

Shall we share our wealth through charity, or lose it through taxation?

Shall we replace impartial Uncle Sam with Old Mother Hubbard playing favorites?

Shall we remain idle and import food, or work and produce it?

Shall we starve the litter of 12 to feed the thirteenth pig, or give them all a break?

Shall we pamper or punish enemies within our gates?

Shall we march under the Stars and Stripes, or march under a crazy quilt?

You Americans, good and true, cannot be bought and bribed.

In self-defense, you have had to take parity checks, bicycles, skates, rat-traps, or any other thing that Washington thought they could buy your souls with.

Washington has not been paying for these things. The Government is not paying for them.

The Government never pays for anything. It collects the money from the people—and has made every man, woman and child in America a taxpayer a thousandfold more than they ever dreamed.

The Supreme Court has come to our rescue.

Let's hold up their hands. Let's don't allow a bunch of Communists to have four more years to appoint the successors to such stalwart men as Chief Justice Hughes, and Associate Justices Butler, McReynolds, Sutherland and Van Devanter.

If the New Dealers can pick their own Supreme Court, the wheels of our democracy would catch fire and burn down our freedom.

The New Dealers have tried by billions of dollars to hold back a natural recovery due this country. They are determined that the bonus checks will be paid in June, so that there will be a flush of money to go on through until election time in November.

But the play is too plain. No such joker can come from under the table and fool the soldiers of America who defended this country, and ask only for the payment of an acknowledged debt.

True Americans' Job.

What else is the job of Democrats and all other true Americans this year?

Rewrite the platform of 1932! Nominate men on this platform whose word is so good that the best test of it is to have the New Dealers call him a "liar." Then America will know that his word is good.

Cut taxes!

Stop nine-tenths of the Federal activities in America!

Stop all competition of the Government with private industry!

Cut down the expense of the Federal Government by tearing down seven-eighths of the buildings of Washington, and cover the grounds with beautiful parks!

Pay up the national debt!

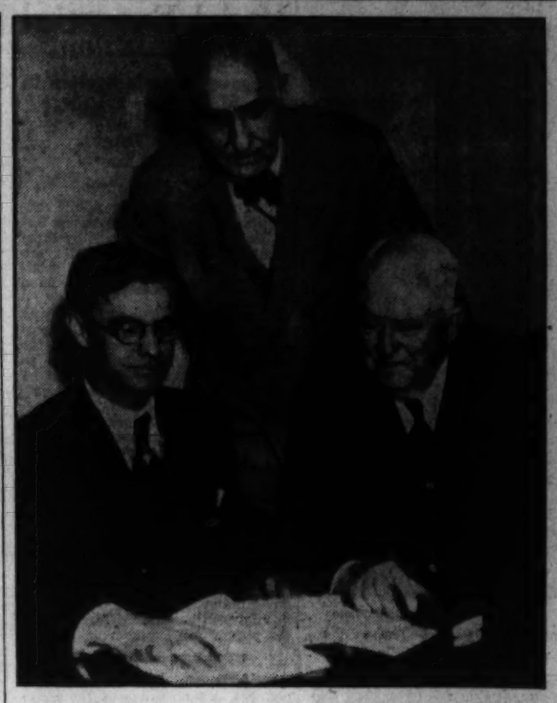

Go back to the doctrine (not a $50 a plate mockery celebration) of that stalwart man, Andrew Jackson, who celebrated the victory of the Battle of New Orleans by announcing to America that within one year he had kept his platform pledge and paid up all the debts of America.

Go back to the doctrine of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, who warned us that autocrats would rise up in the name of emergency to tear down our form of government.

And that sturdy soldier, George Washington, said that whenever this happens, to rise up and smite them.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-six will go down in history equal in performance with July 4, 1776.

"How sure the bolt that Justice wings;
How weak the arm a traitor brings;
How mighty they who steadfast stand

Some men know — others are discovering —

— what Four Roses and the Finest Champagne have in common

GREAT CHAMPAGNE, most honored of wines, is a blend—a blend of various champagnes, each the finest quality—each contributing to the bottling some subtle virtue of its own.

So, too, with Four Roses—America's most magnificent whiskey. Four Roses is a blend—a blend of the finest American straight whiskies—every drop distilled in the United States.

This way of producing Four Roses is the result of Frankfort's 70 years' experience in making fine American whiskies. And these years have demonstrated, proved, and re-proved for us the fact that the best whiskey of all is a blend of the finest American straight whiskies.

You see, each straight whiskey has some distinguishing trait of aroma, richness, body, or smoothness. And, blended together as only Frankfort knows how, the outstanding qualities of these fine whiskies combine to make Four Roses a more superb whiskey than any one of the separate whiskies would be alone.

So, when you face the inevitable choice between buying straight whiskey; whiskey that's blended with neutral spirits; or a blend of straight whiskies and nothing but straight whiskies—remember what so many men of mellow years already know, what so many other men are gladly learning—that the best whiskey is a blend of all straight, all American whiskies—in other words, Four Roses!

Four Roses
— IT'S A PERFECT BLEND
— OF ALL STRAIGHT
— ALL AMERICAN WHISKIES

Frankfort Distilleries, Louisville & Baltimore, makers of Four Roses, Paul Jones, Old Oscar Pepper, Mattingly & Moore—all blends of straight whiskies.

New Neutrality Law Unlikely, Connally Holds

By the Associated Press.

Hours of debate failed yesterday to harmonize views of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on neutrality legislation, bringing from one member prediction that nothing would be done save extension of the temporary law.

Prof. Edwin M. Borchard, international law professor at Yale, came before the committee at the request of Senator Johnson (Republican), California, a bitter foe of the legislation. Borchard told the committee he thought the country would be better off if the legislation "is not enacted."

Senator Robinson (Democrat), Arkansas, told him there are "many of us who disagree with you."

Views of Connally.

Senator Connally (Democrat), of Texas, came out of the conference predicting that probably nothing would be done except to extend the present neutrality act, February 29. That law embargoes shipments of munitions and arms to belligerents. The new legislation proposed to make this permanent as well as to give the President broad powers to extend a limited embargo to "materials of war," such as cotton, oil, iron and steel.

Chairman Pittman (Democrat), Nevada, still stuck by his prediction that the legislation would be reported promptly and enacted with little change.

Evidence that the breach among supporters of neutrality legislation on the Senate Munitions Committee had been healed appeared today when Senator George (Democrat), Georgia, appeared for the committee to ask $7,369 of the Senate contingent funds for completion of the munitions investigation.

George and Senator Pope (Democrat), Idaho, broke with the committee when Chairman Nye (Republican), North Dakota, used part of his evidence as a basis for accusing former President Wilson of "falsifying," in denying knowledge of secret allied treaties for dividing up Europe.

George told the contingent funds committee, headed by Senator Byrnes (Democrat), South Carolina, an agreement had been reached by the investigators to end hearings within ten days, to wind up their work by early March, and to give thorough consideration to any possible testimony "that might affect foreign countries or arouse animosity."

While the contingent funds committee did not act at once on the request, there was general belief the money would be granted after another brief flurry of comment on the floor.

Senator Nye, in Detroit, where he went for a speech, said the whole Wilson incident was unfortunate. He contended however that part of the row over it was chargeable to an effort of the "financial crowd" to discredit the committee's work.

"The thing was piling up to the point where it became absolutely necessary for the financial crowd to do something to discredit the committee and its work. The Wilson statements gave them their chance," he contended.

Manchu Rebels Kill 4 Japanese

By the Associated Press.

Moscow, Jan. 29.—The official Soviet news agency Tass reported from Khabarovsk tonight that a detachment of 109 Manchukuoan soldiers, rebelling against Japanese occupation of Manchuria, crossed into Soviet territory after killing four Japanese officers.

The Manchukuoans, headed by Lieut. Ho Gin Sha, asked for refuge and were interned, the dispatch added.

The account did not give the name of the place where the reported rebellion occurred, but said there was a battle in the barracks, during which the Japanese were slain.

The detachment crossed the border in the Grodekov region.

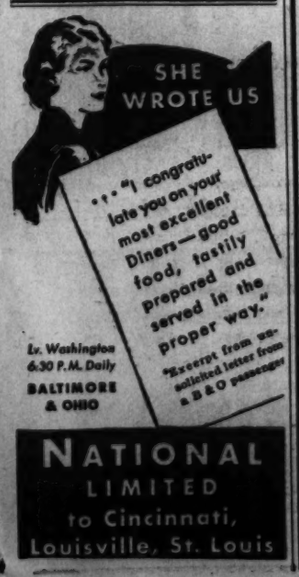

Soviet authorities took possession of the arms of the interned men, which included two machine guns and 115 rifles, Tass reported.

Soviet dispatches from Ulan Bator, capital of the Outer Mongolia Peoples Republic, said six Manchukuoan soldiers crossed into Mongolian territory three days ago, fired on a Mongolian border post and retreated across the frontier after an hour and a half fight in which there were no casualties.

Previously, dispatches said, Japanese and Manchukuoan soldiers appeared on various parts of the Mongolian frontier and removed border signs.

By the Associated Press.

San Francisco, Jan. 29.—The assertion of Harry Bridges, left wing union leader, that he had been questioned by Federal agents induced speculation tonight concerning its relation to the tense Pacific Coast water-front situation.

Bridges contends the situation is developing into civil war proportions.

Several weeks ago ship-owners advocated a Justice Department investigation of their charges that the water-front unions repeatedly had violated agreements growing out of the 1934 strike.

No Inquiry Ordered.

Bridges declined to disclose what was said and the Federal agents would not discuss the matter. The Justice Department in Washington said Attorney General Cummings had not ordered an investigation.

"They came around last night," Bridges said "and I simply told them we already had stated our case in the statement which we sent to President Roosevelt and Secretary Perkins."

Recently, the unions requested a Congressional investigation, charging ship owners were about to start a lockout in an attempt to smash the labor organizations, with a membership of 35,000.

The International Seamen's Union asked the appointment of a Presidential commission to investigate. The State Chamber of Commerce asked for a Federal investigation to determine whether the unions were acting in restraint of trade.

Proclaim Independence.

Monday, the I. S. U. voted to revoke the Sailors Union charter. The latter today proclaimed its independence of the I. S. U.

Albert Michelson, attorney for the Sailors' Union, declared it would resist as an "independent organization" a Federal court injunction suit brought by executives of the International Seamen's Union, seeking control of Sailors' Union funds at all ports and capital stock of buildings here and at San Pedro.

Sailors' Union officials remained in charge of the building here despite the temporary injunction and declared seamen were being dispatched to ships as usual.

Pastor Dead at 100; Large Family Survives

Survivors include his wife, two daughters, three sons, 14 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

He was born in North Granville, N. Y., and at 22 entered Troy Conference Academy at Poultney, Vt., to prepare for the ministry. He went to Kansas after serving pastorates in Westport and Glen Falls, N. Y. Later, he came to Florida and served in pulpits in Barton, Ocala and Sanford before coming to Tampa.

He served churches in Clearwater and Thonotosassa after retiring at the age of 71. Funeral services will be tomorrow.

Nazis Promise Not to Fortify Area of Rhine

Acute Difficulty Solved in International Crisis, French Believe.

By the United Press.

Paris, Jan. 29.—Germany has promised she will not violate the Versailles Treaty by fortifying or occupying militarily the Rhineland zone, the foreign office announced today, thus solving an acute difficulty in the international situation.

Pierre Etienne Flandin, foreign minister, returned today after attending the funeral of King George V and consulting with Britain's foreign secretary, Anthony Eden. He reported to the cabinet that Germany pledged to Britain she would not send any military formation into the demilitarized Rhineland zone, established by peacemakers at the close of the World War.

Flandin expressed complete satisfaction with his conferences at the British foreign office. He said the two governments were in perfect accord on all questions of German foreign policy and actions contemplated in the immediate future.

France now considers Germany's promise to have closed completely a problem which the French had considered grave.

The usually well-informed newspaper Oeuvre said that France had received assurances from Italy that the Fascist state would be on her side in the event of trouble with Germany over the demilitarized zone.

France had asked Italy what attitude Mussolini's government would take should Germany rearm the zone, Oeuvre said, and received a reply that Italy would follow France's lead. Asked if Italy would be able to render assistance on the continent in view of the Italo-Ethiopian war, Italy replied that as only seven divisions of regulars were in East Africa, plenty of manpower was available. Money might be needed, however, it was said.

It is not a jacket, nor is it a shirt. It is both. The inspiration comes from South America and Cuba where the great sugar planters wear a shirt-jacket of this type. It is ideal for all informal wear in warm climates—southern cruises and resorts, and is headed for great popularity this coming Summer season.

The material is pure Irish linen, combining both jacket and shirt in one garment smartly and with dignity. It is to be worn with neck open for active sports. And it is trim-looking with the neck closed and a bow tie.

Subtle Touches Make "Liberte" Classic Gem

By Nelson B. Bell.

"A NOUS LA LIBERTE." Rene Clair's picturization of a story of prison breaks and big business, featuring Henri Marchand, Raymond Cordy, Rolla France, Paul Olivier, Andre Micaud and Germaine Aussey. Directed by Rene Clair. Reviewed Wednesday afternoon.

The impression conveyed by his earlier production of "Under the Roofs of Paris" that Rene Clair is one of the directors most completely in command of the full potentialities of the screen was corroborated yesterday by a first view of his production of "A Nous La Liberte," current on the screen of the Belasco Theater.

In an era when sound, dialogue and the usual commotions of everyday life are supposed to be paramount, Mons. Clair, like our adopted Charles Spencer Chaplin, has the courage to permit his film to be silent for long intervals and to rely upon the eloquence of pantomime for the telling of his story.

He finds valuable aids to the rounding out of a perfectly modeled dramatic structure in such innocent things as the ripples of a pond, the twittering of a bird and the waving of growing wheat in the fields. He has time, so to speak, to pay some attention to the little commonplaces that make up life for so many of us.

Is a Work of Art.

There is a subtle and satisfying sense of satire expressed in this story of a phonograph and record king who successfully broke jail and his fellow-prisoner, who did not, that elevates "Give Us Liberty" to a height considerably above the average run of American film productions. There is artistry here. The artistry of restraint is no less vigorously stressed than that of direct and forceful expression.

Clair is the one director of whom I am aware who is able to make his story transparently clear by the sheer expressiveness of its action. The superimposed English subtitles—which I still deem one of the supreme abominations of this form of screen entertainment—are of no value whatever in this case. They are as superfluous as icicles in Greenland.

The acting of the piece leaves little to be desired, as the saying goes, although some of the French methods of pointing comedy are slightly at variance with those in vogue on this side.

Laughter and Pathos.

Henri Marchand and Raymond Cordy contribute performances that are geared to a high ratio of laughs and tugs at the heart-strings.

The means of the principals mean so little to American audiences that there seems to be slight advantage in reciting their individual merits, although their individual merits are well worth the attention of any discriminating picturegoer.

In the small-type paragraph preceding this review will be found the directory of a majority of those who do most to make "A Nous La Liberte" a picture to be seen.

The supporting bill is, as usual, comprehensive. It embraces as an "extra added attraction" that admirable "Flying Dutchman" overture executed by the Paris Symphony Orchestra.

Then there are the full issue of the Pathe News and the other habitual short subjects that make of the Belasco bills an agreeable potpourri of practically every form of diversion the cinema has to offer.

Master Hardie Meakin, manager of the RKO-Keith Theater in this city, will be one of the most busy socialites of the impending week-end in the Capital. Today he greets Ginger Rogers, Fred Astaire's habitual co-star, pictured on this page, and on Friday and Saturday he will be host to Frank Buck, who is appearing in person in conjunction with first Washington presentations of this new picture, "Fang and Claw." I presume I have tossed this title around as much as anybody in the world, having called it "Claws and Fangs," "Fangs and Claws," "Claw and Fang" and practically everything else that might be derived from its simple and uninolved form. The name of the picture, it seems, is "Fang and Claw." I shall make an earnest effort to stick to that in future.

December Champions.

Seven pictures were involved in the Motion Picture Herald's monthly box-office survey to determine the "box-office champions of December" on the basis of actual public attendance in the so-called "key-cities" of the country.

There might be room for critical arguments as to the right of some of these champions to be included in that category. But so-many million Americans can't be wrong!

First place, as usual, was undisputed. It went to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's superlative production of "Mutiny on the Bounty," a film that possesses enough superior merits to establish it definitely as one of the foremost achievements of the cinema, to date.

Second place in the listings also was uncontested, the honor of runner-up being unanimously bestowed upon the Marx Brothers hilarious celluloid adventure, known as "A Night at the Opera."

Tied For Third.

Three releases were in a stalemate for third place. They were, and probably still are, "In Old Kentucky," last of the Will Rogers posthumous pictures; "Annie Oakley," starring Barbara Stanwyck, and "Thanks a Million," the musical for which Dick Powell was borrowed from Warner to add luster to Twentieth Century-Fox!

Two subjects were tied for fourth place in the national expenditure for tickets by the cash customers.

They were "So Red the Rose," starring Margaret Sullavan, with Walter Connelly and Randolph Scott, and "Frisco Kid," in which, to my mind, Jimmy Cagney did a better job than he does in the impending "Ceiling Zero."

It is a notable fact that four of the seven productions rating high listing among the December champions were similarly appraised in November.

Pictures are getting to be pretty good.

In case there is any doubt on this point, I suggest that reference be made to the local bookings that were occupying public attention here only a comparatively few years ago when "split-weeks" were the rule in the downtown, first-run area.

What tripe! And I am speaking gently.

Where-Pity-Is-Due Note.

That is rather a tough order they have wished on Ginger Rogers for tonight. All she has to go is be present at the President's birthday balls held in the grand ballrooms of the Mayflower, Shoreham, Willard, Wardman Park, Washington and Raleigh hotels.

Perhaps it is just as well that her name once was Ginger Pepper!

One of Them Arrives Here Today

This, of course, is the pre-eminent screen dancing team of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers engaged in the intricacies of their latest creation, "Let Yourself Go," to be revealed in a forthcoming picture. More important perhaps is the fact that Miss Rogers arrives in the National Capital today to lend the luster of her presence to the various President's Birthday Balls being given about town tonight. She will be guest of honor at a press reception, planned by Manager Hardie Meakin of RKO-Keith's, this afternoon between the hours of 4 and 6.

Miss Skinner Repeats Early Hit in 'Wives'

Tonight Will Repeat Bill That Features First of Her Longer 'Dramas.'

I met Henry the Eighth last night on E street, face to face, though Henry wasn't there.

That I suppose is the best tribute to Cornelia Otis Skinner's own particular art and the one everyone uses over and over again—praise for her amazing power to people the stage not only with the characters she portrays in the flesh but those she conjures up in the mind. I don't apologize for the repetition. It is amazing and it is true.

Before a large, distinguished and attentive audience, including Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Bridegroom Millard Tydings, etc., Miss Skinner paraded Henry's six wives and I won't forget them soon!

The bitter, unhappy, stubborn Catherine of Aragon; the lovely, passionate, reckless Ann Boleyn; the gentle, frightened, sweet Jane Seymour; the boisterous, laughing Ann of Cleves; the young, unfaithful Katheryn Howard; and the last, Katharine Parr, who outlived him. (Even the child, Elizabeth comes to life on the almost empty stage).

Of these, the portraits of Ann Boleyn in the tower, weeping, laughing, talking of her "little neck;" the gentle Jane, shortly before she gives Henry the son he has wanted and her life with him; and the merry "Flanders Mare," are the most vivid and moving—though as the latter, Miss Skinner was much too pretty and charming.

Henry never could have left such an Ann of Cleves. The Ann Boleyn was particularly brilliant and stirring, full of emotion, contrast and fire.

The three Katharines (spell them as you will) I liked less.

The Katheryn Howard seemed not as youthful for her 19 years as Ann had been, while the other two seemed a little too young and attractive.

Maybe Miss Skinner just can't help that, or perhaps I was too close (A on the aisle) for the make-up's full effect. That seat, however, let me see even the union musicians in the pit admiring her—success indeed!)

The "Loves of Charles II" is still my favorite of Miss Skinner's sequences.

Miss Skinner prefaced her major work last night with four shorter but no less skillful monodramas "Christmas Morning," amusing and very realistic; "The Vanishing Red Man," very, very funny; "Times Square," a splendid creation of a multitude of characters, made with her voice, her head, her heart and a scarf twisted this way and that, and the always hilarious "Being Presented."

It was a virtuosa's performance all around by an artist who creates and projects an art of her own.

DOROTHEA LEWIS.

Postlude

By Ray C. B. Brown.

Joint recital by Robert Casadesus and Mme. Gaby Casadesus, pianists, in Mayflower Hotel ballroom Wednesday morning. Program: For two pianos—Variations on a Theme by Beethoven (Saint-Saens), "Valse Romantique" No. 1 (Chabrier), "Russe" (Casadesus), "Gracia" (Infante); For solo piano—"Les Niais de Sologne," "Le Rappel des Oiseaux," "Les Cyclopes" (Rameau), Sonata in F minor, Op. 57 (Beethoven), "Jeux d'eau," "Alborada del Gracioso (Ravel).

As befits its major abilities, Robert Casadesus dominated this recital wherein his attractive and demure consort was a foil for his brilliant virtuosity. Not that Mme. Casadesus lacks individuality at the keyboard, but she willingly subordinates it to the masterly manner of her husband, and applies capable technique and a most agreeable touch as auxiliaries of his conquering artistry. As the result of her ancillary attitude, their two-piano work is not so much a true fusion as an amalgam of gold and silver.

Thanks to the technical facility and the dynamic expertise of the executants, the Saint-Saens variations spread their arabesques in remarkable clarity. Every phrase stood out in relief, and there were no shadowy outlines in the figuration. The composer could not have asked for a sharper definition of his clever commentaries on the theme.

The "Russe," by M. Casadesus, a deft piece of characterization in polychrome, was an absolute novelty. It is well constructed, highly nervouse in style, and a worthy addition to the comparatively scanty literature for two pianos. Its two companions, the rhythmically urgent "Gracia" of Manuel Infante, and Chabrier's parody of the romantic waltz, came as welcome music unspoiled by repetitive usage.

In his solo numbers Robert Casadesus paraded his full panoply of technique. As I remarked before on the occasion of his debut here last season, he is an objective player, all animation in the projection of the music.

Washington Music Teachers Association holds January meeting in Barker Hall Wednesday night, with Egon Petri as guest artist and lecturer.

There are occasions when the critic finds himself de trop. Deprived of his status and demoted from his functions to the rank of auditor, he can but listen without taking mental notes to be later composed into a review. Such was my nonoccupation as a guest of the assembled teachers of music, while Egon Petrie discoursed humorously and honestly on the difficulties of imparting instinctive knowledge to the seeking student, and afterward demonstrated what he could not explain.

What interested me particularly was Mr. Petri's frank admission that the artist does not know exactly how he does things, and that the artist who is also a teacher faces the problem of analyzing processes which have become second nature to him. This predicament is like that of the centipede who became motionless with bewilderment when asked which foot he put down first.

Mr. Petri has little use for "schools" of piano playing, or for the various theories of weight, relaxation, rotation and position. Talking in the professional family, as it were, he was not reticent in his reasons for distrusting any set procedure to which all students must conform.

WilliamGillette Is Next Week's Theater Star

Revives 'Three Wise Fools' to Compete With Strong Array of Films.

The living drama will achieve new distinction on Monday night in the National Theater when that reverend exponent of all that is fine in histrionics, William Gillette, returns to the boards in a revival of Austin Strong's engaging comedy of "Three Wise Fools." An octogenarian, Mr. Gillette returns to the stage with an alertness of mind and person that suggests an actor 30 years his junior. He will be surrounded by a cast of note on Monday night, headed by Charles Coburn and James Kirkwood. There will be the usual matinee performances on Wednesday and Saturday. This engagement marks another of the high spots in a season that has been prolific in noteworthy accomplishment.

On the screen at Loew's Fox Theater next week, beginning tomorrow, will be found that exciting melodrama, "Exclusive Story," mildly celebrated in this space yesterday and to be completely reviewed on Saturday. Madge Evans, Franchot Tone, Stuart Erwin, J. Farrell MacDonald and Louise Henry are foremost in the cast. On the stage will be that flamboyant production known as "Broadway's Hollywood Cafe Revue." The bill will be completed by a new issue of the Fox Movietone News and Phil Lampkin's shrewdly devised orchestral contributions.

• • • •

"Ceiling Zero," the Warner Brothers picturization of Commander Frank Wead's stage play of the same name, will be the major screen feature at the Earle Theater for the week beginning tomorrow. The principal roles are played by Pat O'Brien and James Cagney, supported by Stuart Erwin, June Travis and a long list of others who lend something of the original thrill to a drama that was a masterpiece of suspense when first presented on the stage. The vaudeville portion of the bill will be headlined by Paul Gerritts, one of the most amiable of pastimers. Newsreel and orchestral contributions under the direction of C. Frederick Clark will complete the bill.

• • • •

The attraction at the RKO-Keith Theater for the week beginning tomorrow will be the new Frank Buck production of adventure in the wild places of the earth, "Fang and Claw." As has been remarked elsewhere on this page, Frank Buck, in person, will be present to add interest to the premiere presentation in this city of his latest contribution to the zoological records of the cinema. The bill, as usual, will be augmented by minor screen subjects and a new issue of the Pathe News.

• • • •

At the Palace Theater, beginning tomorrow, the attraction will be the new Samuel Goldwyn annual starring Eddie Cantor, a musical dolde-rol known by the name of "Strike Me Pink," but widely publicized before hand under the name of "Shoot the Chutes." In this subject, the button-eyed comedian is principally supported by Ethel Merman, a huge cast of feminine beauties and that fabulous fellow, Parkyakarkus. The bill will be completed by the usual array of short-reel subjects.

• • • •

At the Metropolitan Theater for the week beginning tomorrow the attraction will be "The Murder of Dr. Harrington," in which the stellar role is played by Ricardo Cortez, soon to be seen in person on the stage of the Earle Theater as headliner of the vaudeville bill. The bill will be supplemented by short subjects and a full, 15-minute issue of newsreel subjects.

• • • •

The Columbia Theater, for the week beginning tomorrow, will present as its principal screen feature that superb picturization of Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities," in which Ronald Coleman is starred in the role of Sydney Carton. The bill will be completed by short-reel features and newsreel.

RILEY AND FARLEY, "The Music Goes 'Round and Around"—and so do they.

Mike Riley is the pale member of the team. He is 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighs 155 pounds. He has a snappy mustache, wears form-fitting suits and appears as if he were bred in a night club. Eddie Farley is the beefy member. He is 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighs 192 pounds. He walks pigeon-toed and talks strictly New Yorkese.

• • • •

Riley was born in Fall River, Mass., on January 5, 1904. He is thoroughly Irish. The name used to be O'Riley. There were 15 children in the family, and Mike was the youngest.

Farley was born in Newark on July 16, 1905. He is Irish and German, his mother's maiden name being Lauder. There were 15 children in the family, and Eddie was the youngest.

• • • •

Riley got as far as grammar school, but it was always his ambition to be a musician. He played the trombone in a church band. He worked as a helper to a brother, who was an electrician. He didn't like this. He was advised to pack his trombone and parade up and down Forty-sixth street and Broadway with musicians. "Some one will pick you up," he was told.

He was picked up and given a job in a jazz orchestra to play a dance hall in Keansburg, N. J. This was his entry into show business.

Farley went to St. Benedict's Prep in Newark. He wanted to be a lawyer. His father, who mixed in politics, wanted him to be a musician. He studied the violin, but didn't like it. A sister had to learn to play the cornet, but didn't like it. Eddie took to the cornet and made his debut playing at political shindigs.

• • • •

Riley and Farley met in Kansas City. Mike was a member of Will Osborne's band and Eddie a member of Bert Lown's orchestra. They became friends, and both aspired to be leaders of their own crew.

They worked together often and tried to organize a band, but without success. They were still trying when they went to see Louis Prima at the Famous Door, and someone gave them a tip about the Onyx Club, which was about to open. They started there July 23, 1935—and soon they were to fire the musical shot which was heard round and round the world.

They played at an affair at the Roosevelt Hotel, and a girl asked Riley how he played his odd, three-valve saxophone. Later, at the Onyx Club, he was asked the same question. Now everyone has heard the answer.

• • • •

Riley is married and has one boy, age 4½. Farley is married and has a boy 7 years old and a girl 4½ months. They are both married to nonprofessionals.

Broadway

By Ed Sullivan

Tintypes.

New York, Jan. 29.

COLD, blasty winds whistled down the ice-covered New York blocks, and at midnight, when vitality runs low, the bite of zero temperature is deep and savage . . . From various parts of the city dinner-jacketed men and women in evening gowns were jolting unevenly through the ice-rutted boulevards and converging on East Fifty-second street . . . This was the opening night of the Yacht Club Boys at the Versailles, and neither wind nor cold nor a cold in the head can keep your true Broadwayite from an opening . . . Surrounding the circular floor were the old, familiar faces, but the clothes were new, the gowns the best that money could ketch . . . The Yacht Club Boys made their entrance from the rear of the room, pushing their way thorugh lanes reduced in width by the crush of tables . . . But their white ties and tails were unruffled by the night club traffic . . . Mann and Kern worked on the floor, Kelly and Adler mounted a piano stool directly behind them . . . They parodied the Government penchant for tagging national projects with letters of the alphabet; they kidded their return to New York, in song; they sang of the amorous conditions that prevail in Spain—I mean to say, they sang about six songs, even going out through the audience to solicit questions for their "Swami" number, with Adler as the turbaned fortune-teller . . . Sophisticated, polished, lyric-wise, they clicked with an audience that was equally sophisticated, polished and lyric-wise.

• • • •

Surprise of the evening was Josephine Huston, the greatest "sock" of the night club year . . . If you should stumble into a night club and without warning hear Grace Moore or Lily Pons or Gladys Swarthout sing beautifully, you'd understand the commotion created by Miss Huston . . . Opening the show cold, she also stopped it cold . . . Her charm of face and manner, coupled with the charm of her voice, exploded the place into a storm of applause, the solid kind of applause that is reserved for the Sophie Tuckers and Ethel Mermans on their "hot" nights . . . Al Siegel, crown prince of rhythm, can take the bows on this new sensation of the night club circuit . . . His deft arrangements of her songs, which pitch the first chorus in a very low key, makes it appear that her final chorus is way above high C, and when she hits the top note, the roof falls in from the weight of the applause . . . She is the most exciting arrival on the local scene in too long a stretch.

• • • •

Earlier in the evening, Morris Gest had brought to the Booth Theater a Chinese play, called "Lady Precious Stream" . . . In the tradition of the Chinese Theater, scenery and props were ignored . . . A cute Chinese girl, serving as a one-woman Greek chorus, explained to the audience that if an actor lifted his foot while walking across stage, it would signify that he had just reached a sidewalk and was stepping up to it . . .

• • • •

At 3:30 a. m. your reporter was ringsiding at Leon and Eddie's, and assuring the solicitous headwaiter that a steak sandwich would not make a comfortable pillow for a night's slumber . . . Behind the orchestra platform your eye is attracted by the remarkable panel of caricatures which Zito has drawn . . . Floodlighted from above, this group of caricatures is the most interesting art work in town . . . Gable, Mae West, Joe Louis, Swanson, Chaplin are a few of those represented . . . Curiously enough, the caricature of the Prince of Wales foretold the King's death . . . Wales is represented with the kingly crown on his head.

• • • •

Guy Lombardo was one of the stayer-up-lates at this spot . . . We hadn't spoken since the column in which I'd stated his band had flopped at Place d'Opera, but last night, as I was retrieving my hat from the pretty hat check girl, Guy broke the ice . . . "I was really mad at you, Ed," he said, "but as it developed, that line in your column was just the spur all of us needed" . . . Burned up at me, the Lombardo band stepped into Pittsburgh and cracked a record there . . . At Philly and Boston, they repeated, and now they're exceeding their best marks at the Roosevelt Hotel

Jenkins Named Grand Master Of Odd Fellows

Anderson Chosen Secretary for Thirtieth Term in Succession.

Roscoe Jenkins, retired Treasury Department aid, last night was elected grand master of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows by the grand lodge of the District in annual session. More than 500 representatives and past grand masters were present.

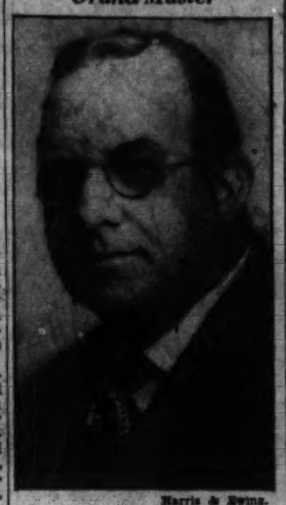

Other officers chosen were Linwood E. Donaldson, deputy grand master; A. S. Custer, grand warden; Harry L. Andresen, grand secretary (reelected for the thirtieth consecutive year); Charles B. Lampe, grand treasurer; James E. Chamberlain, representative to the board of trustees of the temple; J. Burton Kincer, representative to the home association, and Chalmers F. Groff, representative to the grand lodge board of trustees.

The grand sire, Parke P. Deans, of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, attended the session, receiving an ovation. His escort of honor was Canton Washington, No. 1, of the Patriarch Militant, under direction of Department Commander William F. Becker.

Jenkins, who lives at 639 Eighth street northeast, was employed in the office of the Treasurer of the United States for 36 years until his retirement in 1935. He was initiated into the I. O. O. F. by Springdale Lodge, No. 394, at Humboldt, Iowa, in 1898. It was in 1903 that he became a member of Harmony Lodge, No. 9, in Washington. Since then he has held many lodge positions. He is a member of the Northeast Washington Citizens Association.

91 of Graduates At D. C. Schools Are Advanced

48 Completing Elementary Work Will Go to Central After Next Monday.

Ninety-one mid-year graduates of six elementary schools will skip junior high and go directly to high school at the end of the present semester Monday.

These six elementary schools are the only ones left in the District which go beyond the sixth into the eighth grade, thus eliminating the junior high school step.

Forty-eight of the eighth-grade graduates will enter Central High School, 43 of them from the John Quincy Adams School and the others from Webster School.

Western will get 21 from John Quincy Adams, 7 from John Eaton and 5 from the Industrial Home School. The Webster School will send one graduate to Eastern.

Band Walkout

her speech, scheduled for the forenoon.

Rising from his desk, Snell said he was "astounded and chagrined" at the Marine Band's walkout on a woman's organization "representing some 500,000 leading patriotic women of America interested in maintaining national defense and American institutions."

"This happened only because these women had the temerity to listen to an outstanding address on the Constitution by Bainbridge Colby," shouted Snell, adding that the band was paid by the taxpayers' money.

"Is this a forerunner of what Mr. Farley has said would be the dirtiest campaign in history?" demanded the Republican leader.

"It certainly looks like it. I wonder if the time has come when free speech, freedom of the press and freedom of assemblage are to be suppressed. To me this smacks of something un-American."

Taking issue with Snell, Chairman O'Connor, of the House Rules Committee, rose and asked Snell whether he remembered "a free assemblage of veterans on Pennsylvania avenue which Mr. Hoover ran out of town."

"I'll discuss that, too, if the gentleman likes," roared Snell. "But are you going to stack your Administration against this kind of meetings?"

"Has the time come in this country when a free American citizen cannot criticize the acts of the Administration?"

Order's Origin Unknown.

At the Navy Department, Secretary Swanson said he did not know the origin of the order under which the Marine Band packed up and left, nor of any order withdrawing the Navy speakers.

"I think the officers acted very properly in resenting the attack on their commander in chief, which to them was offensive," Swanson added.

He further stated it was the policy of the Navy that none of the commissioned personnel should participate in political meetings.

"Navy officers don't take any interest in politics," the Secretary asserted, "and they frequently are cautioned not to appear at such meetings."

The withdrawal of the Marine Band drew fire from Chairman Henry Fletcher, of the Republican National Committee.

"The decision of the Administration to boycott the Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense by the withdrawal of three high-ranking officers from their engagements to address the gathering, following Former Secretary of State Colby's speech in defense of the Constitution and reference to the effects of the Roosevelt Administration to circumvent and nullify it, is typical of the attitude of the New Deal.

"They simply can't take it," added the Republican chairman.

"This boycott was followed up by an even more petty show of spite against the women patriots. Just as the Marine Band was ready to open the meeting last evening orders came from on high for the band to withdraw, and withdraw they did.

"So this is America!" exclaimed Fletcher in disgust.

"Perhaps the Marine Band will next be ordered not to play 'My Country, 'Tis of Thee.' It might be regarded as a criticism of the New Deal!"

'Improper,' Says King.

On the Senate side Senator William H. King, the Utah Democrat, who is chairman of the Senate Committee on District Affairs, said he regarded the withdrawal of the Marine Band as "highly improper."

Striking a blow in defense of the Administration, Representative Mary T. Norton, chairman of the House Committee on District Affairs, said the New Deal "can stand on its record."

"While the walkout of the Marine Band seems childish," declared Mrs. Norton, "I think Capt. Branson must have had a good reason for it.

"The New Deal can stand on its own record, despite all criticism."

Chairman McSwain, of the House Military Affairs Committee, however, said: "I believe that the ladies of the patriotic organization should not be punished because Bainbridge Colby gave an exhibition of bad taste. Ladies of both parties condemned his address in talks with me. My conduct has always been governed by the rule that where national defense begins, politics must stop. However, this incident probably will teach the ladies that in the future they must warn speakers to stick to the subject and refrain from politics."

The refusal of Mrs. Jenckes to deliver her scheduled address, which was to have been on "Women's Responsibility for the Maintenance of American Patriotic Ideals," little ruffled the officials of the conference or the delegates.

"My reason for canceling my address," said Mrs. Jenckes, in a formal note to Mrs. Harriet Vaughn Rigdon, chairman of the conference, "is that I resent the failure of officers of the Eleventh Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense to defend the Administration of Franklin Delano Roosevelt against the political attacks which were made by a speaker whose name was printed on the program, responsibility for the maintenance

"If women are to assume the of American patriotic ideals, then we must rebuke any attempts to use such an organization as the Eleventh Women's Patriotic Conference as a national sounding board for those who would tear down the constructive progress in behalf of national defense which the Administration of Franklin Delano Roosevelt has accomplished."

Mrs. Rigdon, who is national president of the Dames of the Loyal Legion, seemed not at all troubled that the Indiana Representative did not appear.

No Need To Ask.

In a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury, Senator Vandenberg asks whether it would be feasible to convert sums past due on war-debt account into marketable securities, and sell them to the American people.

The suggestion gives the Senator an opportunity to emphasize the need for new sources of revenue for "our extraordinarily hard-pressed Treasury." Otherwise, there appears to be little excuse for turning to such a forlorn hope. Governments that have already been officially dubbed defaulters by this country will undoubtedly take their time about reopening negotiations for a settlement. Indeed, some of them seem to regard these debts as already virtually written off the slate.

Unfortunately, the arguments advanced in defense of suspension of payments apply with especial force at a time when the United States, with an undervalued dollar, has been drawing away the gold reserves of other countries. Furthermore, political unsettlement in Europe, continuing anxiety regarding the fate of the gold-bloc currencies, and chaotic conditions in the exchange markets seem to preclude any immediate re-examination of the war-debt question.

Undoubtedly Europe is at present finding a way to buy and pay for American securities in large amounts, as Senator Vandenberg points out. That is attested by the huge inflow of gold, which is a thoroughly undesirable development from both a domestic and international point of view. It does not follow, however, that European governments either could or would attempt to collect and transfer sums due the United States on war-debt account.

Security purchases by foreign investors in this market are the result of a capital inflow. Interest payments on debt account, on the other hand, are a recurrent liability of debtor countries that have to be offset in some way. In other words, resumption of war-debt payments must wait upon an answer to the debtors' question of how to find means to pay a creditor country that has a favorable balance on international account, unless the creditor consents to buy more goods or lend the debtor funds with which to make payment.

Out Of The Red.

During the last quarter of 1935 the United States Steel Corporation reported a net operating profit of over $5,000,000, thereby converting a deficit for the preceding nine months into a slight balance on the right side of the ledger.

The extent of the gain cannot be measured by the negligible amount of net profits. It can only be realized by contrasting the showing for the past year with the huge deficits of the three preceding years. The change is significant as an encouraging indication that recovery has spread to those heavy industries that for a long time failed to benefit from the general business upturn.

The United States Steel Corporation, being a manufacturer of heavy products, was especially slow about falling into line with other profit-making concerns. Chairman Taylor reports that there is still a low volume of demand for heavier steel products required for construction and development work. He adds, however, that "there is evidence that the taking care of maintenance and obsolescence, as well as expansion and development enterprises, are gradually bringing about better demands for these classes of steel products."

The outlook for the steel industry as a whole appears particularly encouraging in the light of the Federal Reserve Board's report that its industrial production index for December advanced to the highest level reached since the spring of 1930. Moreover, employment in steel mills and in steel-using industries—such as automobile factories, foundries, machine shops and railroad car-building plants—was said to be increasing.

To sustain and increase the demand for heavy steel products an expansion of new capital issues is needed. New security offerings rose steadily during the past year, but the bulk of the corporate issues was for refunding purposes. Very little new capital was raised with a view of using the proceeds in carrying out expansion programs. Thus one highly important source of demand for the products of the heavy industries remains at abnormally low ebb.

When the hesitant capital markets are drawn into the general recovery movement, further impetus will be given to the gratifying improvement already in evidence in the heavy industries. The social importance of the trend is indicated by the concentration of unemployment in the manufacturing and mechanical industries, now for the first time showing important improvement.

The Campaign Is On.

Over nine months before the Presidential election the Nation finds its ears assailed by a lively orchestration of political discussion. The speech of Al Smith last Saturday night has been quickly followed by offerings from Senator Robinson, Senator Borah and now Gov. Landon, to say nothing of less significant pipings on minor wind instruments. Out on the fringes of audition are heard raucous squeakings, blowings and puffings from Talmadgians, Coughlinites, Townsendites and other curious mouth organs. In short, the campaign is under way.

None will assert that this sound and fury signifies nothing. It is a very essential part of the technique of democracy, which long ago prompted a shrewd foreign commentator to observe that every four years the normally restrained American public goes berserk in its desire to grapple and slay the problems of self-government. But this year the tempo is faster, the tension is more acute, the emotions run higher than normal. It may well prove to be both a bitter and a confusing campaign.

Primarily, of course, this is due to general appreciation of the great importance of 1936 in American history, and the fact that party traditions and party lines are both melting in the fierce heat generated by divergent reactions to the problems of the day. One indication of the magnitude of the occasion is found in the repudiations of the Administration made on two successive nights by the two previous Presidential candidates of the Democratic Party—John W. Davis and Al Smith. Equally significant are the factional divisions in the Republican Party, with some anxious to claw their way "back to normalcy," others leaning toward approval of the Democratic platform which they fought in 1932, and still others inclined to outdeal the New Dealers in the spreading of largesse.

The extent of these confusions in political circles was indicated by the speeches of Senators Robinson and Borah, on Tuesday night. The former, replying to Al Smith's Liberty League oration, had no difficulty in showing various inconsistencies between the past and present utterances of his former running mate. Senator Borah, in his discursive Brooklyn speech, made a few good points—particularly his observation regarding the love exhibited by party stalwarts for an insurgent, "when he is in the other party."

But both these addresses, like that of former Gov. Smith before them, failed to contribute constructive thought to the political symposium. Senator Robinson disposed of everything except the really outstanding feature about Al Smith's speech, which is that this most democratic Democratic standard bearer will no longer go along with his party. Senator Borah again showed that he has a deep understanding of, and trust in, the processes of American constitutional government. Otherwise these three speeches contained little that was really vital.

Very different in character, and the more refreshing by contrast, was the speech made by Gov. Landon at Topeka last night. It showed not merely a thorough comprehension of the fundamentals of our Government, but also a clear-headed appreciation of the real character of the problems now before the country. Here was no labored endeavor to discredit an opponent's sincerity, and no attempt to tell the "peepul" that if they will themselves name their Presidential choice all will be well. Here, on the contrary, was a simple, lucid, dispassionate endeavor to isolate the one outstanding issue facing the electorate.

That issue, reduced to simplest terms, is whether or not the United States is to have an efficient Federal Government, or one composed of bunglers. Bunglers may be, and often are, very charming people. They may have the most eloquent ideas on the subject of social reform; the most complete self-satisfaction in their own righteousness and the benighted selfishness of their critics. But their policies, however intrinsically admirable, are discredited if they can only be accomplished at the cost of national solvency. When the foundations are insecure the most beautiful structures are only jerrybuilt. And good-hearted, idealistic, incompetent bungling is not extenuated by the degree of recovery attained in spite of it.

To the people of the United States, as to Gov. Landon, "performance counts for more than phrases." Confidence in the Administration is more important than "the exploitation of a multiplicity of pretentious plans which do not work." Intelligent direction of a relatively simple, yet forward-looking, program carries far more hope of progress than any attempt to reach Utopia, by spasmodic, uncoordinated leaps.

Gov. Landon is to be congratulated for having put the fundamental issue so clearly at this early stage of the campaign. He is to be congratulated for avoiding personalities and for emphasizing that in this campaign it is as vital to be wholly fair in crediting actual accomplishments as it is to be courageous in criticizing unmistakable blunders.

If this technique governs in ensuing months, the Nation, whatever the outcome in November, will prove the value of democratic procedure. The greater the part played by vindictive personalities, the less will be the realization that the simple question of intelligent versus fumbling government is the one great issue of 1936.

With His Forebears.

At rest now in a vault with the unhappy George IV, the blundering William IV, the despotic Henry I, the tempestuous Henry VIII and the headless Charles I is the simple king known as "Squire." On his casket is earth from those places in his kingdom which he loved best. Past his bier, guarded for a time by his sons, had filed princes, servants, laborers, farmers, dukes, innkeepers and even invalids wheeled in chairs. Side by side with those mourners whose names are headlines in the daily news were others whose shabby shoes were lined with newspapers. The formal change of guard, the cordons of police, the tolling bells, the gun salutes were a nation's farewell to its monarch. But the banked flowers, the endless lines standing for hours in a cold rain, the bowed heads, were a people's good-by to a friend.

"Ashes to ashes, dust to dust," and with these solemn words intoned by the Primate, King George V of England passed into history. Gazing down at the slowly lowered coffin in the chapel at Windsor were five monarchs, not including Edward VIII. They had just passed through mile after mile of city streets and countryside thronged with long lines of mourners. Surely here was a lesson for them if they chose to accept it. In this day when "all the large effects that troop with majesty" have generally been replaced by democracies and dictators, it is a striking commentary on the personal integrity of a king when he manages not only to maintain the loyalty, but also to acquire the love of his subjects.

Beside those five kings from other countries who had come to pay homage may have stood in spirit the many dethroned monarchs who were contemporaries of George V. The assassinated Czar, the exiled Alphonso, Charles the deposed Hapsburg, the lonely Kaiser, the routed Sultan and the Italian Victor who is overshadowed by a dictator. All of these rulers went through the trying days of the World War, but the grandson of Victoria was one of the few who emerged with his position in his kingdom stronger than ever. Well, indeed, might these few reigning monarchs present bow their heads in respect.

Yet, even in death, the continuity of a ruling line is unbroken. George V is buried. Edward VIII takes up his new responsibilities. As the old king joins his ancestors and the new king goes on with the work of his predecessors, we get the full implication of the maxim: "A man's a man, but when you see a king, you see the work of many thousand men."

Long's Successor.

For all its dramatic suddenness, the death of Gov. Oscar K. Allen of Louisiana only a few months after the assassination of Huey Long will have slight effect on politics in the Delta country. Though the titular heir to the late Senator's hegemony, it had become clear that the Governor's grip was not equal to the task of holding together the many ambitious lieutenants of the State Democratic machine. Those who have been counting the share-the-wealth-and-every-man-a-king movement into estimates of the weight of Gov. Talmadge's threat to lead the South in a break from the New Deal need change their prognostications but little.

As the stroke which carried away the Governor differed greatly from the pistol shots which ended the Senator, so the careers of the two men varied. Where the latter was raucous and assertive, the former was quiet and unobtrusive. Oscar Allen rose from a log schoolhouse to the $5,000,000 State House at Baton Rouge as a result of having been among the first to recognize Huey Long's potentialities. Backing him in an early race for the Public Service Commission, Allen was repaid 20 years later by being asked to become Governor and stamp his convenient initials on the Senator's orders—a role, be it said, that he fulfilled with no delusions of grandeur.

Within a few weeks he was scheduled to arrive in Washington to fill out the unexpired term of Senator Long. That finished, he was to have resigned all pretense to leadership in Louisiana. It would have been a peaceful exit, even without the intervention of death.

Another thing that fools the Government is that the small minority that wants something makes so much more noise than the large majority that doesn't want them to have it.

"There is a tribe in South America in which the husbands speak one language, the wives another," says an explorer. To a large extent, this is true in North America.

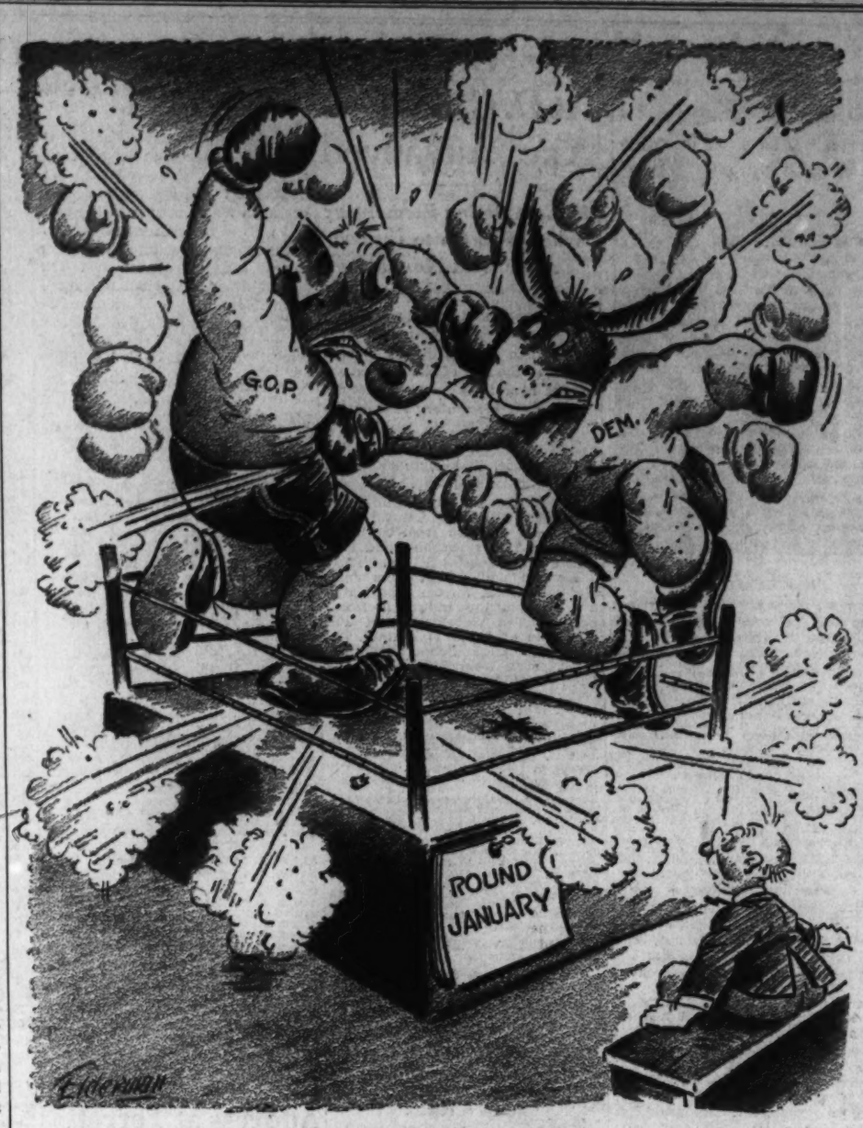

"By retiring in a tree you can cure yourself of insomnia," declares a physician. And by falling out you can cure yourself of any other ailments you may have.

After NRA.

From the Dallas Morning News.

Whether NRA raised wages or whether natural business stimulation after depression occurred becomes a futile question. The new dealer argues one way and the anti the other, both agreeing that conditions are better. American industry proves its real mettle nevertheless in the maintenance of wage levels after the Supreme Court had dropped the recovery act overboard as excess ballast. You can see the facts in the survey of 2,000 manufacturing plants in 25 industries by the National Industrial Conference Board.

These industries employ 1,000,000 workers. In October, 1935, the average hourly wage level and employment was higher than in April, final month of the NRA. The working week was but two hours longer. Total employment was 1.8 per cent higher in October than in April.

Washington's Hornblowers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In Washington one cannot cease to marvel at the poignancy of the old and homely adage, "The horn that blows the most is the greenhorn's." What could be truer anywhere? Yet what or who is to stop them? Could anyone imagine a member of the police force accosting a driver seated in his car and "blowing" around the avenues and circles, or down the one-way residential streets at night? Hardly.

Anyone who is an experienced driver is aware that horn blowing is seldom necessary, provided the operator of the car is fully conscious, skilled in handling the car, and has it under control. No one knows this better than the successful driver. J. B. C.

Reactions To Al Smith's Address.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I voted for Al Smith in 1928. I worked on Mrs. Roosevelt's committee in New York and well remember the yeoman service she did for his election. It was a fine, outstanding group of women who were supporting him—Frances Perkins, Mary Dewey, Mrs. Caspar Whitney, Rosamond Pinchot and a host of others. Why were these women working for Smith? Because of his fine record for constructive social legislation as Governor of New York.

The acquisition of wealth has made Al Smith a conservative. It is rather tragic for the man who came up from "the sidewalks of New York" to forget the road over which he traveled. To me Al Smith is the "Lost Leader."

We that had loved him so, followed him, honored him,
Lived in his mild and magnificent eye,
Learned his great language, caught his clear accents,
Made him our pattern to live and to die!

We shall march prospering—not thro' his presence;
Songs may inspirit us—not from his lyre;
Deeds will be done—while he boasts his quiescence,
Still bidding crouch whom the rest bade aspire.

HARRIOT T. COOKE.

Washington, Jan. 27.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Today we are at the door of prosperity after a close shave from united downfall. Then we put a man in office that we wanted there, and he performed his duty to the best of his knowledge. This man is none other than the Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who by far is our man of the hour and our savior of this great country which was in the depths of hell when he took it over. Think what kind of country we would have had if it had not been for him. Look back three years and see the difference. Then why does this soap box of a man Al Smith talk so much?

We are still asking one another this question. This new Liberty League boss knows why. Because he made his pile and the hell with the little man now; that's why. That's the way those East Side guys are when they get in the blue. You know I voted for that guy myself in 1928, but when I see how he turned out, I'm glad that Hoover got in. At least he didn't talk so much anyway.

Washington, Jan. 27.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Al Smith would have made a much more devastating attack on the Administration policies if he had manifested a fuller knowledge of conditions and suggested definite, wise alternatives instead of derisive wisecracks and conventional criticisms.

It "aint" sporting to knock the other fellow who is doing his best when you haven't anything better to offer. W. S.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 27.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Alfred Smith recently stated that President Roosevelt had deliberately fostered legislation which he knew beforehand to be unconstitutional. According to Smith this was connived so that, by action of the Supreme Court in declaring such laws null and void, a great mass of citizens would arise in a demand for an amendment to the Constitution. These would include general workers (NRA); farmers and middlemen (AAA); railroad workers (railway pension act); coal miners (Bituminous Coal Commission); consumers within the areas covered by such projects as the TVA and any others.

Such a statement insults the intelligence of our people. Smith evidently gambled away his right to a reputation for honesty when he pinned his statement upon the President's suggestion to the Congress that it pass the Guffey coal act "even if there is doubt as to the constitutionality of his pending law." By his statement Governor Smith thinks that the President and/or the Congress can know beforehand that a proposed law is within or outside the Constitution. He fails to say that Roosevelt may have been impelled to state to Congress that he wished this legislation covering the bituminous coal industry because an emergency existed in that industry which required immediate attending, and because the President was bold enough to strike out upon an uncharted sea in an effort to accomplish "the greatest good for the greatest number."

Mr. Smith dwelt at great length upon Roosevelt's departure from the 1932 Democratic platform. Does Mr. Smith think for a moment that the people of the United States are going to forget all about the emergencies which arose between the time the 1932 platform was adopted (June) and the inauguration of Roosevelt, about ten months later? No one forgets that almost within the hour (correct me if I am wrong) of his inauguration as President he was compelled to close every bank in this country. That is how conditions had changed from June of 1932.

A writer has said "they loved Al on the 'raddio' (1928) but they voted for Hoover." Well—I don't think that they even liked him this time; too many DuPont brothers out in front.

LEONARD M. BRIN.

Washington, Jan. 28.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: East Side Al's speech on the state of the unanimity in regard to Roosevelt, and the misdeal he is to blame for twisting around the necks of the younger generation, contains many noble thoughts. He hands the court orchids for spilling the alphabet soup out the window three letters at a time.

We question the legality of this procedure and have a suggestion to make for the court's future guidance. Make the alphabet walk the plank in columns of threes. In that way they cannot bounce back via the concrete domes of certain New Deal legislators.

J. WINSTEAD.

Bonus Suggestion.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have a suggestion I would like to put forth to be used in some form in payment of the soldiers' bonus. About one-sixth of the veterans, I believe, carry regular Government insurance, on which most have loans at 6 per cent compounded annually.

Naturally many will want to cut down these high interest loans with proceeds of the bonus payment. (The writer personally wishes to use the entire amount for this purpose.)

Blanks could be sent out by the insurance division, Veterans' Administration, with premium notices for the use of those wishing to employ this plan. It would obviate the issuance of innumerable small denomination bonds and the immediate cashing of a large part of the bonds, which is what the Government seeks to avoid. It would be just a bookkeeping performance involving transference of credits. The whole thing could be accomplished with a minimum of red tape and avoidance of much expense. The Veterans' Administration would have an investment suitable to its needs.

I suggest that Washington, Maryland, etc., legion officials take notice of this and talk it over with officials of the Veterans' Administration. T. W. THURBER.

Edmonston, Md., Jan. 28.

Valedictory To The Capital.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: To date approximately 5,000 former employes of the NRA, the WPA, the AAA and the emergency units of the permanent departments are out of work. Within a relatively short time 5,000 more of these employes will be dismissed.

Consequently, within a relatively short time, there will be a general exodus from Washington of some 10,000 former Government workers, it being self-evident that the present administrative set-up is not in position to absorb them.

Therefore, within a relatively short time, many local retail merchants, automobile dealers, finance and credit companies and landlords will become frantic over thousands of unpaid accounts, thousands of cars upon which the balance is still due and numerous empty apartment houses and hotels.

To the automobile dealers and finance companies must go our sympathies, due to the fact that the coming exodus will largely be enhanced by the use of their cars, such action resulting in the expenditure of no small sums of money in order to retrieve their cars from such points of the compass as Walla Walla, Flagstaff, Palm Beach, Leech Lake and Biddeford.

We who leave Washington can only hope that, for those who remain, conditions will right themselves; that their rents will be lowered, that prices in general will be reduced, that living conditions will be improved and that a healthy competition will ensue which will bring about such desired changes, including a better grade of goods being offered with an appreciative regard for the consumers' desires and pocketbooks.

Nothing Radical.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Apropos of the disturbance over Karl Becker's "Modern Europe" and the foolish charges that for the sake of publicity that this moderate liberal is a dangerous Communist, let me say that I have just read an excellent and laudatory criticism of his recent book, "Every Man His Own Historian," in the Commonweal, a Roman Catholic weekly, of New York, by Richard J. Purcell, who is identified as a professor of history at the Catholic University.

The Post Impressionist

Post Office, Thursday.

"DO you know how the men of today most plainly show their difference from their fathers?" wrote Column-correspondent Roger B. Hawkins early in the week. And he answered his own question: "It's not so much in anything they do as in something they don't do. They don't carry pocketknives."

"Don't they?" we wrote back to him.

"They do not," he replied by return mail.—He was so prompt that we suspect he had more than half his reply ready and written, in the expectation of our demanding it: "They do not, and I'll tell you why.

"It's because the uses of a pocketknife have passed out of the hands of the former pocketknife-carriers.

"The primary purpose of the pocketknife," continues Mr. Hawkins' letter, "was to whittle—whittle, I mean, for whittling's sake.

"Men didn't whittle to construct anything: they whittled to destroy anything that could be whittled. A fellow would pick up a stick and whittle it till there wasn't any of the stick left, and when there wasn't any of the stick lef, or any stick handy, they whittled the cracker-boxes and the dried-fruit barrels that stood around the cross-roads store—or they whittled the very chairs they sat on.

"Well, where's the art of whittling now? The utilitarian rush of ugly modern life has utterly destroyed it. Today there are no more men who know how to whittle than there are men who know how the pyramids were built or the statues of Easter Island were carved. Whittling needs a Wendell Phillips to enshrine it in an oration on 'Lost Arts.'

"Or take the lead-pencil," says Mr. Hawkins.

"Lead-pencils had to be sharpened every once in a while, and the pocketknife was used to do the sharpening. But nowadays 50 per cent of the lead-pencils don't have to be sharpened, and the other 50 per cent are sharpened in offices by those things you turn a crank to operate. Also, there are far fewer pencils in use than there once were—there are far more fountain-pens.

"But that's not all," the letter runs on: "A careful study of the rise and fall of the match and the toothpick reveals one more cause of the decline of the pocketknife.

"There was a time when the matchs that people carried around with them—always in dinky silver 'matchsafes'—were long pieces of wood with sulphur heads on them. By inelegant men openly—and by some elegant men secretly—these matches were decapitated with a pocketknife and then cut down by it to serve as toothpicks, overt or surreptitious, as the case might be.

"This practice received a severe blow when the safety-match appeared: it was a bit too short and too brittle for toothpick purposes. Finally, the toothpick match went out when the paper match came in. What knife, however keen—in what hands, however capable—could cut a match into a toothpick when that match was nothing but paper?

"And don't say that men could go on using pocketknives to cut their toothpicks out of other bits of wood," Mr. Hawkins warns us. "Pretty soon the whole etiquette and practice of toothpickery suffered a sea-change.

"There had once been an epoch when high-hat men—'beaver hats' were what they wore in those days—carried collapsible gold-toothpicks on the wrong ends of their watch chains or, at the very least, quill toothpicks in their right-hand waistcoat-pockets. However, the rugged individualists, the backbone of the Nation, stood out for the plain wooden article and no frills.

"Nevertheless, you know as well as I do what happened to both schools. They acquired manners. It became bad manners to use any sort of toothpick in public; dental-floss was socially recommended for private uses—and by that time all the fellows to the picking manner born had lost their teeth, anyway.

"Just one more event was needed to complete the passing of the pocketknife," says Mr. Hawkins. "In a desperate effort to retrieve it from the toothpick debacle, the manufacturers decorated it with all sorts of extra blades: corkscrews, leather-punches, buttonhooks. No use! People preferred these articles in the form of independent instruments. The only blade that lingered on—the sole remaining excuse for the pocketknife—was the nail file blade.

It would be a depressing epistle—if entirely true. Only—it isn't. Mr. Hawkins categorically to the contrary notwithstanding, many men still carry pocketknives and find a use for them.

The pen may have proved itself mightier than the pencil, and all that. But if you don't possess a pocketknife, how in the world are you going to play memble-ty-peg?

The King's Funeral

London, Jan. 29.

NOBODY ever will know how much money the English people spent to witness the funeral procession for King George, but it is probable the gate receipts were the greatest in the history of the world for a single event. The big parade covered a route of approximately four miles from Westminster to Paddington Station, and most of the way passed through streets which were built up on both sides.

Most of these buildings were converted into reviewing stands, and if any seat or standing room sold for less than $10 your correspondent is a poor shopper. Five days ago Keith Prowse, leading ticket agency, were demanding and getting from $15 to $50 for seats along the line of march, and apartments facing the spectacle were rented for the day for as much as $400.

It is doubtful that any room affording a glimpse of the scene brought less than $75, and most of them were rented, in addition to which there was a big business in space on roofs.

* * * *

AFTER considerable leg work your correspondent finally established relations with a promoter who had taken over for the day a building in the course of demolition in Edgeware road and erected bleachers on the roof. He also had some places on a narrow balcony on the second floor, and these sold for $10. There were ten customers on the balcony and 350 on the roof.

It is almost imperative to buy a seat or standing room for a spectacle of this type because the unfortunate crowds on the streets see very little of what goes on. Moreover, in the block in which your correspondent was stationed the pressure was such that more than a hundred spectators, most of them women, collapsed before or during the parade. There was hardly a moment after 9 o'clock in the morning when ambulance men were not to be seen bending over limp figures reclining on stretchers in the gutter, and the cry of "Ambulance" presently became a wild jest with the throng. Those who fainted in the midst of the pack were unable to fall down but were hoisted up and passed out to the hospital corps over the heads of the survivors.

This mob pressure and excitement of casualties folding up unexpectedly all over the place, strangely enough, served to relax the emotional tension of the people after a week of obsequies, and their solemn demeanor was dispelled by the carnival spirit until the head of the procession came abreast.

It might be that the parade of Pershing's First Division in New York after the war drew as large a house, but it is improbable that the gate receipts were even comparable. It must be remembered that the First Division marched on Fifth avenue and that the dwellers and business firms along the route did not make a serious attempt to sell their space, preferring to invite guests. And furthermore, although the First Division showed the spectators better marching than even the famous Guardsmen did today, the American spectacle was comparatively drab.

* * * *

IN London yesterday for your two guineas you could gaze upon six kings, including the new King of England—his royal crown in full view—nineteen princes, numerous earls and princesses, nine field marshals carrying batons with gold stars on them, a dozen admirals, Oriental dignitaries in snakecharmer's regalia and a corps of foreign military, naval and diplomatic representatives.

The passing of the caisson bearing the late King to rest at last stilled the merriment of the crowd, but the magnificence of the procession caught their imagination again, and they went away in a new mood to take up life where they left off a week ago, for certainly this had been a week of suspense in England.

Now feathers and golden helmets will be put back in storage, and orders given to carry on until coronation time, when there will be another parade and another chance for property owners and promoters to make an honest shilling.

Commercialism along the line of the King's funeral was not entirely unrelieved by nobler motives. One of the property owners advertised that all the proceeds from his ticket sales would be given to charity.

Syrian Inscription Held Earliest Written Psalm

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 29 (AP).—The discovery of the earliest known written Psalm was announced tonight by Dr. Julian J. Obermann, profesor of Semetic languages at Yale.

In presenting the results of his work to the Semitic and Bible Club, Dr. Obermann revealed to his audience that a cuneiform inscription of about 1500 B. C., which had puzzled scientists since its discovery several years ago at Ras Shamra in northern Syria, was in reality the earliest known written Psalm.

$3,500,000 Pulp Mill Planned for Houston

Cincinnati, Jan. 29 (AP).—Logan Thompson, president of the Champion Paper & Fiber Co., said today a $3,500,000 wood pulp mill will be built on the Houston Ship Channel 10 miles east of Houston, Tex., if stockholders approve the plans at a meeting at Hamilton, Ohio, February 6.

The mill would be financed by issuance of 25,000 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock and 75,000 additional shares of common stock.

Age Of Softies

Even the Miners Take Off Their Hats in Elevators at Convention; Easy Ways Of Wistaria and Hitching Posts Days.

By Karl Schriftgiesser.

IN A downtown hotel it suddenly dawned on me yesterday that even miners are sheep. I had long suspected this tragic truth about most of us, but tenaciously I had clung to the romantic idealism that those who, in a gentler age, we had called horny-handed sons of toil, were made of sterner stuff. But yesterday was the day of the great disillusionment. Even miners take off their hats in elevators.

This, I submit, may be of great social significance. Perhaps it may be of sufficient importance to be taken in the current throaty arguments in that pale and gentle Constitution Hall, where several hundreds of the new masses are this week in convention assembled. For it is not so much a matter of etiquette as it is, in my none too humble opinion, a symptom of social decay. It is a weakness and a surrender and a sign of what can happen to strong men once they are brought under the subtle influence of the Nation's Capital.

* * * *

WASHINGTON has been a city of sissies too long. It is beset by baleful constrictions of the conventions, most potently manifested by the cringing attitude of the males, both old and new deal alike. Invariably men who, in all other respects might sit for their portraits by George Bellows or inspire Robert Service to ringing verse, turn to water when they hear the cry "Going Up!"

In the towns of their origin, no doubt, these men are men, but turn them loose in the torrid clime of Washington and you find them within a flash losing respect for the last remaining attribute of masculine superiority. In hotel or office building, even in the Capitol itself, they jam themselves into the crowded conveyances and, at whatever risk of dislocated shoulder or elbow, succumb to a pseudo gallantry—by removing their hats.

Hardboiled outlander though I like to think myself, I find that I, too, am not immune. Driven by the herd instinct all too often I reach for my hat, and usually just in time to snatch my glasses from jabs of my fellow riders who are smirking at the females and removing their hats with ludicrous, not to say ambiguous, gestures.

* * * *

NEVER yet in my hearing has anyone offered adequate alibi for this preposterous relic of the horse and buggy days. Persons who would no more think of doffing their hats in bus or street car, fight through the tangle of joints in any elevator so that, in the presence of the ladies, they may seem "polite." And all forget the obvious fact that an elevator is but an indoor conveyance, mechanically arranged for hurrying people. It is neither parlor car nor drawing room, but just a short cut to the eighth floor. The hat-doffing practice is, therefore, as illogical as it is annoying.

Hitherto I have let this custom pass as just one of those local nuisances against which only the very brave would fight. A custom, I suppose, founded in that distant past even before Andrew Jackson lifted his muddy feet to a White House table and horrified the Georgetown ladies. A relic of a leisurely age, when generous manners, swords and pistols and courtly bows were all the rage. A part of the "so-red-the-rose" tradition that is beautiful to read about but which is no part of our own time.

For one cannot be leisurely now. If one could—or if we all wanted to be slow-paced and quite—there would be no elevators going up and down in ceaseless symbolization of a hurried age. One would walk, hat in hand, to the top floor, with decor and graciousness—and no wind.

* * * *

AND so I had restrained myself from argument and worn my hat, which is dented and blackened by the fierce gazes of those who think an elevator hat-wearer hails from Moscow and is suspected by the police. But not until yesterday had I realized how insidious the hat-doffing practice was. I entered an elevator where nine miners stood. Just as the door shut a blonde-and-gum-chewing siren slid in.

While nine softies raised their hats and one villain stood glaring at the spectacle, she squeezed her way to the corner mirror—and powdered her nose!

Nine strong men from the very bowels of the earth, nine men from the fighting line of the proletariat, succumbed before my very eyes to the wiles of wicked Washington.

"Mr. Lewis, how can such men be depended upon to carry on your fight," I asked myself, "if they fall so quickly for the easy ways of those who cling, against the rush of a mechanized era, to the days of wistaria, hitching posts, and pistols at dawn?"

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Open Letter to King Edward VIII.

Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David,
Buckingham Palace,
England.

Dear King:

I salute you as the new King of England and predict that you will make one of the most popular, engaging and influential monarchs in British history. You have everything your illustrious pappy had and in addition you have color, youth and what has come to be most valuable in present-day civilization, newsreel personality.

* * * *

In an era when so many potentates put so much over-emphasis on a scowl, a deep frown and the general I-know-it-all attitude, it is going to be a great relief to have a monarch around who doesn't take life or himself too seriously, who realizes that the world goes around and around anyhow regardless of personal gesticulations from a balcony, and who doesn't think a basso voice is the secret of all success.

* * * *

It makes me very happy to spot a ruler who doesn't think he is brain number one or the ace thinker of his day and generation. Boy, that's sumpin!

* * * *

Your dad was like you, Eddie, only he lived in a different era and didn't have the jump on world popularity the way you have it as you take the throne. You've been first page news as Prince of Wales, and folks have come to feel they know you intimately. You've liked to play, have a good time, shake off responsibilities, dance and even do a little quartette singing. You've already been sold to the world as a regular fellow. You've never developed that master mind expression that so many people are striving for these days. You've never done any desk thumping, finger pointing or chest expanding. You've learned to look a microphone in the eye without becoming hypnotized. You've learned to look a headline in the face and tell it to go to hell.

* * * *

Your critics say that you become the head of a great nation without ever having advanced any new ideas of government, without ever having announced any opinions about improving the world. Why, Eddie, that's what will make a hit with nearly everybody. The time was ripe for a ruler to come along in all modesty and humility and not claim to be head medicine man to an afflicted planet. People everywhere were beginning to get fed up with the domineering boys with all the right answers.

You don't think you're the foremost heavyweight of his day, and from all your acts I think the last thing you will ever be caught doing is telling other people what to do and how to do it. You're unique and extraordinary, Eddie, and it's my hunch you'll be about the best ad jolly old England has had in years. More power to you and lots of luck. Yours,

ELMER TWITCHELL.

P. S. And don't stop dancing. The more I see of rulers standing still on platforms trying to look important, the more I welcome pictures of a monarch doing a bunny hug or something.

It is this department's belief that the politicians would be flabbergasted if they knew the number of people who do not listen to them on the air. The great unseen audience probably has at least 50 per cent which tuned in too late to hear much, couldn't get rid of the static, got a jazz orchestra by preference or found the bulb dead.

Sixty-four per cent of the girls in a N. Y. U. quiz said they would like to have their husbands outshine them in intelligence. Don't be fooled, boys! It's the old come-on.

Text of Gov. Landon's Topeka Speech on National Issues

By the Associated Press

Topeka, Kans., Jan. 29.—The text of Gov. Alf M. Landon's Kansas Day address here tonight follows:

Seventy-five years ago today Kansas was born out of a mighty struggle for human liberty. We gather tonight to honor the memory of those who won that fight. Rather than attempt to heap praise upon them, let us take a lesson from their accomplishments. After all, experience is still the greatest teacher. From thousands of prairie firesides is handed down this homely warning: "Change does not necessarily mean progress. A social philosophy is not always bad because it is old, nor good because it is merely new."

In the progress of human rights the road has not been continuously upward. It has not followed a straight course in the best direction. Rather there has been a general rise, with ups and downs, depending upon the composite wisdom of the people. There have been curves and detours along the ways keep alive the inner fire of off after false gods.

As did the pioneers, we must always keep alive the inner fire of individual conscience. We must subordinate material rewards and enthrone the things of the spirit. We need emphasis on common honesty, character and devotion to principle.

Fit Celebration.

It is fitting that a celebration of the admission of Kansas to the Union should evoke thoughts about constitutions. Our forefathers had a passion for self-government as a corollary to the individual right of self-determination. That is not a Kansas ideal alone, but an American ideal. Through this yearning for orderly national existence, security and individual liberty has come the written covenant we term the Constitution of the United States. It is the militant manifestation of great spiritual force. These ancient rights only remain safe today as the Constitution stays written in our hearts. The people have been bound to their Government by the sacred tie of voluntary devotion. But today there are powerful forces trying to convince our people that the Constitution is not their charter of human liberties. Should these forces prevail, the American Government then becomes a source of oppression such as now afflicts various other peoples throughout the world.

A government is free in proportion to the rights it guarantees to the minority. The Constitution was not framed to give us anything, but to protect inherent rights we already possessed. It was framed to protect minorities against a government momentarily controlled by impulsive majorities. For a century and a half the Constitution has protected American citizens against such oppression. Against repeated onslaught it has preserved the right of trial by jury; it has been the safeguard of the American home and of churches in their most sacred right of religious freedom; it has protected the freedom of the press; it has safeguarded individuals in their right of free speech, and it has been the guarantee of the right to conduct lawful personal affairs without interference by meddling bureaucracy. This, fellow citizens, is the Constitution which has established to make the United States a sanctuary for every honest individual and every honest interest.

'Constitution Not Obstacle.'

Let me make this emphatic, the Constitution of the United States is not an obstacle to progress. It is the balance wheel of progress. No flaunting of the Constitution whether by executive evasion, loose legislation, or insidious propaganda can destroy our safeguard so long as courage and common sense are cherished in the hearts of the American people.

As we assemble to celebrate the diamond jubilee of our State, we are conscious that we confront in the next national election the most fateful decisions of our generation. Deceiving words and luring phrases may cloud the issues, but they cannot hide them. A nation will survive to correct its political mistakes. But if an unsound financial program is coupled with them, the nation faces destruction. We have seen appalling waste and extravagance. We are exhausting our capital on useless projects which advance us no farther on our way.

The budget proposed for the next fiscal period by the Nation's Chief Executive is the final grim proof of the financial vortex into which we are being drawn. Its prediction of a deficit of "only a billion" is delusive. Considering the admitted needs for relief and other realities, the period undoubtedly will end with a deficit greater than those of each preceding year of this Administration. Bookkeeping tricks may be used, but the huge deficit will remain.

Finds Rise in Spending.

Despite promises of a 25 per cent reduction in Federal expenditure, Federal expenditures continue steadily to rise. It is true economic conditions have improved as they do after every depression. That has been reflected in great increases in Federal income. They have not, however, been able to match the increases in spending, thus repudiating the assurances of the budget messages of three and two years ago. The gap between income and outgo steadily widens. The billions on billions already added to the national debt are in themselves dangerous. They are doubly dangerous as an invitation to even wilder dissipation of our resources.

It has been said that the demands for relief have imperiled our Federal finances. That is only a half truth. The money actually reaching the unemployed and impoverished has not rocked the Treasury. The rocking has been done by abysmal waste through changes of policy, maladministration and ruthless partisanship. Relief appropriations have been more than ample, but all too many on relief and work projects have been denied adequate aid because bureaucracy has eaten up too much of the funds intended for relief. We need desperately a cheaper, simpler and more responsible relief administration throughout the Union.

Taking at its face value the solemn promises of the Administration that politics would be kept out of all relief activities, I continued the relief organization of my distinguished Democratic predecessor. Here in Kansas we thought differences over methods could only injure the deserving. So we accepted what was offered and made an administrative success of Federal plans equalled by few other States. The records will show that no State co-operated more fully with the Federal Relief Administration than Kansas.

Charges 'Pork Barrel.'

With the passage of the five-billion-dollar relief bill, however, came the melancholy discovery that a non-political administration of relief was not intended. The WPA was organized so that relief might be handled in familiar "pork barrel" fashion. It has permitted a party machine to spend the greatest peace-time fund in all human history. Our people are disappointed and amazed. They realize now that the promise to make human needs the sole guide for action has been broken. Victory is in the hands of the party spoilsmen.

Non-political relief administrators have been forced out. Citizens have poured the evidences of intolerable conditions upon Washington. The only result has been loss of poise and a resort to abuse by the Administration and its spokesmen, who take the undemocratic attitude that all criticism is abuse and that all who do not agree have base motives and selfish purposes. They seem to forget that true democracy thrives on honest criticism.

With some of the avowed objectives of those in Washington no right-thinking person can quarrel. But there has been a constant shifting back and forth in decisions. Utterly wasteful policies have prevailed. There has been too great an attempt to pass off just criticism of the Administration of relief by branding the critics hard-hearted persons who propose to let everyone starve. Epithets, evasions and sophistries do not answer.

Common Sense Needed.

If there is any place more than another where common sense in Government is needed, it is in the relief problem. Although many millions of our people still depend on relief and the outpouring of billions is greater than ever, I do not believe that the problems presented are unsurmountable in this land of potential plenty. No good American wants any of his fellow citizens to be hungry, much less starve. But if there is to be no hunger, it is imperative that the administration of relief be purged of waste and partisanship.

The emphasis on relief has obscured the fact that employment, not aid, is our larger problem. The clinching proof of the New Deal's failure is that almost as many persons are out of work today as there were when it first set up shop in 1933. The key to real stability is not boondoggling, but permanent jobs with the laborer worthy of his hire. Theories will not produce them, nor can unemployment be made to vanish overnight. "Help wanted" signs will blossom out of restored confidence in the Nation's finances. Work for those who want it comes from the assurance to business and industry that they may plan wisely for the future. Employment comes from the common conviction that the American system of representative government is secure. Confidence is far more important than the exploitation of a multiplicity of pretentious plans which do not work.

History and experience alike teach us that "Government is protection." When it ceases to protect it ceases to be Government. As a Nation we have begun to protect childhood but the obligation to protect old age lies straight before us. This obligation is the legacy from the machine age in which we live. It is an essential part of the unemployment problem of a great industrial civilization.

Holds Defects Shown.

The hope that we will deal with our unemployment problem successfully lies in the fact that the hardships and suffering of the depression have made us conscious of certain defects in our society brought about by the rapid growth in our industrial structure.

We are aware that we must make our just contributions to the solution of the problems of the times. Each generation in turn has its own problems to solve for posterity. No age has escaped this inspiring responsibility. If such there were, then that was an age of stagnation.

Our problem of unemployment will not be solved by rabid partisanship on the one hand or wishful thinking on the other. We may differ as to methods and procedure, but there can be no difference as to the imperative necessity for a solution.

Fundamentally, we must always keep in mind the answer we seek is not based alone on the query "Am I my brother's keeper?" The solution rests on considering it in a major sense from the viewpoint of a problem created by the rapid development of our industrial machine.

Problem National.

The problem is national in scope and should be solved on a national basis. This involves the most careful consideration of the limitations of the Federal and State institutions.

Solving this problem of unemployment and old age pensions is both humane and economic and we shall solve it in spite of our past neglect and recent well-intended but utterly unworkable, hastily thrown together, makeshift legislation.

We have witnessed bureaucratic agencies vying one with another in efforts to excel in experimentation. Fuzzy-thinking and unorderly procedure has characterized the manner in which all of the goals have been approached. There has been confusion, reversal of policies, haphazard administration, bickering and repeated delay.

There is much discussion whether reform of our social and economic system should go before recovery, or whether recovery should precede reform. My answer is that the greatest reform that we could have is recovery. We are going to be many years unscrambling the eggs cooked up by the kitchen cabinet of this Administration. One of the greatest failures of these cooks was that they were unable to tell the bad eggs from the good. The result has been indigestion for all of us.

Discusses Farm Aid.

It is necessary for all of us who are concerned with agriculture's welfare—and every American ought to be—to work together in the development of a program that will be both sound and legal. And I have faith that we shall develop such measures and the courage to put them into effect.

The problem of agriculture certainly must be approached on a nonpartisan basis. No one can justify any attempt to make political capital out of the national anxiety for effective solution of the agricultural problem.

Solutions are not devised as easily as a magician produces an egg from his mouth. Low prices for farm products and increasing interest and taxes have forced too many farmers to exhaust their soil. Farmers have realized this, but under economic pressure for cash crops have been unable to do anything about it.

Low prices have been caused by the practical loss of the farm markets, both domestic and foreign. Of the markets, the domestic market has always been far more important for our farmers.

Surplus Fixes Price.

But even in the case of the major cash crops, on which a surplus has been produced, our domestic farm prices have largely been fixed by the prices bid by our foreign purchasers. In other words, the surplus has set the price for the whole crop.

The proper application of soil conservation principles would help materially to prevent the production of such price-depressing surpluses. As I have repeatedly said, it should be possible to develop a national program of soil conservation on the more than 65 per cent of the Nation's crop land which already has begun to lose its food producing value.

Equally impressed with the public interest is the problem of flood control. Flood control fits right in with the soil program. According to Government studies, a sound national conservation program in itself would reduce the damage from floods 25 per cent.

The situation today emphasizes the urgent need for a sound national land use policy. Our soil must not be exhausted by wasteful methods. The farmer is entitled to expect for his crop a fair price comparable to the price of the commodities he buys. A policy that is not limited in its benefits to immediate cash returns, but seeks as well to rebuild the fertility of the soil and meets the problem of flood control also, is impressed with national interest and entitled to national support.

Backs 'Compensating Tariff.'

Such a policy would fit in with the demand of agriculture for equality with industry. I am advised from reliable sources that the costs of about 200 items the farmer has to buy are increased about one-fourth by the operation of the tariff. Because the farmer has been forced to sell on the world market, is he not entitled to some countervailing provisions, to some compensating tariff equivalent, in order that he may receive an equal benefit?

The purpose of the tariff is to protect workers and industry from the cheap competition of foreign labor The farmer should be given this same protection.

Is it any wonder that the immediate concern of agriculture tariff equality with the other groups comprising this Nation? There are supplemental factors which would be helpful to the farmers, such as the greater industrial use of farm products, the rebuilding of foreign markets, and last but not least, lower taxes and interest charges. Even more basic would be an expanding home market growing out of restored confidence in our future.

There is no single solution of the farm problem. The perplexity in one part of the country is not always the same as the problem in the other parts. A well-rounded farm policy must take note of agriculture as a whole. The extensive experience of these latter years should make it possible to develop workable measures which will be better than any heretofore tried.

Cites Co-operation.

Kansas from the first co-operated with much of the Federal emergency program. We felt that improved conditions were of greater consequence than any partisan considerations. In my judgment, the policy of condemning everything the opposition party does, has never produced better Government. Nor am I one of those who believes that the Republican Party has a corner on patriotism and intelligence. We should go into the campaign prepared to be as fair in conceding the good points of the opposition as we are courageous to point out what we consider its errors. But I do condemn half-baked legislation, maladministration and the dangerous short cuts to permanent change attempted in the name of emergency.

The Administration has presented no permanent solution of our major problems. On the contray it has created many new problems and its gross overcentralization of power reflects either ignorance or indifference in regard to our Federal system of Government. All this in my judgment is actually delaying the return of prosperity.

Unfortunately, now as always, there are people today calling themselves liberal who regard any suggestion of economy as reactionary. They seem to think willingness to throw other people's money around without any consideration of value received is a peculiar sign of a pure heart. They show too little consideration for the toil which millions of American men and women will have to undergo in order to pay off the debt so gayly incurred. Already the average family spends one-fourth of its income for taxes, whether the family knows it or not. It will take much more than that to pay the bill which political wasters have contracted in the American people's name. Those in power responsible for this reckless extravagance are not liberals. They are more nearly benighted reactionaries.

Begs the Question.

When the record of the Administration is challenged their only answer is, "what would you do?" That begs the question. Their program is not only ineffective, it is destructive of the American system. In the face of that fact, no reasonable citizen should ask us what do do. The American people propose to solve their problems under the American system.

Nor is the cry of "Tory" sufficient answer to those who question their delusions. If I know my fellow Kansans, and they are a good cross-section of America, they do not approve anything smacking of a return to a system of exploitation of the many by the few. Nor do they want to go floating aloft in a stratospheric balloon of unkept promises. They think the alphabet has been overworked. They believe it is time to use simple addition and subtraction. They want neither reaction on the one hand nor radicalism on the other. Let those who insist on the alphabet remember that America was built by energy, ambition and enthusiasm, by courage, character and common sense.

The choice ahead of the American people is not whether to keep on with the mistakes of the so-called New Deal or return to the mistakes of the old order. The old order belongs to the past, but sound American principles persist. The hands of the clock of political destiny move forward, not backward. But they must turn at a steady orderly pace. We have had too much palaver about old deals and new. Performance, to me, counts for more than phrases.

Backs Court Rulings.

The action of the Supreme Court in cutting away some of the errors in recent national legislation has given a healthful impetus to our entire economic life. The months following the voiding of the NRA registered America's most marked upturn since the depression. In contrast, the four months following the passage of that act were marked by a drop in industrial production and employment equaled only by our greatest panics of the past.

What our Nation really needs today is better housekeeping. Our women could show the way. They have had more successful experience than any political spendthrift in getting full abundance out of living and in managing to put by something for a rainy day. Kansas has tried to do this kind of housekeeping.

Through the cooperation of her officials, from the smallest political subdivisions to the statehouse, Kansas has succeeded to a conspicuous degree.

Since 1929, Kansas property taxes have been reduced 32 per cent. The per capita cost of State and local government has been cut $19, or 26 per cent. Total revenues for State and local purposes in 1934 were 24 per cent less than in 1932. Yet, while these tax reductions were being made, counties and municipalities reduced their bonded debt by $17,000,000 or 12 per cent during the period from 1932 to 1934.

Credit Non-Partisan.

The credit, as I have repeatedly said, does not belong to any one political party or State administration, but to thousands of local officials all over Kansas. Savings were not made by skimping of necessary services, or dodging new responsibilities of relief.

Throughout 1933 and 1934, according to the report of the Federal Relief Administrator, 30.6 per cent of the relief burden in Kansas was financed from non-Federal funds. On this basis Kansas ranked fifteenth among all the States. Contrast this record to that of 14 States which spent less than 10 per cent of non-Federal funds for relief.

The time has come for a direct attack on the attempt at Washington to substitute a tax-eating bureaucracy for a liberal democratic system. Business recovery offers more promise of employment than a thousand wildcat schemes. The return of fruitful productivity in the United States will be directly translated into higher living standards for us all. There must be a revival of confidence in national credit, confidence in soundness of the dollar, confidence in the Government at Washington. These guarantee the perpetuity of our American system of democracy, and under that guarantee will come a flood tide of recovery.

Wheat From Chaff.

The good wheat must be separated from the great stack of New Deal chaff. This requires wise and effective administration, free from partisan bias. The hysterical tone of government must be eliminated. Our high officials must think with their minds rather than with their emotions. The times demand economy and efficiency so that the regular and extraordinary services of government can be fully performed without threatening a mighty people with national bankruptcy. We must build a new and better civil service that will fill Government positions with trained, trustworthy and capable employes, and offer to our youth a career in public service based on merit and qualifications for the job. The political spoils system and the spoilsmen responsible for it must go, in the interest of economy and efficiency.

There never was a time when government so needed factual information and expert-trained service. We must not allow our rising prejudice against mere experimentation to blind us to this fact. Here in Kansas we have found that a research department to collect facts—not to administer theories—is of the greatest importance and aid to members of the Legislature and to the chief executive of the Commonwealth as well.

We are still in the throes of personal government. Only a government of laws, not men, can rescue us from this plight. A mere change in officials in Washington will not suffice. The next national platform of the Republican Party should be a straightforward declaration that will set forth the careful thought and serious convictions not of one person, but of many. Behind that platform must be an honest intention to redeem its pledges, not to throw it on the junk pile the day after election.

With a renewed confidence and a reaffirmation of faith, let us turn from an un-American doctrine of division and classes. As a united people, common in our hopes as in our purposes, we shall move forward to that greater destiny which is our just heritage.

Landon Assails 'Housekeeping' Of Government

Mismanagement and Waste Are Laid to New Deal by Kansas Leader.

them, the Nation faces destruction."

Gov. Landon warned of "powerful forces trying to convince our people that the Constitution is not their charter of human liberties" and charged the Works Progress Administration was "organized so that relief might be handled in familiar 'pork barrel' fashion."

Because farmers have been forced to sell on the world market, the Governor said, they are "entitled to some countervailing provisions, to some compensating tariff equivalent in order that (they) may receive an equal benefit.

Asks Farmer Protection.

"The purpose of the tariff is to protect workers and industry from the cheap competition of foreign labor. The farmer should be given this same protection."

Declaring "there is no single solution," he recommended a program of soil conservation coupled with some plan which would give farmers equality with industry as regards protective tariffs.

"A policy that is not limited in its benefits to immediate cash returns, but seeks as well to rebuild the fertility of the soil * * * would fit in with the demand of agriculture for equality with industry," he said.

Domestic farm prices have "largely been fixed by the prices bid by our foreign purchasers. In other words, the surplus has set the price for the whole crop.

"The proper application of soil conservation principles would help materially to prevent the production of such price-depressing surpluses."

Calls for Fairness.

The Governor emphasized a belief that Republicans "should go into the campaign prepared to be as fair in conceding the good points of the opposition as we are courageous to point out what we consider the errors."

For the Republican Party's next national platform he urged:

"A straight forward declaration that will set forth the careful thought and serious convictions not of one person but of many.

"Behind that platform," he added, "must be an honest intention to redeem its pledges, not to throw it on the junk pile the day after election."

Stressing Landon's "careful and economical guidance" of Kansas affairs, the State Republican committee resolution expressed belief "that the qualities shown by Gov. Landon are those which are most sorely needed at this time in the affairs of the National Government and eminently fit him as the Republican candidate for President of the United States."

Record Is Cited.

Of the Governor's record, the committee said:

"Following his leadership in the example which he has furnished, the other units of government throughout the State have lessened their public expenditures, maintained their essential services, and the financial affairs of the whole State are in the best condition in history.

"In the solving of these questions he has brought into play a rare combination of business judgment, a sympathetic understanding of the powers of the Government and the needs and abilities of our people, together with the rare gift of common sense."

Columbia Gas Quits Control of Panhandle

By the Associated Press.

The Justice Department announced yesterday that the Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation had joined the Government in a "consent decree" providing the withdrawal of Columbia from "domination of control, direct or indirect" in the affairs of Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co.

The Government had charged the Columbia group with "owning, controlling and dominating the operations of more than 70 subsidiaries," contending that Columbia had "conspired to prevent the introduction of natural gas" by purchasing an interest in the pipeline of Panhandle Eastern and thereafter interfering with Panhandle's financial transactions and contracts.

Sklarevski Will Give Piano Recital Feb. 5

Alexander Sklarevski, brilliant Russian pianist, will give a recital in the Shoreham Hotel on Wednesday night, February 5, under the auspices of the Institute of Arts and Sciences connected with Cleveland Park Congregational Church, of which the Rev. Joseph Loughran is pastor.

After a successful concert career, including a world tour, Mr. Sklarevski settled in Baltimore, where he holds the position of head of the piano department in the Peabody Institute.

His program next Wednesday will include a group of compositions by Bach, Mendelssohn and Liszt, the 24 preludes of Chopin, and a group of pieces by Arenski, Chaikovski and Balakirev.

Noise Control Expert Will Lecture at Willard

Control of unnecessary sound and its harmful effects on human beings will be discussed tonight by Harold R. Berlin, acoustical expert, at a lecture in the Willard Hotel.

The lecture is under the auspices of the Producers' Council Club and the Washington Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Miss Frances Perkins, Mrs. Roper Entertain

By Dudley Harmon.

Diplomatic wives, "key" women in the Government, and a woman labor leader were among those who left cards yesterday with the Secretary of Labor, Miss Frances Perkins. Miss Perkins held her first "at home" of the year yesterday afternoon at the Sulgrave Club.

Wearing a black velvet dress and a hat of the same material, Secretary Perkins stood at the head of the curving stairway and gave each guest a warm and vigorous handshake and a few words of greeting.

The Sulgrave Club, with its big rooms and high ceilings, is admirably adapted to entertaining. Guests yesterday wandered about the upstairs hall, where Miss Perkins received, and into the dining room, where a table was laid with cakes and sandwiches.

Miss Perkins was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Claude Swanson, wife of the Secretary of the Navy; Mrs. Henry Wallace, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture; Mrs. Daniel W. MacCormack, wife of the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization; Miss Mary LaDame, associate director of the Labor Department's Employment Service; Mrs. Ethel Bullard, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman and Miss Elia O'Day.

Representative O'Day Pours Tea.

Pouring tea at one end of the long table in the dining room was Representative Carcline O'Day, looking smart in a gray and black gown and black hat. At the other end was Miss Elizabeth Christman, secretary-treasurer of the Women's National Trade Union League. Miss Christman was talking over plans for the convention her organization is going to hold here in May.

Others who assisted in pouring during the afternoon were Miss Mary Anderson, chairman of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor; Miss Katherine Lenroot, head of the Children's Bureau in the same department; Mrs. Edward McGrady, wife of the Assistant Secretary of Labor; Miss Jane Hoey, and Miss Laura N. Harlan.

Among the few men there was Mr. Francis Hackett, well-known biographer, who, with Mrs. Hackett, is visiting Mrs. Edward Burling here this week. A bad cold kept Mrs. Hackett away from the reception.

Others there were Mrs. Keith Merrill, wearing a coat of black caracul and a black hat; Mrs. Emory Land, wife of Admiral Land, who was reminiscing about the days when the building now owned by the Sulgrave Club was headquarters for the Red Cross; Mrs. Owen Roberts, wife of Justice Roberts; Mrs. Sol Bloom, wife of Representative Bloom, and Miss Vera Bloom, both wearing mink coats; Mme. Bostrom, wife of the Minister of Sweden, in black; Mme. de Morgenstierne, wife of the Minister of Norway; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Altmeyer, and Mrs. Edward Burling.

Mrs. Roper Receives.

On the same afternoon almost 400 people left cards with Mrs. Daniel Roper, wife of the Secretary of Commerce, who also received yesterday. For several hours the street in front of her home was filled with cars slipping and sliding down the still rather icy incline on which the house is built.

The dining room was warm and cheerful yesterday afternoon, with highlights gleaming on the many beautiful sliver pieces on a sideboard. The table was gay with a bowl of pink roses and fern.

Mrs. Roper, in a gown of black with silver inserts on the shoulders, was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Ernest Draper, wife of the Assistant Secretary of Commerce, and Mrs. John Monroe Johnson, wife of the Assistant Secretary of Commerce.

Those who took a turn at the tea table included Mme. Saito, wife of the Ambassador of Japan; Mme. Prochnik, wife of the Minister of Austria; Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenberg, Mrs. Charles West, Mrs. Keith Merrill, Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, Mrs. Alexander B. Dye, and Mrs. Marcus Coolidge. Generally assisting were Mrs. South Trimble, Mrs. Frank Bohn and Miss Lois Walters.

Among Those Attending.

Among those glimpsed at Mrs. Roper's reception were Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury; Comtesse Robert van der Straten-Ponthoz, wife of the Ambassador of Belgium; Mme. Gerard Walravens, wife of the Attache of the Belgian Embassy; Mrs. James Bruce Kremer, Mrs. James Davis Taylor, Frau von Boetticher, wife of the Military and Air Attache of the German Embassy; Mme. de Bianchi, wife of the Minister of Portugal, with her daughter, Miss Sibilla Skidelsky; Mme. Sokolowska, wife of the Charge d'Affaires of Poland; M. Roger Gaucheron, First Secretary of the French Embassy, with his sister, Mlle. Simone Gaucheron; Mrs. Cabot Stevens, Mrs. Wade Ellis, Mrs. Edward Meigs, Mrs. Brice Clagett, Mrs. William E. Sullivan; Mme. Skvirsky, wife of the Charge d'Affaires of the Soviet Embassy; Mme. Wijkman, wife of the Commercial Counselor of the Swedish Legation; Mrs. Harvie P. Baxter, Mrs. Frank Boykin, Mrs. John Graff, Mrs. Josephus Trimble, Mrs. Archibald Gracie and Mme. Wadsted, wife of the Minister of Denmark.

FAT AS A FREAK

But now as slender and as Graceful as an Artist's Model

I couldn't help but overhear what they said about me . . . cruel, sarcastic, biting things about my fat. It was awful. I was a social outcast in spite of diet, exercise and drastic purgatives. For nothing did me any good. Everything I ate turned to fat.

Then, a real friend told me of a simple corrective for abnormal obesity, prescribed by doctors the world over. Now put up in convenient tablets containing the right quantity. I took 4 a day. Results were amazing. I ate what I liked, took no purgatives or exercise, yet all that excess fat disappeared. Today I'm as slender and graceful as an artist's model.

That is what thousands who have reduced the Marmola way might well tell you if they had the chance. Would you like to learn their secret? Then buy a package of Marmola, read the simple directions, and start at once to get rid of burdensome fat!

Marmola is put up by one of the best known medical laboratories in America. Since 1907 men and women have purchased more than 20 million packages. Could any better recommendation be had?

Start today! You will soon experience Marmola's benefits. When you have gone far enough, stop taking Marmola. And you will bless the day when you first discovered this marvelous reducing agent!

Marmola is on sale by all dealers—from coast to coast! Advt.

Capital Thousands Dance Tonight at Birthday Ball

Roosevelt Will Dine With Old Friends; First Lady to Visit Fetes.

orchestra will follow Mrs. Roosevelt's example, visiting the downtown hotels first.

Ginger Rogers and other visiting stars will rotate among the six hotels but their schedules have not been definitely arranged.

Through courtesy of the Capital Transit Co., free buses will operate, on regular schedule among the six hotels, enabling guests at the ball to park their cars and go from one hotel to another, free from the trouble of parking.

Commissioner Allen issued a last-minute plea to prospective dancers, urging them to buy their tickets in advance. He explained that a rush for tickets at the doors of the various hotels would result in crowds and delays.

"Tickets are on sale at all banks, department stores, hotels and Peoples Drug Stores," the Commissioner said.

As details of the promised entertainment became known yesterday, demand for tickets increased sharply, with indications pointing to a capacity crowd at all hotels.

Programs for the ball are selling well, according to Col. Edward Goring Bliss, in charge of the program committee, many persons who do not comtemplate attending the ball buying them for souvenirs.

Great Array of Talent.

Everything points to a gala night in Washington, according to the committee. With six ballrooms in which to dance, it should be one of the largest events of the kind in the United States.

Working day and night, Gene Ford has assembled the greatest array of talent ever brought together for one event in the city, and has supplied every hotel with a fine show, including the presence of all stars at some period during the evening.

Placing the price of the tickets at $2.50 per person has proved a most popular move, and has greatly stimulated the sale. Announcement that Children's Hospital, the District bulwark in the battle against infantile paralysis, will receive 70 per cent of the proceeds has led to purchase of tickets by persons who buy simply to aid the cause.

It will be Washington's first "Round and Round" ball, where one ticket admits to any or all of the hotels and a number of people are planning parties along this line.

Many members of the Diplomatic Corps, as well as other socially prominent people, are among those holding tickets for the dance.

Features at Various Hotels.

The entertainment features at the various hotels will be as follows:

Hardie Meakin and Frank Taylor in charge of the show at the Shoreham, with Phil Baker as master of ceremonies. On the program will be the Bonners, Carl Resini and Company, Dade and Weir, Johnny Barnes, Tito Guizar, Evelyn Tyner, Paul Gerrits, Mary Hopple and Muriel Wilson, "Barnee" and the Shoreham orchestra will furnish dance music with Lombardo appearing for a broadcast later in the evening.

Boyd Sparrow will have charge of the show at the Mayflower, with Jimmie Wallington as master of ceremonies. On the program will be Berenice Alarie, Keller Sisters and Lynch, Paul Gerrits, Toma Genaro, Bert Granoff, the Casinos, Ethel Pastor, Karavieff, Grace Shannon and Kenney and Lewis. Sidney's Orchestra will furnish dance music, with Lombardo as a visitor during the evening.

At Wardman Park Gordon Hittenmark will be master of ceremonies, with the regular Wardman Park orchestra furnishing music and Lombardo as a visitor. On this program will be Emile Boree, Toby Wing, Keller Sisters and Lynch, Fred Hupsmith, Mary Hopple, Evalyn Tyner, Johnny Barnes, Toma Genaro, "Washboard Blues," La Nelle Avery, Kenney and Lewis and the Club Volga Boatman Ensemble, under direction of Matt Windsor.

Radio Stars to Aid.

Arch McDonald will be assisted by Larry Hendricks in mastering of ceremonies at the Raleigh, with the United States Army Band furnishing music. On this program will be the entire unit of Maj. Bowes' Amateurs, the Brittell Sisters, Cornelia Otis Skinner, Albert and Genevieve Pearson with their famous dog, Greaseball, and some of the visiting celebrities.

Arthur Godfrey will be master of ceremonies at the Washington, with his own orchestra for the floor show and the United States Marine Band. He will be assisted by Jim McWilliams and will have on his program Mayan Pierce and Don Carthay, the Washboard Blues, Lucille and Linden, Archie Hawkes, La Nelle Avery, Tommy Monahan, Tess Noel, Paul Hagan, Kitty Simon, Joe Bell and the Brittell Sisters.

The show at the Willard will be in charge of S. L. Sorkin and Lionel Newman with Johnny Slaughter's orchestra furnishing the music and Arthur Reilly as master of ceremonies.

Radio and Screen Stars to Aid Program for Benefit of Paralysis Fund.

WAS IT MURDER?

By JAMES HILTON

Author of "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" and "Lost Horizon."

Colin Revell, young writer, visits Oakington, his old school, to help clear up the mystery of the deaths of Robert Marshall and his older brother, Wilbraham. Robert's skull was pierced by a falling gas fixture. Wilbraham was found dead at the bottom of the empty swimming tank, but a bullet was later found in his brain. Robert Roseveare, headmaster of the school, is much distressed because Scotland Yard has put a man, Guthrie, on the case. Guthrie and Revell suspect Ellington, cousin of the dead boys and Robert's housemaster, who is in line for a big inheritance from them. They also keep an eye on Lambourne, another master at the school.

CHAPTER XVI.

THE HEAD WAS JUST LEAVING his study when Revell entered it a little while later. He greeted Revell with his customary urbanity, and never had Revell felt his charm more hypnotically. In such a presence the theory that postulated him as a murderer melted into absurdity.

"Sorry to have left you alone for breakfast," Roseveare began, "but I thought it best to make an announcement to the staff at the earliest possible moment. Even so I find I have been forestalled by the newspapers. I do wish your detective acquaintance would hurry up with his inquiries. I am afraid the work of the school will be sadly affected until the whole thing is cleared up. Have you any idea what he intends to do and when?"

Revell confessed that he knew nothing. "I should think, though, that he'll get to work pretty quickly—he seems that sort of man."

"I'm glad to hear it. In spite of his discourtesy I shall be very willing to give him all the help I can. Do you know, by the way, what it was that his men found here while they were searching—or, as you put it, watching—the place?"

"I'm afraid I don't."

"I only wondered if it might have been a revolver. Because Mr. Ellington told me this morning that he had missed his from the place where he usually keeps it."

Revell fought back his excitement. "Really? I didn't know he had a revolver, even."

"Neither did I till he told me. It's a relic, apparently, of more strenuous days in the colonies before he came to Oakington. Anyhow, he discovered last night that it was missing. Naturally, it occurred to me that perhaps it was that which the police had discovered."

"It may have been. In any case, the missing revolver seems an important clew."

"Very, I should think. Mr. Ellington was most distressed about it, as you can imagine."

"I suppose he felt that it—er—in a way—threw a certain amount of suspicion on himself?"

Roseveare Defends Ellington.

Roseveare appeared utterly shocked and astonished. "Good God, no—I don't suppose such a preposterous notion ever entered his head—or anyone else's, either! What distressed him was the thought that by his own slackness in leaving his drawer unlocked the tragedy may have been enabled to take place."

"You mean that the murderer may have taken Ellington's revolver?"

"Murderer? Why are you and your detective friend so persistent in assuming murder? All that is known is that the boy was shot. Far be it from me to teach Scotland Yard its job, but I really do feel convinced, in my own mind, that suicide is a far likelier supposition. It is horrible enough but it is by no means impossible. Ellington, I may say, tells me that ever since the death of the boy's brother last year, Wilbraham suffered from moods of extreme depression. He confided in Ellington a good deal, it appears, and had free access to his rooms at all times—which would have given him ample opportunity to take the revolver."

"But why on earth should he shoot himself in the swimming-bath, of all places?"

Revell locked his astonishment and Resevare taking his chance, resumed, "My dear boy, don't be so bewildered. In a case like this it is really our duty to consider all possibilities however remote. I may as well tell you that I have given a good deal of careful consideration to the matter and I have already evolved a theory—tentatively, of course—which seems to me at least as reasonable as any other, I believe, briefly, that the boy did not commit suicide."

"From the top diving platform?"

"Not necessarily. The bath is 10 feet deep and the boy was nearly 6 feet tall—the extent of his injuries seemed to me quite consistent with a fall from the edge. And I speak, remember, with some medical knowledge and experience."

"And the wrist watch?"

A Different Point.

"Ah, now we come to a different point. Clearly the wrist watch was placed on the top platform by somebody, and if not by the boy himself, then by whom? And, even more important, why? The only reason I can think of is that someone entered the bath after poor Wilbraham had shot himself, discovered the tragedy and tried to make a suicide look like an accident—for the boy's family—for the school's reputation—for, indeed, everybody concerned. Accident is bad enough, but suicide, you will agree, is much worse."

"Well, according to your theory, the thoughtful visitor, whoever he was, placed the boy's wrist watch on the top platform, removed his dressing gown and slippers, if he had them on and also took away the revolver. But he would hardly leave the revolver lying about for the police to discover afterward?"

"Pardon me, but how do we know that the police have discovered it? I understand just now that you yourself were not certain about it. All that seems definitely established is that Ellington's revolver is missing and since Ellington reported the loss himself, it would seem obvious that he, at any rate, was not the person who visited the scene of the tragedy that night."

"Then whom do you suspect?"

"My dear boy, that is hardly my province. I am merely putting forward a theory which, for all its excessive complication and intricacy, seems to me infinitely less improbable than to suppose that one of my colleagues, whom I have known and respected for many years, should suddenly and for no conceivable reason commit the cold-blooded murder of his own cousin. As a matter of fact, I do happen to know on very good authority, that someone did visit the swimming-bath a short time after it may be supposed that the tragedy took place. Now, now, don't cross-examine me—I am not, at the moment, prepared to say more than that."

Revell Tells Guthrie.

With which altogether cryptic remark he gathered up his papers and gown and left Revell to think things over.

Revell hastened to oblige. "Well, it seemed to me pretty obvious that Roseveare and Ellington had had a confidential chat together. Roseveare never hinted at suicide yesterday when I talked to him, but he had it all very pat today."

"It's an ingenious theory, anyhow. We mustn't ignore it."

"It looks to me as if it were made specialy to fit in with the possibility that the police have discovered Ellington's revolver. I wish you'd tell me whether they really have or not."

Guthrie half smiled. "I think once again I mus plead the Official Secret Acts," he answered jocularly.

"But why? I've been pretty frank with you and you said it was a bargain between us."

"All right," Guthrie interrupted. "Tell you what—if you really are devoured with curiosity, you can listen in to a couple of interviews I shall be having this evening I shall be in Ellington's room in School House, and you can hide in the little room next door. And you might be really useful, too. It might be handy to have you as a witness afterwards."

New Hairpins Balk Flight Of Perfumes

There's a Trick, of Course; the Scent Is in the Pin, and Lasts Weeks.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

HOW often women have sighed for a perfume the full strength of which would last throughout the evening! Now comes the good news that such a perfume is actually on the market and, what's more, lasts for more than an evening. Its fragrance lasts, in fact, for weeks.

This scent does not come in a bottle, however. It comes in the form of an unusual invisible hairpin which, through some mysterious and complicated process, has been intriguingly perfumed.

It all came about this way. A long-suffering husband grew tired of hearing his wife complain that her perfume never stayed with her. Being of an inventive turn of mind, he started experimenting around with bits of chenille and mixtures of oil. The result: These delightfully scented hairpins.

If you like to know the scientific why of things, you will be interested to learn that the perfume stays on as long as it does because special French oils are used in the composition of the hairpins. They come in shades to match every color of hair, from raven black to ash blonde, and are most inexpensive.

Cream Nail Polish.

CREAM nail polish is more efficacious than any other kind, as most beauty experts will tell you. And a downtown store has a perfectly grand selection of such polishes in all conceivable shades of crimson, from palest pink to bright scarlet. It is made up of rare oils which are beneficial to the nails. They will not chip or peel if this polish is used. Smooth, lasting and lustrous, it costs 25 cents a bottle.

For Winter Stay-ins.

WINTER is a difficult time for women who want to keep their figures slender and trim. All one's good intentions of taking long walks and other strenuous exercises vanish in the teeth of the howling gales Washington has been having this last month. Instead, we become resigned to an afternoon by the fire and a box of chocolates.

Those who have acquired a few extra pounds under this schedule will find on sale at a local store a corselette which is just what they've been looking for to make them look slender. It is made of lastex, which washes beautifully, and comes in a warm shade of pink.

The brassiere part is made of fine quality satin. These corselettes are guaranteed to fit perfectly and have adjustable shoulder straps. The price is $1.50.

Collapsible Coat Hangers.

WELL, who would have thought it? This is surprising! Have you seen them yet? Those collapsible metal coat hangers packed neatly in a black leather folder.

According to the girl behind the counter there's quite a demand for the hangers. Travelers in particular buy them so that wherever they go, and no matter the rustic conditions, they can have hangers available.

Call Ruth Anne Davis, of The Washington Post, National 4200, Extension 323, for further information, or write, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope.

'Rationalizing' Is Given Place In Daily Speech

Is Really One Form of Wish-Thinking; Is Opposed to 'Reasoning.'

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

A USEFUL TERM which has of late taken its place in everyday speech is "rationalizing" as opposed to "reasoning." Rationalizing is really one form of "wish-thinking." One does something, sometimes unwisely, sometimes justifiably. What one does is not the point, but the reasons one gives one's self and others for doing it.

Tommy, for example, goes out in the rain and comes in drenched. While out, he sees the garage door open and closes it. His mother asks him why he went out in the rain. It was a case of straight disobedience, and he knew it at the time he went out. But in answer to his mother he says, "I went to see if the garage door had been left open, and it had been, so I closed it." He believes his story now, and unless his mother is very suspicious she must believe it too.

Not only children are guilty of rationalizing. Everyone is apt to do it at some time, and many adults indulge in it quite as commonly as children do. It is, none the less, crooked thinking, and the only time it can be adequately dealt with is in youth.

The fact that Tommy had disobeyed and gotten wet should not have been as important to his mother as the reasons the child gave for his behavior. Very quietly she should have talked over the matter with him, reminding him of his probable feelings when he went out, and leading him to face the fact that the garage door was an excuse after the fact.

If, every time a child "rationalizes" his acts he is persuaded to face himself, punishment for his wrong doing is inadvisable. The child has learned a far more important lesson than obedience when he has learned to think straight and to tell himself the truth.

Buttons Help To Accentuate Lines of Dress

By Laura I. Baldt, A. M.

YOU'LL instantly be attracted to its femininity in new shirred sleeves and soft bodice treatment. A tailored bow finishes the neckline. The front buttoned closing gives a slenderizing effect. It makes this model suitable for more mature figures as well as youthful types. A gay little printed crepe silk made the original. Sheer wool crepe or plain crepe silk is equally effective for this easy to make dress.

Style No. 3439 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with one-quarter yard of contrasting. Send 10 cents (coin is preferred) for pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size you wish. New Spring Fashion Book costs 10 cents. Send for your copy today! Book and pattern together 20 cents. Address order to The Washington Post, Pattern Department, 160 Fifth avenue, New York, N. Y.

Believes Youth Too Much In Spotlight

MME. M. HAIDAR BEY. Harris & Ewing.

True Cosmopolite Selects U. S. For Country, Capital for Home

Born in Germany, Married to Turkish Diplomat, Mme. Haidar Bey Speaks Seven Languages and Has Carved a Business Career in Capitals of the World.

By Hope Ridings Miller.

PROBABLY NO WOMAN in Washington has a stronger claim to the title, "cosmopolite," than Mme. H. Haidar Bey, who recently came to visit Mrs. Mary Bayly at the Roosevelt Hotel.

Born in Germany, educated in England, Spain and France, a business woman in Constantinople, Athens and Paris, she recently took out her United States citizenship papers because, as she expressed it, "I have lived in so many countries, I really belong to none. Now I have selected as my own the one I like best, the one I believe offers a woman more opportunities than any other."

Exemplifying the charm so characteristic of European women, Mme. Haidar Bey is soft of voice and modest in manner. Yesterday at the Roosevelt she was attired in a tailored wool dress, her dark bobbed hair combed straight back from her face, her gray eyes twinkling as she smiled in recounting some of the steps in her colorful career.

Speaks Seven Languages.

She speaks seven languages. Her English has little trace of accent. She talks fluently, informatively, on many subjects. She has a wide range of interests based on extensive experience in numerous lines of endeavor.

The daughter of a German member of parliament, she is the former wife of Mustafa Haidar Bey, who was attached to the Turkish Embassy in Berlin during the war. Following the pattern cut by most wives of diplomats, she at first devoted her entire time to her home and social life.

"Later, however, I decided to try to carve a career for myself. I loved independence and I was bored with society and with myself for accomplishing nothing worth while. Besides, by that time I had two sons to support."

First Job at Club.

Her first position was as manager of the British United Services Club at British headquarters in Constantinople at the time of the Allied occupation of Turkey. After that, she was connected with the Nansen Commission of the League of Nations in Greece and subsequently entered welfare work with the American Red Cross in that country.

Moving to Paris, she became assistant to the publicity director of Europe for the United States Lines. "It was while I had that position I became acquainted with some of the member of the Congressional Commitee of Investigation into operations of the U. S. Shipping Board," she said. "From that time on, I wanted to live in America."

It was also while she had this position she organized educational tours throughout Europe for American college teachers and students.

"My work in that capacity taught me a good deal about American youth," she said. "I learned boys and girls from this country expect so much more from life than youths of other lands; I discovered they want everything and are willing to give nothing in return—not even respect to their elders."

"Middle-Aged Forgotten."

Later, she was to come to this country "to see, first hand, that America throws a strong spotlight on youth and apparently forgets its middle-aged. Yet the latter are generally more conscientious, more appreciative, and in most cases much more in need of help."

From 1927 until 1930, she acted as manager of the Paris office of the Spanish Royal Mail Line and spent much time in New York, organizing an annual Easter cruise from the United States to Spain. At that time one of the most succesful business women in Europe, she was considered one of the five highest salried women in the world.

During the past six years she has lived in the United States, she has been doing literary work. She plans now to make her home permanently in Washington, where she has many acquaintances and where she hopes to be active in political and international work.

"Peace projects and the future of the unemployed middle-aged woman of wide experience and cultivated tastes are what concern me most now," she said. "While vast sums are spent to help youth and protect old age, hundreds of trained mature women have been replaced with younger, cheaper employes and are now ready for relief rolls.

"It seems to me society owes a debt—not a dole—to these women. Their seasoned outlook and loyalty should be appreciated; their experience should not go to waste."

WPA Official Tells Women 65% Have Jobs

By the Associated Press.

A REPORT that 65 per cent of employable women are now at work was made today by Ellen S. Woodward, Assistant Works Progress Administrator, before the board of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

In the relief program of the past two years, she said, some 350,000 women had been given employment and the present WPA program probably will include an even greater number.

Pronouncing the special training program the key to returning women workers to private industry, she bespoke the aid of club women in the country in furthering training courses. Women in New York City who learned manual bookkeeping and others in West Virginia, Missouri and other States, who became skilled in sewing room projects, later found jobs in private industry, she said.

Miss Bertha Nienburg, assistant director of the women's bureau, said that one out of every four women over 18 have to make financial contributions to family support.

PLEASANT HOMES

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

FURNITURE THAT LEADS a double life is the order of the day. And what a debonair sort of life that is . . . with beds that make sofas by day and desks that hold the dishes so gayly. The apartments where these space saving pieces make their homes are usually very young and happy, belonging as they do to bright business couples or girls with jobs who like to make themselves at home after work in a place of their own rather than park in a furnished room. But there are problems! For instance, one pretty girl, who leads a double life herself come to think of it, being wife to Henry and bookkeeper to a big downtown concern, is puzzled about whether it's all right to arrange her china and glass ware on the shelves of her secretary desk. And if so, can she have both china and glass on the same shelf or should they be separate? And should she use doilies or leave the shelves bare? . . . Yes indeed, it's quite all right to use the shelves of her secretary desk for dishes—and glass and china hobnob beautifully together. Especially if attractive plate and platters stand upright to show their design and the glass is arranged in a precise parade forward a bit on one shelf. On another shelf the stemware can be alternated with china pieces like pitchers, cups or bowls. And we prefer the shelves bare rather than covered with doilies.

Old-Fashioned Split Pea Soup Feature Today

Considered Good Bracer Against January's Cold Winds.

By Dorothea Duncan.

THE outstanding dish of today's menus is the old-fashioned split-pea soup with croutons suggested as the main luncheon dish. This soup, if properly made, will be as appetizing as it is wholesome and nutritious, and is a very good bracer against cold January winds and snow. Try it with the following recipe:

A ham bone left over from a baked or boiled ham, will flavor pea soup quite as well as a piece bought especially for the purpose. If, however, you do buy the ham end, the meat may be cooked with the soup, but saved and ground for patties for the following day's dinner meal.

Split Pea Soup.

2 or 3 pounds ham end
1 carrot
1 onion
2 potatoes
3 quarts boiling water
1 cup split peas
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons catchup

Put the end of a moderately lean smoked ham into a kettle with carrot and peeled onion, whole potatoes, and boiling water. Boil one hour and strain. Rinse the ham thoroughly in hot water and return to the strained stock, together with split peas which have been soaking all night, and boil for one hour. Season with salt and white pepper, and add catchup. Serve at once. Thin with boiling water if too thick.

MENUS FOR TODAY.

BREAKFAST

Apple Sauce
Dry cereal with top milk
Creamed eggs on toast points
Coffee Milk (for children)

LUNCHEON

Split pea soup with croutons
Persimmon and cream cheese salad
Cottage pudding with lemon sauce

Air Hostess Glad of It.

This BUSINESS of LIVING

By Mary Haworth.

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: I hesitate to write to you, knowing you are not running an employment agency, but I am at the end of my rope and do not know which way to turn next. Surely in this beautiful, prosperous city there must be some niche for a person who desires work and shrinks from being a burden on her friends.

• • • •

I am a former show girl, 40 years old, which seems to be my greatest handicap. My singing voice is very good but it takes money to promote one's self. I could qualify as a dancing instructor or hostess. I have had some general office experience, but do not use a typewriter. I am accustomed to meeting the public and could act in the capacity of reception clerk. But where to find such openings? I have become discouraged waiting in agencies, offices, answering advertisements, etc., with no encouragement.

• • • •

If you could get me some contacts I might be able to make the grade again. I am a naturally cheerful person and not addicted to complaining, so do not judge me by this wailing letter. Many thanks for anything you may be able to do for me. Very sincerely yours,

B. J.

• • • •

DEAR B. J., I have tried in vain to discover some clew leading to contacts which might help you find a job of the kind you feel qualified to hold. Among others, I talked with a man of Nation-wide contacts in the entertainment field, and while he was sympathetic with your need, he had no constructive suggestion to offer. He said he deals daily with innumerable appeals of a similar nature from persons of similar background.

He expressed the belief you might find greater fields of opportunity in New York City than in Washington, but suggested you might make the rounds of the radio broadcasting stations here, filing application for job as reception clerk, hostess or vocalist. While I have gone on record, time and again, as being in no sense a job-finding agency, I am making one more exception in your case by printing your letter, hoping some reader may be able to supply you the help you ask.

Girl Needs Bicycle.

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: I read your column each day and am wondering if you can help me out. I am a little girl 13 years old and have quite a long way to go to school. Do you know of any girl who has a bicycle she doesn't want that she would be willing to give to me? My mother is a widow and has three children to support and keep the home together. If you can help me, I will certainly appreciate it. You can call me at Clarendon 338. Thanking you, I am

VIRGINIA N.

DEAR VIRGINIA: I'm sorry to say I don't know any little girl who has a bicycle to give away. However, some of my readers may be able to produce the transportation you have the enterprise to ask for. I have learned to place great trust in their abundant generosity. If any offers of bicycles are forthcoming, you will be promptly notified.

Mrs. Wilma Hoyal Says Party to Carry Fight Into the Home.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 27 (AP).—Mrs. Wilma Hoyal, of Douglas, Ariz., director of the women's division of the national Republican committee, said her party will carry the 1936 campaign into the home—to the women.

"The effects of the New Deal on the cost of living will be one of our weapons," Mrs. Hoyal asserted. "The woman in the home can see what the New Deal experiments are costing her every time she prepares a meal or goes to the grocery.

"Democratic women are falling in line. They don't feel that they are deserting their party in fighting the New Deal, but that the Democratic Party has deserted them."

Beginning next month she will seek to reach women voters through a monthly magazine, the Republican Challenge, and through study pamphlets, designed for use by women's clubs.

"You can get some idea of the interest from the figures of the Republican Women Volunteers," she said. "This organization was formed January 8 and within a week we had requests for 55,000 membership cards."

MRS. HUGO BLACK.

Senator and Mrs. Black Serve Famed "Chicken and Waffles" Dish.

By Pattie Ellicott.

SOUTHERN hospitality prevails at the charming home of Senator and Mrs. Hugo Black, of Alabama, both in Washington and their home State. At no time is this joy of the Blacks in entertaining their friends felt more than when the Sunday night supper includes that standby of Dixie, "chicken and waffles."

This favorite combination can be counted upon to bring a favorable response almost anywhere. The chicken, of course, may be in any form, but many like it in the form of creamed chicken, so the delicious cream gravy can lend additional tastiness to the dish.

At the Blacks and in other Southern homes here on occasion the ordinary wheat waffle is substituted for either by whole wheat waffles or the less known hominy waffles, which had their origin, it is said, in South Carolina, but the use of which generally has spread through the States below the Mason and Dixon line.

The hominy waffles are made as follows:

Hominy Waffles.

1 cup cold hominy grits
2 cups flour
3 cups milk
2 tablespoons of melted butter
1 egg.

Run the cold hominy through a sieve, to avoid lumps, and mix it with the flour. Add milk gradually, melted butter and the beaten egg. No salt is needed if the hominy was salted in cooking. Proceed as in baking flour waffles, remembering that hominy waffles do not spread readily and that therefore a slightly larger quantity of the batter should be poured into the irons and that it should be spread over all the divisions with the spoon.

Diet Suggested When Kidneys Are Overtaxed

Presence of Small Amount of Albumen Considered Danger Sign.

By Dr. Irving S. Cutter.

Chronic Kidney Disease.

THE presence of a small amount of albumin in the urine has been looked upon in some quarters as a death warrant—perhaps not immediately, but within a relatively few years. This may have been true at one stage of medical progress. It certainly is not the rule today. If we happen to find a few gray hairs we do not at once insist that death is nigh. Neither should we take too seriously the occurrence of a small amount of albumin that may appear in the fifth or sixth decades of life.

We must not, however, disregard the albumin signal. It may have no connection with disability provided a properly balanced, common sense program of rest, work, and diet can be instituted.

Most of us recognize that the kidneys are delicate structures and are as susceptible to inflamation as are the tonsils, the lungs, and other organs of the body. They are not so frequently attacked by bacteria, but their cells respond readily to injury through the agency of disease toxins or chemicals in the circulation.

If repeated inflamation has occured some kidney tissue will be destroyed, and while enough may remain to maintain life, some decrease in the output of these structures is often apparent. Again, we can understand that if the circulation of blood through the kidneys themselves is decreased from any cause whatsoever, function will be lowered. For example, if a portion of the network of blood vessels becomes hardened, narrowed, or plugged, circulation is necessarily reduced.

Repeated inflammation or decreased circulation often leads to what we call chronic kidney disease. Here is a typical case: A patient, weighing 153 pounds, first noticed a slight swelling of the ankles which, with the passing of time, became more extensive until the edema (water in the tissues) reached half way to the knee. On examination the urine was found to contain a considerable amount of albumin and an occasional red blood cell. There was a fair degree of anemia and the blood count was nearly 20 per cent below normal. Bcause of the swelling of the tissues the patient was given one-half more than the average amount of protein in the diet and no salt was allowed. It was assumed that the excess weight (36 pounds) was due to retained water which the kidneys were unable to excrete. This was proved by the rapid reduction of weight under diet, rest and good medical management. Within a few weeks the edema had entirely disappeared and the patient lost all symptoms of fatigue. The red blood cells returned to normal. Correct weight was maintained on the prescribed diet, which remained high in protein. At no time was the urine entirey free from albumin.

Another case of a different kind of kidney disease was that of a woman 42 years of age who, in addition to swelling of the hands and feet, complained of shortness of breath on exertion, slight dizziness and spots before the eyes. She had been aware of her kidney condition for some years. This patient was given a full diet except that water drinking was greatly reduced and common salt was excluded. As a result 27 pounds of water disappeared. At the present time—about three years after the program was established—while kidney disease is still present the patient is functioning normally and has lost all symptoms of breathlessness, fatigue and swelling.

Although we can live for many years with kidney disease, yet no one should invite or risk kidney damage. The resources of modern medicine, however, have robbed the old term "Bright's disease" of many of its terrors.

Figures Must Be Trim On the Beach This Year

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP).—It's a perfect '36 for a perfect 35 at this winter beach resort.

A decided premium is put on trim figures this new year because, more than ever before, one-piece bathing suits are the vogue.

One striking outfit consisted of a knit suit and surplice brassier. Another was of leopard-skin silk, tight fitting, with matching cap.

Ruling Waits In Boundary Controversy

Smith, Indignant, Denies Financial Interest in Disputed Area.

The House Judiciary Committee late yesterday concluded its third full-day hearing on the District-Virginia boundary report, but Chairman Sumners, of Texas, indicated he would make an informal inspection of the disputed territory before a decision is reached. He also indicated a sub-committee may be named to obtain further facts.

Sumner said the issues are now clearly before the committee, but the contradictions of testimony and argument have left the members confused as to facts.

Highlights of the last day's testimony were an acceptance by the Justice Department of Virginia's challenge to carry the boundary dispute to the courts and the indignant refutation by Representative Smith (Democrat), of Virginia, of an allegation that his constitutents are financially interested in the outcome of the controversy.

Suit Will Be Filed.

Henry H. Glassie, Justice Department attorney, told the committee he was authorized to say that the Attorney General would bring suit against the State of Virginia in an original boundary proceeding if the committee so recommends.

"But we are reluctant to bring suit against another sovereignty," he said.

Previously, former State Senator Frank Ball, speaking for Arlington County, had stated Virginia would welcome such a test suit and dared the United States to institute it. He was not present yesterday, and committee members who suggested the course made no comment.

Glassie also expressed his personal opinion that private property owners along the Virginia shore of the Potomac River could invoke prescriptive rights against the Federal Government, although he added that many prescription claims could not be sustained. Bell had said that private rights could not be claimed against a sovereignty.

Holds D. C. Not Concerned.

The Justice Department attorney, in an impassioned summary of the Government's case, charged the District-Virginia Boundary Commission with failing to complete the task assigned it by Congress by not considering the private property claims of each piece of land developed and by not making monumental markings of the boundary recommended.

He ridiculed Virginia's contention that the District Government has that the District overnment has never exercised any police or taxing authority over the disputed territory, and that Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen had said the District has no desire to claim possession.

"The issue is not between the State of Virginia and the municipality of the District," Glassie said. "It is between the United States and Virginia. It doesn't matter a whit what the District Commissioners have or have not done in the matter."

Glassie introduced a map drafted by L'Enfant and submitted to Congress by President George Washington in 1791 to prove his contention that Alexander's Island was clearly an island when the territory that is now the District was ceded to the United States.

"George Washington knew every foot of this ground," he said, "and it is ridiculous to assert that he would send such a map as this to Congress if Alexander's Island had not been an island as portrayed by the map."

During a discussion of the traditional policy of the United States in claiming the far shore of a river as its boundary, Representative Montague (Democrat), of Virginia, declared Virginia had been cheated originally by "the infamous rascality of Lord Baltimore" and that the boundary should have been the middle of the Potomac River.

Earlier in the afternoon Thomas S. Settle, secretary of the National Park and Planning Commission, urged the committee to drop or reject the report and allow the commission to continue its negotiations for private contracts of land at least until the next session of Congress.

Bill for Merger Of Capital's Gas Firms Offered

Introduced by Rep. Norton; Opposition to Plan Is Doubtful.

Upon request, Chairman Mary T. Norton, of the House District Committee, yesterday introduced in the House a bill to authorize the merger of the Washington and Georgetown Gas Light companies and to permit the former to issue additional stock.

Mrs. Norton said she understood that the bill carries the approval of the District Commissioners and the Public Utilities Commission, and so she anticipates no opposition.

A similar measure died in the Seventy-third Congress after objections were raised to certain of its provisions by District officials. The objectionable provisions apparently have been removed from the new bill.

Must Get P. U. C. Approval.

Both the authority to issue new stock and to merge are made subject to the approval of the Public Utilities Commission by the bill.

Section 1 states that the Washington Gas Light Co. "may, by vote of its directors, increase its capitalization and from time to time issue such additional stock, in such amounts, for such considerations, of such classes, either with or without par value, and with such rights, privileges and conditions, as said commission may approve.

"All shares of capital stock of said company hereafter issued for which the agreed consideration shall have been paid to the company, and all shares of capital stock of the company heretofore issued, as well as shares into which such shares heretofore issued may be changed, shall be deemed as taken to be fully-paid and non-assessable, and there shall be no liability to the creditors of the company on the part of any subscriber to or holder of such shares."

Merges All Properties.

The merger section authorizes the Washington Gas Light Co. to take over "all property, rights, privileges, and franchises of the Georgetown Gas Light Co.," subject to liens and valid claims.

Any actions pending against the Georgetown company at the time of the merger shall lie against the Washington company.

Public hearings on the bill will be scheduled shortly by a subcommittee of the House District Committee.

A Horse With Claws Dug Up in Nebraska

A prehistoric horse with claws has Smithsonian Institution scientists puzzled.

Paleontologists, it was revealed yesterday, have joined together the bones of the creature—discovered in a Nebraska quarry—but they can't figure out how he was able to get his mouth to the ground to drink.

The animal had a long neck, high forequarters, a short, downward-sloping back and long legs. It is known scientifically as a Moropus elatus, and roamed North America nearly 40,000,000 years ago in the Miocene Period.

Damages Given In Theft of Car At Parking Lot

Auto Club Hails Award of $431 for Negligence as Victory.

A jury's verdict in Municipal Court yesterday awarding damages of $431 claimed by Louis Salem, whose car was stolen from a parking lot here, was hailed by George E. Keneipp, manager of the Keystone Automobile Club, as a "victory of outstanding importance to Washington motorists."

Salem, a member of the auto club, had parked his car on a lot operated by the Service Parking Corporation. The car was stolen from the lot and demolished in an accident. The operator of the lot would make no adjustment, holding that all possible precautions had been taken to prevent theft.

Said Keneipp: "The club, believing that Salem was entitled to damages and that the time had come for establishment of a clear-cut precedent in such cases, engaged counsel. Upon a showing that the parking lot operator was negligent in not furnishing enough employes to assure security for the car on the lot, a jury brought in a verdict awarding full legal damages to Salem.

"The instruction to the jury by Judge Armand W. Scott emphasized the point that if the jury found the operator thus negligent, damages were in order."

According to Keneipp this case is the first clearly to establish the responsibility of the parking lot operator to provide sufficient workers to assure the safety of automobiles given into his care. Attorneys for the club were Harvey L. Cobb and James T. Crouch.

Pepco Faces Cut by P.U.C. In Profit Rate

Lawyer for Commission Says He Is Ready for Court Test.

Reduction of the rate of return on its investment allowed the Potomac Electric Power Co. is expected to be made by the Public Utilities Commission.

Determination of the commission to order a reduction in the present 7 per cent rate base allowed under the sliding scale agreement in effect was indicated at the conclusion of public hearings yesterday. Hinman D. Folson, counsel for the commission, and William A. Roberts, people's counsel, were on the one side, urging reduction. On the other was S. R. Bowen, company counsel, the company's legal spearhead for many years.

Decision of the commission to order a reduction is expected despite the blunt warning of the day before by Dr. William McClellan, company president, that the company would not accept a rate below 7 per cent.

Challenges Suit.

The threat of a court battle was met equally as bluntly by Folsom and Roberts. Folsom declared he was prepared to defend a reduction order in the courts. He said the commission should look immediately to adjustment of the company accounts, which he said showed abnormal operating expenses.

Roberts said the rate of return should be reduced to 6 per cent. The United States Supreme Court, Roberts said, had upheld a rate of 5.5 per cent as reasonable. He cited the peculiarly favorable position of the Washington company as bearing out his contention the commission would be justified in reducing the rate.

Dividends paid by the company have ranged from 14 to 42.5 per cent annually during the last decade, Mr. Roberts pointed out.

The commission recently allowed the Washington Gas Light Co. a return of 6.5 per cent.

Decision in Few Days.

The commission said it would take the gas company matter under consideration and announce its decision in a few days. When it has done that the commission still is to go into the question of electric current rates for the year. Commission experts have estimated that not less than $84,000 should be translated into rate reductions. Company experts have insisted that the maximum should be $68,000.

Involved in the impending decision are such questions as the valuation, which commission witnesses said should be reduced by not less than $3,289,000, adjustment of the cash working capital account, urged by Roberts, and the $84,000 surplus earning from last year.

40-Hour Bill Held To Insure Pay Cut

Reduced wages for women laundry workers will follow enactment of the proposed 40-hour women work bill, the Commissioners were warned yesterday by John W. Lowe, president of the District Laundry-Dry Cleaners Association.

The proposed law might even lead to a migration of laundries from the District to nearby Virginia and Maryland. Lowe warned the commissioners.

None the less, the Commissioners refused to withdraw their approval of the 40-hour work week for women.

Worry Over Lost Son Grays Mother's Hair

DeWitt C. Lawrence, Jr., May Have Started to Florida on Bicycle.

Worry over the disappearance of her son has put silver streaks in the once jet black hair of his 47-year-old mother, Mrs. Louise Lawrence, of 400 Seward square southeast.

The son, DeWitt Clinton Lawrence, jr., 15, started for St. Joseph's School on his bicycle the morning of January 17.

Mrs. Lawrence's hair was black then. Yesterday DeWitt's father, for whom the boy is named, came to The Post seeking assistance in locating his boy. He said:

"Mrs. Lawrence once had beautiful black hair, jet black, as black as your hat. Now her hair has streaks as white as that paper there."

Lawrence, a dining car conductor on the Southern Railroad, operating on the Cincinnati to Miami run, believes the boy meant to ride his bicycle to Florida to see him.

The boy, called by members of his family and his friends by his middle name, is about 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 90 pounds. His hair is blonde and his eyes blue. He left home wearing a gray corduroy suit with a zipper front, tan shoes, black sweater and blue shirt.

He was hatless, his father said, recalling that when he was in Atlanta, Ga., one morning last week the temperature was 4 below zero.

Aileen Logue, 15, of 1414½ Rosedale street northwest, yesterday was again reported missing from her home. The report was made to police by Robert E. Ross, an uncle.

Earlier this month the girl left her home, but returned in a week.

Court Will Scan Life Insurance Of Killeen's Aid

A $10,000 life insurance policy that Albert (Al) Sutton, henchman of the slain Edward Killeen, took out while he was on parole from Lorton Reformatory in 1934, and which provided for a double indemnity if Sutton was "accidentally slain" was placed under scrutiny of the District Supreme Court yesterday when the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada filed a petition seeking its cancelation.

The company charged Sutton had explained he was a "salesman and collector" when he took out the policy. He is now under indictment in Rockville, Md., for first-degree murder in connection with the "mistaken identity" murder of Allen B. Wilson, newspaper carrier, along with John (Slim) Dunn, William Cleary, and Ernest Myers.

Courthouse attaches speculated on the outcome of the case if Sutton, in the event he is found guilty of participation in Wilson's murder, is hanged before the policy is canceled. They wondered if the "double indemnity" clause would provide his estate with twice the face value of the policy because of "accidental death."

Franklin Bank To Pay Second Dividend Soon

RFC Loan to Make 10% Payment Possible, Trustees Say.

Payment of a second substantial dividend to some 14,000 depositors in the old Franklin National Bank was decided on yesterday by the Franklin Liquidating Trust.

While comment was withheld by the trustees, William F. Kelly, Henry J. Sterzer and Lindsay P. Rawley, they were reliably reported to contemplate a payment of perhaps 10 per cent within the next three or four months.

Depositors received their first dividend of 65 per cent, totaling some $1,800,000, April 23, 1934, when certain Franklin assets were taken over by the City Bank, which operates in the old Franklin quarters at Tenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.

Prospects for the new dividend, it developed, resulted from recent action of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in agreeing to accept title to the Pennsylvania avenue building and another building owned by the bank on Connecticut avenue, near K street, as security for a loan of $200,000, reduced from $806,000.

The RFC will return to the trustees a large amount of bonds and notes supplied as collateral for the original loan. Liquidation of these securities will permit payment of the second dividend.

Regardless of the size of the second dividend, the trustees, it was learned, expected to pay off the depositors 100 per cent within a few years.

State Names For Streets Slated Today

Maine, Missouri, Ohio, Oklahoma Agitate for Honors.

Memorial Parkway Link, Pan American Annex to be Scrutinized.

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission is going to try to finish this morning what Thomas Jefferson started over a century ago when it recommends the naming of certain avenues for States which have not yet been honored thusly in the Capital.

The Federal triangle and Mall developments downtown wiped out Maine, Missouri and Ohio avenues. Subsequently, Congressional representatives of those States introduced bills providing for replacements. Oklahomans on Capitol Hill likewise have agitated for a namesake avenue.

There is an Oklahoma avenue in Washington, but it exists only on paper. In the same category fall Arizona and Texas avenues. Mississippi avenue, in distant Congress Heights, is inhabited, according to the city directory—by one family.

Four States Seek Names.

So today, opening its January meeting, the planning body is going to recommend that certain existing thoroughfares be named for Maine, Missouri, Ohio and Oklahoma. These are the States that have been doing most of the agitating on the Hill.

Thomas S. Settle, secretary of the planning commission, declared the Senate District Committee has agreed to withdraw from the calendar the avenue-naming bills introduced by Senators Hale, Clark, Bulkley and Gore in favor of a blanket measure which would empower the District Commissioners, advised by the planning group, to name thoroughfares on their own authority.

Senator Gore, for instance, had submitted a bill to change Rend road to Oklahoma avenue. With Washington expanding as it is, there are a number of "important" avenues available for naming, assured Settle and John Nolen, jr., director of planning.

Another controversial matter coming before the commission at its two-day meeting relates to the George Washington Memorial Parkway, whether it shall be connected with Lee highway by means of a tunnel under Key Bridge, or by an underpass which would necessitate the construction of another arch on the bridge.

The question, according to officials, is largely one of relative costs. The tunnel, they say, would be cheaper, but not so attractive to the eye as the extra arch alternative.

This problem, along with plans for the new Pan American annex, Government Printing Office warehouse and Bureau of Engraving and Printing annex, also will be discussed at a joint meeting of the Fine Arts and planning commissions tomorrow afternoon.

Airport and Boundary Status.

Settle, Nolen, T. C. Jeffers, William T. Partridge and other staff members of the planning body will present reports on the status of airport and Virginia-District of Columbia boundary legislation, projected removal of street car tracks in the vicinity of the Capitol and proposed changes in zonin gregulations.

Frederic A. Delano, chairman, will submit for commission approval development plans for Benning Recreation Center and Hoover playground and a proposal to change the name of Cardozo Recreation Center to Randall.

Secretary Ickes' recent complaint that the Pan-American annex to be erected at Constitution avenue and Eighteenth street will eclipse his new Interior Building from the south is responsible for location plans being returned to the Fine Arts and Planning Commissions for further study. Both previously had approved all plans for the two structures.

The joint session also will take up the question of replacing Chain Bridge, subject of many years of agitation by citizens' and trade organizations.

Judge Schuldt Sees Driver Go 40 M. P. H. on Crowded Street; 'Maybe They'll Learn,' He Declares; Notes Some Improvement

(Editor's note: In an effort to determine the answer to Washington's present traffic problem, with its mounting toll of accidents, The Post has assigned a reporter to learn the reason behind violations of traffic regulations. A reporter, accompanied by an official of the Police Traffic Division, has been cruising in a police car. It is The Post's desire merely to learn "the reason why" of violations. This is the twentieth in a series of stories.)

By Howard F. Wentworth.

Judge Gus A. Schuldt of District Traffic Court was our cruising "observer" yesterday as we resumed our tour of city streets in search of the "reason why" behind violations of traffic regulations.

Day after day Judge Schuldt sits in his dingy courtroom to hear accused motorists offer fantastic excuses futile apologies scrambled explanations—anything to escape punishment for their offenses.

He listens patiently to these "reasons why." He nods approval when a driver readily admits his guilt and takes his medicine without a murmur. He knows all the "answers" by heart. He has watched thousands of law-breaking motorists stand nervously before his bench.

But yesterday he rode with us to obtain a first-hand view of Washington's traffic problem. He saw how and where law violations occur. He listened with interest while the accosted driver tried to "explain" and evade arrest.

Traffic was heavy along upper Connecticut avenue. We had seen and stopped a number of motorists for minor infractions. Policeman C. L. Smith, of the Traffic Division, was our official "spotter."

As we neared Klingle Bridge, an automobile sped past us, weaving in and out of traffic. Other cars were traveling within the 22-mile limit.

The speeding driver blew his horn repeatedly. He swerved to the left and then to the right, passing vehicles and shifting from one traffic lane to the other.

For more than five blocks, we trailed this offender. Not once during the pursuit did he travel less than 35 miles an hour. When we finally overtook him, our speedometer registered 40.

Policeman Smith waved him to the curb. With Judge Schult, we approached the driver. But before we could ask him "why?", he laughingly inquired:

"Well, well, what have I done?"

Policeman Smith asked him if he knew the speed limit on Connecticut avenue. The driver hesitated, and then said:

"Sure, it's either 22 or 30—I forget which."

"How fast were you going?" he was asked next.

"I couldn't tell to save me," was his reply. I wasn't paying any attention to my speedometer.'

And then Judge Schuldt asked a question:

"How long have you been driving in the District?"

"About 20 years," answered the motorist.

Policeman Smith started to write out a "ticket." The driver started to stutter.

"Honest," he pleaded, I thought I was only going about 32 miles an hour."

"And that," said Policeman Smith, "is just 10 miles over the limit. Report to Traffic Court."

Another judge will hear the case. Judge Schuldt cannot sit as both judge and witness.

The 4:30 p. m. rush hour had set in when we returned downtown. On F street northwest there are numerous signs prohibiting "U" turns. There are few motorists who are familiar with downtown regulations who don't know that "U" turns are not permitted.

Notwithstanding, a taxi driver (he said he had covered approximately 50,000 miles on Washington streets) swung suddenly around in front of a line of traffic. One motorist was forced to jam on his brakes. His woman passenger was thrown against the windshield.

"I just forgot—I'm sorry," said the taximan.

And he was told by Policeman Smith "not to forget" to deposit collateral on a "ticket" which was handed out with little ceremony.

Judge Schuldt was much impressed with what he saw. He agreed that violations are still frequent—and dangerous. But he appeared pleased that conditions are much improved.

"Maybe they'll learn," he added.

Washington Enters 1936 Race For Title of 'Safest U. S. City'

Washington again is seeking to become "the safest traffic city"—this time for 1936.

It was announced yesterday by Inspector Benjamin A. Lamb, police traffic supervisor, that the District of Columbia has been entered for the second time in the national traffic safety contest.

A contest entry blank was signed by Maj. Ernest W. Brown, police superintendent, and sent to the National Safety Council in Chicago. Inspector Lamb was assigned to handle local details.

During last year's drive, more than 800 cities and 33 States enrolled for competition. The winner will be announced in March.

Renewed efforts will be made to curb traffic fatalities, accidents and injuries. An educational program will be launched. In a plea for cooperation, Inspector Lamb declared:

"We cannot possibly make a showing through the efforts of a few men alone. We will make every effort to uphold our end and I know we will be aided by every citizen in Washington."

Georgetown Five Triumphs Over Army at West Point, 43-31

Hoyas Protect Early Lead To Win

'Monk' Meyer Is Leader of Belated Rally of Cadet Five.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Jan. 29. Georgetown, after a hard game lost to Yale last night, came here this afternoon and took it out on the Army, defeating the Cadets, 43 to 31, in a well-played contest. The game was played on the floor of Army's new gym and was witnessed by a large mid-week crowd.

The visitors displayed much speed, a sharp eye for the basket, and a stout defense which the Cadets had trouble in breaking through. Nolan and Gibeau were outstanding in their passing and defensive play. Bassin and Petroskey were the chief point getters for Georgetown.

Amass Lead Quickly.

The collegians got under way early, Gregor's point from foul starting them on their way and Petroskey, Bassin and Nolan dropping in field goals in quick succession to give Georgetown the lead at 7 to 0. The game was 7 minutes old before Army drew blood, Meyer tallying from under the basket on a pivot shot. Russell counted on a pass from Dawalt and then Gibeau with two field goals and Petroskey with one gave Georgetown a 13-to-4 advantage at mid-time of the half.

A Cadet rally then developed, and as the clock ticked the last minute of the half the Army had tied up the game with the score 16 to 16. At half-time Georgetown had forged ahead again, the score reading 21 to 19 in their favor as the gun sounded.

At the beginning of the second half the Hoyas piled up their lead, Keating and Nau scoring from scrimmage and the latter dropping in a couple of points on free throws. Again Army was having difficulty getting within shooting range and, with nine minutes to go, the visitors had run the count to 36 to 23.

Although Army's belated spurt gave them temporary hope near the end of the second playing period, Bassin's two pretty shots from close up, Gibeau's fine dribble and resultant field goal and his keen eye from the foul line kept the visiting five well in front until the end. "Monk" Meyer, erstwhile Army football star, led the point getters with 17 points to his credit.

District Heads Greet C. U. Players

THE Commissioners of the District, on behalf of the District government and the citizens of Washington, will greet the Catholic University football team and coaches on the steps of the Municipal Building, Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue at 12:30 this afternoon. Commissioners George Allen, Melvin C. Hazen and Col. Daniel I. Sultan will voice their appreciation of the victory the Cardinals brought back to Washington from the Orange Bowl post-season game at Miami on New Year's Day.

This occasion will serve further to bring the attention of the city to the Orange Bowl Victory Dinner which is being given next Monday evening in honor of one of Washington's greatest athletic teams. A citizens committee, headed by James E. Colliflower, is cooperating with the local Catholic U. alumni in staging this event at the Willard Hotel. Commissioner Allen will act as toastmaster that evening and introduce a galaxy of prominent guests and speakers from political, governmental, business and sporting circles of Washington. Entertainment will follow the tribute to the Flying Cardinals.

Headquarters for the Orange Bowl Victory Dinner is now open on the mezzanine floor of the Willard Hotel. Reservations and tickets can be had at the Willard ticket office, at Spalding's, and at the athletic office at Catholic University. Professional and social clubs continue to request special tables for their groups. The Touchdown Club, composed of former college football players here, is the latest to make a reservation. A. J. Bergman, C. U. athletic director and president of the club, announced he will have as his guest Charles Brickley, Harvard gridiron star, whose ability to drop-kick field goals brought him fame before the war.

This Morning . . .

With Shirley Povich

I SEE by the papers that the racing stewards at Miami have caught up with a jockey who has confessed to prodding his mount with the aid of a battery and I am reminded of my favorite battery story.

This was the case of a trainer who was already in some disrepute because of the suspicion that he was using some plain and fancy needlework on his horses and who could not afford to be caught red-handed at the business of tampering with his stock.

Things had come to such a pass, in fact, that he was forced to dispose of his last two oat burners at a public sale in order to bail himself out of the hostlery where he had been putting up for the duration of the long meeting. Moving on to another track, he managed to pick up for a comparatively small sum a sore-legged animal whose future was very dismal, indeed.

POVICH.

Now this fellow's tactics with his horses might not have been strictly kosher but there was none to say that he didn't know his business as a trainer. By patient ministrations to his one-horse stable, frequent massages and tedious exercise, he brought his steed into something resembling fair form and bided his time until he found a race that appeared to suit his talents.

THE spot where he thought he could win with the old fellow was the final race on the last day of the meeting, a 9-furlong affair suited to the distance-running talents of his steed, who, in his palmy days, was running over tired horses in the last eighth-mile.

As I was saying, he had his horse in fair shape and with a break in racing luck he figured to win or come mighty close to winning. But mighty close did not suit my friend, who was again in hock, and presently he was beginning to think of shading the ethics of racing again. He had a plan.

With a trusted old jockey who had often been in on the trainer's tricks, he devised a plan that won him completely. He brought out the old battery. But my friend, who, as I said, could not afford to be caught giving another of his steeds the works, was taking no chances on this occasion. It wasn't electricity that would spur his steed to greater deeds this day. It would be psychology, making its presence felt on the race track for perhaps the first time.

But a battery was nevertheless very necessary to his scheme, and after detailing his plan to his trusted rider, the pair started to put it into effect. Four days before the race, his old horse was led onto the track at dawn for an early workout. Into the saddle climbed the jock, a battery concealed in his blouse and the sharp, electrified prong held tightly in his whip hand. They were ready for the first test.

IT WAS to be a trial over the full distance of a mile and an eighth. My trainer friend held the watch as horse and jockey whirled around the oval. At the appointed spot, as they turned into the home stretch, the jock applied the battery, shoving the prong of the buzzer deep into the horse's neck and being rewarded with a new bound of speed that carried his mount into the finish with something akin to stake-horse speed.

The trainer noted the time and smiled. He could win this race at a second slower, he knew, but his plan was not yet complete. The next morning found trainer, rider and horse on the track again. Around the oval the old fellow sped, apparently full of run. At the same spot where the buzzer had been applied the day before, the jock again let him have it. At the sting of the prong, new life again seemed to course through the old fellow's legs and the trainer again smiled as he noted the time.

Came the day before the race, and the horse was allowed merely to breeze in his early-morning workout. But at the same appointed spot on the turn for home, the jockey plunged the prong of his buzzer once more into the same sore spot of his mount's neck. Toward the finish he bounded with a new burst of speed and the trainer beamed with satisfaction once more.

But he was a canny soul. You don't think he was dumb enough to use that battery the next day, the day of the race? No, indeedy. There wasn't the sign of a battery as the jock climbed into the saddle and the field went to the post. When the barrier went up, after the field had rounded the far turn, the old trainer's mount, true to form, was far back in the running.

But when they hit the appointed spot on the stretch turn things happened. With a fresh burst of speed he overtook the entire field, won going away. The jock hadn't used a battery. No, indeed. He simply stuck the sharp prong of a horseshoe ring into the same sore spot on the mount's head and the horse, in habit's grip, sensed the presence of a battery. The effect was the same. Psychology had found a new field.

Perry Plans Active Season; He's Well on Way to Recovery

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Fred Perry isn't through with competitive tennis, temporarily or otherwise.

The sparkling Briton said so himself today when he announced he intends to take part in the Wimbledon program next summer, including the Davis Cup competition, and then go to the United States for the singles tournament at Forest Hills.

Perry said he was well on the way to recovery from injuries he suffered in the bad spill he took in the first set of his semifinal match against Wilmer Allison in the American Championship at Forest Hills last September. The injury has been variously described as a ruptured kidney and a broken vertebrae.

Pedley to Get U. S. Polo Berth

Smith, Elmer Boeseke Are Overlooked for Young Californian.

By Alan Gould.
Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.— For the first time in 15 years, during which he helped keep the United States supreme in international polo competition, Tommy Hitchcock will be missing from America's line-up in the matches for the classic Westchester Cup, to be defended this June in England.

Simultaneous with the disclosure today that for business reasons the world's only ten-goal player had decided not to go abroad, the United States Polo Association invited Eric Pedley, California star, to join the American squad.

The selection committee passed over two eight-goal players, Cecil Smith, of Austin, Tex., and Elmer J. Boeseke, jr., of Santa Barbara, Calif., in seeking Pedley, who now has a seven-goal rating. Boeseke has been out of competition for a year, due to an injury. Smith was not impressive last season in tournament play, in addition to which the Texan's size makes him difficult to mount.

Was Sensation.

Pedley, the first and only Westerner ever named for international cup play, was a sensation at No. 1 on the American side that last defended the trophy against England in 1930. The Californian set a record by scoring nine goals in the second and deciding match at Meadow Brook. His teammates were Earle A. S. Hopping, Hitchcock and Winston Guest.

If he accepts the invitation to go abroad, Pedley will rejoin Guest in the cup battle, along with Mike Phipps, Elbridge (Ebby) Gerry and Stewart Iglehart, a group of eight-goal Easterners. The likely lineup, totaling 31 goals, will be Pedley at No. 1, Phipps No. 2, Iglehart No. 3, in place of Hitchcock, and Guest at back.

Hitchcock is the second player to decline the invitation to invade England. Business reasons also influenced Billy Post, youthful backfield star, to withdraw.

Robert E. Strawbridge, jr., new chairman of the polo association and manager of the international team, stressed that Hitchcock actually had never accepted the invitation and was in no sense "quitting."

Not Quitting.

"Mr. Hitchcock made it plain from the beginning that because of business affairs it would be very difficult for him to make the trip," said Strawbridge. "On our part we naturally waited and did not press for an answer because we had every desire to have him go. Mr. Hitchcock's decision to announce his present inability to make the trip is his own and made because he felt, by delaying any longer, he might interfere with the chances of some other man to join the squad. In no sense is he changing his mind or quitting, for he never indicated officially he could make the trip."

Hitchcock, rated at the maximum of 10 goals for 14 of the last 15 years, has been identified with all of this country's major international triumphs at polo since the war. He helped bring the cup back from England in 1921, played with the defending teams in 1924, 1927 and 1930. His return to form and top ranking last year, after being seriously hurt in falls in two previous seasons, was one of the major comebacks of 1935.

Although Hitchcock's absence will be felt, American observers feel the cup defense will be in capable hands, particularly if the experienced Californian, Pedley, finds it possible to join forces with the brilliant youthful Eastern quartet. Strawbridge, who has a seven-goal rating and the benefit of brief international experience, also will be available to play, if needed, although he is going abroad primarily in an executive capacity.

Maryland U. Ace Facing Triple Role

Tomorrow night ordinarily would be a red-letter date in Coleman Headley's life, but he had the misfortune to be selected for two important posts in Coach Geary Eppley's track plans for Saturday night.

As president of the junior class Headley will lead the promenade tomorrow night at the Willard Hotel, scene of the annual Junior Prom, but that's where his activities for the evening end, for as soon as the grand march is over, when the boys and their girl friends settle down for some serious dancing, Coleman will head for home and bed.

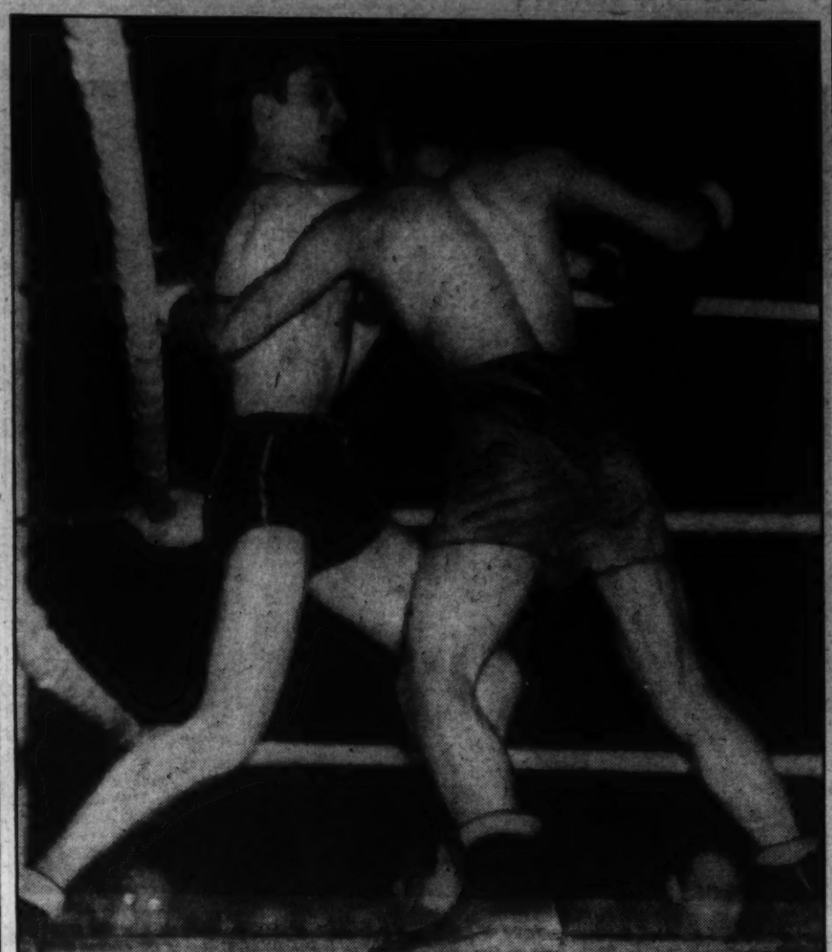

After being entered in the 1,000-yard race in the Millrose games at New York Saturday, Headley yesterday was named on the mile relay team. Other members of the team will be Warren Evans and Bob Archer, both veterans, and Frank Cronin, a sophomore. Maryland will run against Yale, Princeton and Amherst.

Game Held Up, Player Thaws Out and Flops

Sturgeon Falls, Ont., Jan. 29 (AP). It's too cold for comfortable hockey in this part of northern Ontario. Johnny Aquino, goalkeeper for the North Bay Polar Bears, found that out last night when he held a game up 30 minutes so his feet could be thawed out.

Back in the nets, his chilled legs let in five goals, and his team dropped a 5-4 decision to the Homesters. The exhibition game was played in weather 25 to 30 below zero.

Amateurs Battle for Golden Gloves Titles

Backed into the ropes by the wild-swinging Frank Burke, Steve Mamakos, Washington Boys Club 147-pounder, is seen fending off the assault in the first roud last night in the Golden Gloves tournament at Turner's Arena. Mamakos knocked out Burke in the first minute of the third round.

Ross 'Gunning' For Middle Crown

Welter King Agrees to Risko Match; Seeks 4th World's Title.

By the Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 29.—The ambition to crack all records for the fight game by reaching championship heights in four weight divisions sent Barney Ross in quest of the middleweight title today.

Through his managers, Sam Pian and Art Winch, the black-thatched welterweight king agreed to terms offered by Promoters Herman Taylor and Bobby Gunnis for a middleweight crown battle with Eddie (Babe) Risko, the 160-pound ruler.

Announcing the Chicagoan's agreement, Taylor and Gunnis said they are after Babe Genovese, Risko's pilot, to get his signature to the articles.

The proposed bout would come off indoors some time in March, probably over the 15-round route, since Pennsylvania's new athletic law permits that distance for championship engagements.

Should the bout take place, and should Barney trounce the Syracuse "Adonis," it will mark the first time in the history of the sport that one puncher has topped four divisions. In addition to leading the 145-pounders, Ross also has held the lightweight and junior-welterweight championships.

His previously announced desire to collect $100,000 during 1936 probably actuated Ross to agree, as much as did the chance to take the middleweight title.

He has already started his $100,000 campaign, stopping Lou Halper, of Newark, N. J., here Monday night in his first start. There is talk also that a sizable portion of his financial ambition may be attained in a welterweight championship go in New York this summer, with Jimmy McLarnin as a probable opponent.

U. of R. May Stage Prep Tournament

Richmond, Va., Jan. 29 (AP).—University of Richmond officials were behind a movement today to bring the 1936 South Atlantic interscholastic basketball tournament to Richmond. An announcement from Washington and Lee University last night said the tourney would be postponed a year to avoid conflict with the intercollegiate wrestling matches.

Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite, of Richmond, said "the decision of Washington and Lee officials to postpone their prep tournament this year is all new to me, but I will do all in my power to bring the tourney to Richmond."

If held here, he indicated, the tournament would be played March 5, 6 and 7. Other Spider officials were quick to endorse the coach's plan.

'Alabama' Pitts Signs Contract, Gets Raise

Baltimore, Jan. 29 (AP).—"Alabama" Pitts, who jumped from Sing Sing's prison diamond to professional baseball in one move, has signed his 1936 contract with the Albany Club for "quite a raise," Joe Cambria, owner of the Albany outfit, said tonight.

"Sure, he's signed," Cambria said. "He got quite a raise, too—25 or 30 per cent."

Cambria said he would try Pitts in the infield this summer—probably on the third sack.

Washington Golfer Loses to Ball Star

Coral Gables, Fla., Jan. 29.—Paul Waner, who thinks golf in the winter helps his baseball in the summer, was straight and true down the fairways today to take the halfway lead in the 36-hole final of the Miami Biltmore left-handers' tourney.

Playing the initial 18 holes in 78, seven over par, the Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder was 3 up on his last-round opponent, J. T. Rogerson, Miami Springs, who needed 81. The remaining 18 holes will be played tomorrow. The baseball player in the morning's semifinal eliminated Earl C. Jameson, Washington, D. C., 2 and 1, while Rogerson advanced as an infected hand forced James J. Lewis, of Chicago, to withdraw.

Dempsey Signs "Hope" for Match

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—Jack Dempsey came back to Chicago today to sign for a fight.

The old Mauler did not sign for Dempsey to do the fighting, though. He agreed to the Chicago Stadium's terms for a bout between his "white hope," Clarence (Red) Burman, of Baltimore, and either Billy Treest, of Batavia, Ill., or Hank Bath, of Fort Morgan, Colo., "white hope" of his old manager, Jack Kearns, probably with the latter. The bout is tentatively billed for February 14.

Treest belted out a decision over Bath in ten blistering rounds last night at the stadium to earn the bout with Burman. But he suffered a severely damaged left eye and may not be ready for the February 14 date. Bath, although whipped, won the hearts of the spectators by his courageous battle against Treest. He not only got up off the floor three times, but at the finish was doing a lot of damage to Treest's face with a jarring left jab.

Thus, it appears that Chicago instead of New York, will see the meeting between the proteges of the two Jacks. They were matched for a 6-rounder in New York several weeks ago, but the New York Athletic Commission upset everything by refusing Bath a license.

Golden Glovers Stage 35 Bouts; Mamakos Wins Pair of Battles.

By Bill McCormick.

WASHINGTON'S third annual Golden Glove Boxing tournament got off to a flying and flaying start before some 1,500 at the Catholic University gym last night.

Eight novice bouts, for boys even greener in the art of punch than the regular golden glovers opened the bill. The novice bouts were followed by 27 contests between the regular glovers. There was hardly a dull moment in either of the classes.

Many of the bouts—too many to enumerate here—offered as many thrills and as much excitment as could possibly be packed into the three two-minute rounds which are fought in the opening and semi-final contests.

Mammakos Twice Winner.

By the luck of the draw required to fight twice, Steve Mammakos, Washington Boys Club welterweight entrant, turned in two winning and hair-raising performances. Steve scored his first win over Frank Burk, an unattached combatant, by a second-round technical knockout.

With no science only the will to win and great stamina, the boys went to it in alarming fashion in the first round, which was won by Steve. In the second, Mammakos dropped Burk with a hard right to the chin, and Frank was dragging anchor as he attempted to rise when Referee Denny Hughes called a halt.

In a later fight, Mammakos encountered the Olympic Athletic Club's Bob's Mathias—no relation to the Metropolitan Police Boys Club Bob Mathias—who was defeated in his one and only bout. Steve did everything but outgame Mathias, pummelling him unmercifully with a two-fisted attack to the head and body. Bob landed just enough hard rights to make the contest one of the high lights of the night, but he was unable to floor Mammakos, who had him weary and out on his feet at the bell.

Baseball Scribes Will Honor Frisch, Greenberg at Dinner

By Jack Diamond.
Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Our town, where they think sentiment is just that stuff in the bottom of the glass and where hearts have a tenderness akin to a nice, solid block of granite, is preparing to pay homage Sunday to two baseball boys who journeyed to fields afar, not to return on their shields but to come back and get 'em with honors and hors d'oeuvres.

A pair of plaques will be presented by the New York Baseball Boswells at their annual dinner to a couple of guys from Gotham—Frankie Frisch, the Fordham flash who was practically kidnaped from a college classroom by the late John McGraw, eventually to become the dynamic manager of the St. Louis Cards, and Hank Greenberg, the boy from the Bronx who took over the Detroit Tigers' first base and emerged as one of the most sensational sluggers of the American League.

The hook-nosed, baldheaded Frisch wins a plaque for his longer and meritorious service to the game. Frankie's coming up for his eighteenth season in April, with exactly half a hundred World Series games behind him.

And the handsome, dark-eyed Greenberg, 25 years old, will be awarded his for his selection as the "player of the year," after only three seasons of exciting experience in the majors and little more than a short bunt from the portals of James Monroe High School.

Of the two, the "flash" was the first to refute the Broadway legend that a prophet makes no profit in his own backyard. For Frankie forsook the Fordham gridiron and diamond in 1919 for a place with Mr. McGraw's Giants and participated in 54 games at second base and shortstop his initial season without any minor league experience of any sort.

Gould Hints Louis Is 'Afraid'

Ready for Champ Anytime There's a Demand, Black Says.

By the Associated Press

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 29. Little Joe Gould, manager of Heavyweight Champion Jimmy Braddock, took a hand in the business of keeping fight fans interested in a fall meeting between Braddock and Joe Louis today when he let fly with a steaming retort to intimations that the Brown Bomber was not interested in fighting for the title this year. Gould even threatened to cross the Detroit Negro off the list of contenders, provided, of course, the reports were true.

Reports All Wrong.

A heated statement Gould issued, which hinted the Brown Bomber might be afraid of Braddock, lost much of its point, however, after Julian Black, one of Louis' managers, said in New York the reports were all wrong.

"It's true we are not pointedly concerned over gaining the title," Black said, in pointing out the Negro was doing pretty well by himself without it, "but we are ready for him (Braddock) any time there's a demand.

Gould's statement said there was an inkling "Joe Louis may be afraid to step into the ring with the heavyweight champion of the world" in the report he would not challenge in 1936.

"If the report is true," he added, "we consider Louis stricken from the list of contenders. * * * Now that he is apparently unwilling to challenge, he has eliminated himself.

Seek Real Contenders.

"We are sure that the boxing commissions of the country will not recognize Louis as the outstanding contender if he does not want to fight for the title. We and they are interested only in real contenders."

Gould said he had his eye on several young fighters—former champions and has-beens are not being considered" — and suggested an elimination tournament to pick the outstanding contender.

He said Braddock would defend his title in September.

With Mike Jacobs, expected to promote the next championship fight, on his way to Miami, the whole thing sounded to some like the beginnings of the build-up for the Louis-Braddock match.

Grades Bar Two Central Court Stars for Balance of Season

Gerstenfeld, Silverstein Ineligible

By John R. Vosburgh.

AS though the invasion today of the famous John Marshall High team, of Richmond, were not enough, the Central High basketball situation took on added complications yesterday, with announcement that Felix Silverstein and Sid Gerstenfeld will be ineligible for further inter-high series games.

At the same time, the return to eligibility of Sam Fox, star guard, partially offset loss of the ineligibles. Dewey Poole, first string forward, is in a wobbly position scholastically.

Fortunately for Central, Gerstenfeld, Silverstein, Poole and Fox will all be able to play today when John Marshall's South Atlantic champions meet Central in the Central gymnasium at 3:30 p. m.

Undefeated this season and winners of 16 straight games, the Justices, champions of Richmond, are enjoying an even more successful season this year than their campaign a year ago which eventually saw them sail to the South Atlantic Championship at the Washington and Lee University tournament. Their upset of Eastern, tourney favorite, was a bitter dose for Washington followers.

Earlier this year, John Marshall met Central in the University of Richmond Carnival and sent the Mount Pleasanters home with a beating. Central displayed plenty of power, however, losing by but 7 points and is confident of making it an even break for the season today as well as a break for John Marshall's winning streak.

Thompson at Center.

Coach Jack Ray will start his pipe-stem pivot man, Big Bill Thompson, at center, with Gerstenfeld and Don Fones the probable forward selections and Billy Vermillion and Fox at the guards. Poole and Bob Saffran will be available for able reserve duty. Use of Fox as well as the ineligibles gives Ray his full strength to meet the invasion.

It is highly probable that Coach Charlie Guyon, of Eastern, and members of the championship team will be among the spectators. The defeat at the hands of John Marshall last year still rankles with the Easterners and with the prospect bright of meeting the Justices at some championship tournament later in the season, Guyon and his proteges are not likely to miss the opportunity to see the vaunted Virginians.

powerful .300 hitter and already was wearing his baseball cap slightly askew, becoming a dominant factor in the Giants' pennant victories for the next four straight seasons. And in those four World Series Frisch batted .300, .471, .400 and .333.

Thence to the Cardinals and the pilot post thereof, during which tenure Frankie played in four more series and injectd a spark which ignited the St. Louis "Gas House Gang" into newer conquests. And now at 37 the "Flash" still anticipates at least 100 games in the approaching campaign.

Young Hankus, on the other hand, was no New York notable when he was grabbed off by the Tigers in 1930, but he became the Detroit first sacker in 1933 after three years of "farming." It wasn't long before the boy from the Bronx was making 'em sit up and take notice, even here at the Yankee Stadium.

In his first year, the good-looking Greenberg smashed out a .301 average for himself and upped it to .339 the subsequent season.

Helen Wills Moody Is 'Tops' As Model, Sculptor Declares

Olympic Trials To Await Post Court Team

Challengers for honors in the unlimited division of the District A. A. U. basketball championship games which The Post will sponsor at Heurich gymnasium, starting February 18, will have an added incentive in playing this year.

The added incentive is this:

In addition to earning the right to compete in the National A. A. U. championship at Denver March 15, the winning unlimited quintet will have the honor of considering itself as a participant in the Olympic basketball trials.

Basketball Chairman Winfree Johnson, who has been in close touch with Avery Brundage, Olympic chief, stated last night that the two finalists in the national championship will compete with the four surviving college teams of an intercollegiate tournament, and two Y. M. C. A. finalists in the big Olympic basketball test at Madison Square Garden some time in April.

The winning Olympic team and six additional players will make the trip to Germany.

Trip in Store.

Such whirlwind teams as Rinaldi Tailors, Bureau of Investigation, Olmstead Grill, Resettlement, Delaware and Hudson, by way of mentioning a few, have something to look forward to—perhaps a trip to Europe.

Washington believes it has as fine a senior basketball material as there is in the country, and the triumphant team in The Post games will go to Denver with a chance to win world-wide fame.

With this golden opportunity knocking at their doors, Washington's unlimited aggregations are determined to be at the zenith of their power for the big push, come February 18 at Heurich gym. Knowing that much is at stake, the Washington, Spalding's, Tremannaturally, look forward to the games with keener interest than heretofore. Never, in all the ten-year-history of the tournament has there been such an abundance of basketball talent floating around the District courts.

Entry blanks will be ready either tomorrow or Saturday, and will be available at the Boys, Club of Washington, Spalding's, Treman-King, the Sports Center, and other sporting good stores.

Y.M.C.A. Courtmen Beat Annapolis Laundry Five

The Y. M. C. A. courtmen chalked up their fifth consecutive victory last night in the Central "Y" gym by easily defeating Arundel Laundry, of Annapolis, 32 to 20. Individual honors went to Ranick, of the "Y," with 11 points.

New York, Jan. 29.—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody saw a new sculpture of her head in terra cotta today, and heard herself called "tops" as a sculptor's model.

"The breadth of her nose at the top where it joins the forehead gives a Greek effect," said Wheeler Williams, the sculptor. "She is as good a model as you can get."

"I think it's awfully good likeness," the tennis star said when she viewed it in the Karl Freund Gallery where the head will go on exhibition February 15.

Mrs. Moody posed at the sculptor's request in a balloon hangar on the West Coast, where he and four other sculptors were designing pediments for the Commerce and Department of Labor Buildings in Washington, D. C.

Williams said he made the clay model "between pediments."

Roosevelt Annexes Overtime Contest

Minus 3 Aces, Riders Defeat Episcopal.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Alexandria, Jan. 29.—Minus its three aces, Francis Beamer, Frank Bailey and Spire Kolius, Roosevelt High's basketball team found it tough going here today to pull out a 26-to-24 victory over Episcopal High. An extra period was necessary before the Rough Riders, tied with the Virginians at 22 to 22 at the end of the regulation game, could win.

Episcopal took a 4-to-0 lead in the first quarter, but the Washington team came back to knot the count at 12 to 12 by the close of the half, with Joe Comer and Harry Silverman leading the rally. The teams were still battling on even terms at 17 to 17 with the start of the last quarter, and the situation was no better at the finish.

In the extra period, Francis Coakley and Joe Comer, of Roosevelt, came across with a snowbird apiece and Silverman dropped a set shot for three baskets in a row, to put the game in the bag.

Rosslyn Girls Win Again in D. C. Loop

Subdue Convention Hall Bowlers to Increase Lead in Race.

THE Rosslyn girls displayed a brilliant brand of team bowling last night at the Rosslyn drives to strengthen their position at the top of the Ladies' District League, swamping Convention Hall three games with a total pinfall of 1,660. Blanche Wootten, rising young Rosslyn star, featured the pace-setters' victories with a 132 game and 364 set. Rena Levy, a seasoned veteran of many league battles, followed her teammate with 350. Mary Esten's 305 was the best individual effort for the losers.

The Arcadia team failed to better its position in third place by taking the odd game from National Beer. Ruth Rothgeb's 130 game for Arcadia was high for the match.

Many of the District's foremost fair-sex duckpinnists will be shooting for laurels on foreign alleys this Saturday with the rolling of the fifth annual United States Sweepstakes championship at Norfolk, Va.

With the women bowlers of the country showing a marked interest in tournament competition, the National Duckpin Congress, sponsors of the event, expects a field of close to 50 participants. Prominent bowlers from New Haven, Hartford, Baltimore, Richmond, Norfolk and Washington will afford the keenest competition in the history of the event.

Naomi Zimmerman, of Baltimore, is the defending champion, capturing the highly prized title with a nine-game total of 1,062. Washington girls have won the title three times, Loraine Gulli scoring twice and Billie Butler once.

The Lido team led the parade of duckpin activity in the Civic Club League last night at Arcadia, shooting a 574 game and 1,686 set. De Lisi featured the pin spilling with a 134 game and 286 set.

Mesmer to Watch Protege in Action

FREDDIE Mesmer, Georgetown University's popular young basketball coach, is one person who is going to make certain to see Sunday afternoon's pro basketball game between the Heurich Brewers and the American League-leading Philadelphia Sphas.

Mesmer has a personal interest in one of the visiting players. Two years ago, when Freddie was watching his Hoyas drop a game to the Temple Owls in the McKinley High School gym, Freddie turned to a reporter and said, "See that boy there? You're looking at a fellow who'll some day be a sensation in professional basketball."

Mesmer was referring to "Red" Rosan, 175-pound husky forward, who was proving quite a thorn in the side of his Hoyas. Sunday, Rosan will be playing with the Sphas. It is his first season in the pro ranks and he has more than made good Mesmer's prophecy.

Hockey League Berth Seen For D. C.

Arena Backers Here Are Granted Option on Franchise in 8-City Circuit.

WASHINGTON is one of three cities recently granted options on franchises for the 1936-37 season in the Eastern Hockey League, it was learned last night.

An eight-club circuit long has been the ambition of the present Eastern League, and thus league officials cheerfully awarded options to Washington, Philadelphia and Boston.

All Washington games would be played at the proposed sports arena on Kansas avenue and Upshur street northwest, operating as the Washington Garden, Inc., which has been incorporated for $1,000,000.

Graeme Smallwood and Harold M. Major, real estate dealers, guiding spirits in this million-dollar project, confirmed the report that the District will have a franchise in the ice hockey league.

Link With Canada.

It is also possible, according to Sam McCallister, general manager of the Baltimore Orioles, and Eastern League member, that the league will become aligned with Canadian hockey in an interlocking schedule, with members of a Canadian division making a single trip through the Eastern League cities and the Eastern League teams likewise returning the visit.

The Washington Garden, Inc., arena, work on which is expected to start in a few months shortly after the Securities and Exchange Commission stamps approval on the stock subscription plan, will be opened late in the fall, according to local backers.

Thrills Abound In Amateur Battles

cop, won on a second-roud technical knockout from Lou Laporte, of the Olympic Club, in a heavyweight bout with all the charm of a Dempsey-Firpo brawl.

Laporte was forced for a nine count in the first round by a right to the midsection. He was down again from another right to the brisket when the bell saved him. He was down again from a similar punch almost before the bell had rung starting the second round, and when he dropped again from the same punch, his corner sent the towel in at the count of eight.

Other bouts on the program offered just as much excitement. Strangely enough, the heavily favored Olympic Club, winners of the team trophy last year trailed a dark horse—the Metropolitan Police Boys Club—in the number of fighters advanced to the semifinals. The Police Boys Club advanced 12 to the semi-finals and the Olympics will be represented only by eight.

The tourney will carry on tonight at the same spot, starting with the novice semi-final at 7:30 p. m. Results:

Novice Division.

Table Tennis Experts Poised For Games at Tech Tonight

Mark Schlude (left) and Robert Blattner, St. Louis aces, whose entries are expected in the American zone table tennis tournament starting here today. Schlude was runner-up in the national championship last year and Blattner was a semifinalist.

Schuman, District King-Pin, Among Stars in Net Classic.

By George Considine.

THE third annual American Zone Table Tennis championships will get under way tonight in the Tech gymnasium with the cream of the country's talent vying for supremacy. Sixty-nine paddle experts stand poised for action, which begins at 7:30 o'clock.

Seeded No. 1 is youthful Jimmy McClure, of Indianapolis, who won the title last year and whose recent triumphs in the Midwest have established him as an outstanding choice. Sol Schiff, of New York, Dick Tindall and Bud Blatner, of St. Louis, are rated second, third and fourth, respectively.

Elias Schuman, District champion, will head the local contingent, the most proficient of which are Eddie Yap, Bob Lee, Ken Lafferty, Bill Blanchard, Larry Sherfy and Ray Sherfy. In all Washington will have 19 representatives in the classic.

McClure Faces Sherfy.

In the most promising battles scheduled for tonight, Jimmy McClure has been drawn with Larry Sherfy; Sam Silberman, of New York, plays George Sempeles, of Baltimore; Bill Blanchard crosses paddles with sixth-seeded Herman Leavitt, of Chicago, and Ken Lafferty opposes Joe LeBow, of Philadelphia.

Three former national champions will be in there swinging for the right to represent America in the world championships in Prague, Czechoslovakia, in March. Jimmy Jacobson held the title in 1933, McClure in 1934 and Schiff in 1935. Sandor Glancz, world singles champion in 1926 and co-holder of the world doubles championship in 1928 and 1929, will be among the spectators.

Included among the competitors is Izzy Bellis, national indoor and outdoor boys' tennis champion, who will represent Philadelphia. He will face Bill King, of Chevy Chase, Md.

Four Represent America.

The four players who show to best advantage during the three-day event will represent the United States in the world team championships, which will be held at the same time and place as the international singles tournament.

Tickets, ranging in price from 40 cents to $1.65, are on sale at Spalding's the University Club, Wardman Park Hotel and the sporting goods department of Woodward & Lothrop's. High school students having athletic cards will be admitted tonight and tomorrow night for 15 cents.

Preliminary Round.

Sturgiss (Clev.) vs. Zimmerman (D. C.); MacLeod (Ch. Ch., Md.) vs. Allen (N. Y. City); Engleberg (D. C.) vs. Skinner (Norristown, Pa.).

First Round.

McClure (Ind.) vs. L. Sherfy (D. C.); Milano (Brooklyn) vs. Lee (D. C.); Fuhrman (Hamilton, Ohio) vs. Kohansov (Brooklyn); Bellis (Phila.) vs. King (Ch. Ch., Md.); Aaronson (Chi.) vs. Chasanow (D. Johnson Stars As Maryland Frosh Win

YOUNG EDDIE JOHNSON—son of Walter Johnson, baseball's immortal Big Train—celebrated one of the big days of his brief college athletic career yesterday, pulling the Maryland Freshman basketball team from apparent defeat to a 33-to-29 victory over Central High.

With three minutes to play and Central leading 29-to-26, Johnson scored three baskets to give the Freshmen their fourth victory in four starts over Washington schools. An added foul shot by Maryland was hardly necessary.

It was a see-saw battle all the way. Central had a 15-to-14 lead at the end of the first half and then went on to stretch it to 22-to-15 in the third quarter. With George Knepley, its star forward from Altoona, Pa., being held on the sidelines with three personals on him, the Freshmen experienced a decided letdown.

Knepley was sent back into action with the start of the last quarter, however, and Maryland finally overhauled the high school, a basket by Johnson making it 25-to-24. Billy Vermillion of Central put Coach Jack Ray's boys back in the lead again and Knepley went out on fouls to make a Central victory even more certain.

Capt. Bill Thompson led Central to a 29-to-26 lead and then was expelled for four personals. With Thompson's departure, the Freshmen, particularly Johnson rallied and the former Bethesda-Chevy Chase captain dropped in his three baskets in a row to clinch the ball game. It was the Freshmen's seventh victory in eight starts.

Tunney . .

Writes About Louis But Is Terrible Fight Dopster.

By Jack Miley.

A Special Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—One of our favorite authors and after-dinner speakers, Mr. James Joseph Tunney, yclept Gentleman Gene, unleashes a few hundred thousand well chosen and 16-cylindered words in praise of Joe Louis today. The chap who put Shakespeare on a paying basis is no mean lily gilder, but he is a little slow on the draw, it seems to us. After all, if he wants to climb on the Louis band wagon he'll have to stand in line, for there's a big crowd ahead of him.

A fellow named Dempsey, for instance, is right up on the driver's seat, within clutching distance of the whip. But what makes Tunney's remarks about the mocha murderer of more than passing interest is the fact that Gene is a Cautious Cal conversationally. He deems his utterances more priceless than pearls, he wouldn't make a flat statement about the weather and he weighs his words on apotehcary's scales before heaving 'em out for public consumption.

This erudite athlete is a graduate cum laude of the "yes and no, but don't quote me" school founded by Coolidge, so when he pops off pertaining to matters pugilistic we must doff our chapeaus and stand stiffly at attention while the band plays the "Star-Spangled Banner."

TUNNEY thinks the chocolate chugger is potentially the greatest heavyweight fighter in all history. Gene believes that if Joe keeps on the climb he'll eventually be able to whip all the illustrious champions of the past—including Tunney—in the same ring on the same night. That is pretty tall talking, if you ask us. Why, Louis might break a leg and they'd have to shoot him. But he adds that the Dempsey, of Toledo, might have had a chance to beat him as it stacks up right now. Which also gives you a rough idea of what Tunney, deep down in his heart, thinks of our Johnno, who, on that flukey Chicago fight, still remains the undefeated heavyweight champion of the world in our book.

Another think that must be remembered is that Tunney, like the late Jim Corbett and all those Fancy Dans, is a notoriously poor judge of fighters. We recall the night Gene touted poor Barney Gimbel, who really can't afford such wanton extravagances, into betting the poke that Primo Carnera would beat Maxie Baer. And were Gene's cheeks red when the Hollywood Hooligan had Ponderous Preem going down like an elevator, with the final stop on the eleventh floor.

"If Joe Louis follows the usual course of improvement," predicts Tunney in an exclusive interview written by the capable Fred Wittner for the Sports Illustrated Magazine, "it is my belief that at the age of 25 he'll have the necessary qualifications to beat all the heavyweight champions we ever had in the same ring on the same night." Tunney was asked if he included himself in this group and he replied, "I said all the heavyweight champions!"

"A LOT of old fossils are constantly dragging John L. Sullivan into their debates on the merits of the mahogany menace. We didn't see the Boston Strong Boy until he was an old pfoof reeling around the Chautauqua circuits with his lantern-slide lectures on the evils of the Demon Rum, but from what we've been able to learn about Jawn, we think he's a bum. He used to growl and make faces at a lot of petrified punks, but the first good man he met—Jim Corbett—proceeded to knock his teeth down his throat."

That Sullivan myth rolls right off our knife and the next party who tosses it into our kisser is likely to get himself popped right on the nose. If young Louis were to meet the fabulous John L. he'd probably stiffen the pot-bellied old rum pot in a heat or two—so let's have no more guff about Sullivan please!

Terrapins, Indians Are Foes Tonight

Local athletes resume production on a part-time basis tonight as the University of Maryland's basketball forces entertain William and Mary's representatives at Ritchie Coliseum in a game scheduled to get under way at 8 o'clock. It is the lone home attraction booked tonight.

Meanwhile, Georgetown's Hoyas will be seeking their second Eastern Conference victory and second win of their current Northern invasion at Philadelphia, where they encounter Temple tonight. It will be remembered that the Owls scored a thrilling 43-42 decision over Fred Mesmer's men here earlier in the campaign in an overtime game.

Tonight's game is in the nature of a warm-up for Maryland in preparation for Saturday's important duel with Duke, and, judging by the Indians' performance against Navy yesterday, it will be little more than that. Maryland trounced the Middies in no uncertain fashion, and William and Mary failed to come within hailing distance of the Annapolis five yesterday.

Central High Pitcher Endeavoring to Sell Stock in Self to Attend Diamond School

By John R. Vosburgh.

IN another section of this paper (see page 19) you will see a rather unusual want ad under "Business Opportunities." In fact, this ad would look so much at home on the sports page that we are reproducing it, as follows:

> BASEBALL PLAYER desires $80 loan to finance course at baseball school. Will repay with interest from first earnings; is prominent left-handed high school pitcher. Box —, The Washington Post.

Now, here is an opportunity for a good investment for any enterprising individual. The stock you will invest in is young Arnold (Lefty) Heft, Central High southpaw, and the stock is well on the upgrade. It is what is known in financial circles, we are told, as "safe" stock.

Young Mr. Heft, a bright, confident youth of 16 years, has an ambitious bee in his bonnet about the baseball school conducted by Max Carey, the Pittsburgh Pirates' star, at Miami, Fla. Carey was manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers before setting up this school. Carey sent Heft a personal signed letter expressing hope that he could take the course.

Jimmy Fox is the vice president of the institution, which offers six weeks of training for aspiring young ball players for $30 tuition, from February 15 to April 1. Young Heft is confident, but he also knows that there is much room for improvement and is ready to turn himself over to Carey, Fox, Hank Gowdy, Leslie Mann and Jo-Jo White for development.

"LEFTY" HEFT.

All he needs is a little cash. His father, Harry Heft, a butcher, will contribute a small sum. Young Heft is ready to hitch-hike to Florida and take care of his room and board by devious means. Eighty bucks would send him on his way.

Now, for some sales chatter. The boy is considered by his very able coach, Jack Ray, of Central, as one of the most likely pitching prospects he has ever handled. He stands 5 feet, 9½ inches, weighs 150 pounds and is still growing. Last year he pitched for Raymond Playground and the Auth's Sausage team, runner-up for the junior sandlot championship of the city. The only team that downed him was Nationwide Groceries, junior champions, and Heft avenged himself by beating Nationwide. He won 27 games and lost 2.

Repayment? Heft will be graduated from Central in June. In two years he hopes to be in a minor league and from his first earnings would deduct the borrowed $80 and accumulated interest to pay back the debt.

Personally, there is much less chance of this stock dropping than some of the Wall street quotations, with all due respect to our financial desk a few paces away. Some Central alumnus, perhaps, will welcome the opportunity.

Quel Jeu Takes Feature at Hialeah

Wins Driving After Late Start

Finish Breaks Up Battle Between Rock X and Go Quick.

By Walter Haight.
A Staff Correspondent.

HIALEAH PARK, Miami, Fla., Jan. 29.—A veteran son of High Time, named Quel Jeu, French for "some play," proved a good investment in the running of the Grade A Handicap, feature of today's eight-race program. Those who played were given a return of $6.80 for each $2 wagered, and the manner in which he won stamps him as "some horse" or the equivalent.

From the far reaches of the field, in turf parlance, "the clouds," came Quel Jeu to break up a stretch battle between Go Quick and Rock X and emerge the winner by a head margin. It was by a like distance that Go Quick was awarded the place money. Eight other starters accepted the issue.

Eighth at Start.

Jockey Tom Malley was in the driver's seat as Quel Jeu developed his winning punch. When the field left the chute for the 7-furlong test, Quel Jeu, coupled with Chancer in the betting, was an inconspicuous eighth, and he had not bettered his position as the stretch loomed ahead. But once in the straightaway, he came with a charge, fairly jumping ahead at each thrust of Malley's whip. In those precious last strides he barely had time to poke his head in front.

Sailor Beware, a long shot, threatened to run away with the race at the beginning. Urged by Jockey Don Meade, he went out to a good lead. However, the riders nearest wisely held their mounts under slight restraint. It was when Sailor Beware quit the real race began.

Rock X, running second most of the way, assumed command with Go Quick almost lapped on him. They were in the midst of a keen struggle when along came "Some Play."

Numerous Long Shots.

The day brought a shower of long shots that included a $250.30 daily double pay-off. After Kawagoe won the first race, Greek Idol, a $52.80-shot in his own right, put the finishing touches on the twin bet. Old Story, winner of the fourth race, rewarded with a substantial $41.40, and Trujillo came through at $41.70 in the sixth race.

Chatterfol added to the joy at the pay-off windows with a $60.40 mutuel in the day's finale.

At the Post . . .

Hialeah Race Track, Fla., Jan. 29.

Dear Al:

A certain turf writer's face has been red for the last 24 hours on account of Red Neck. Yesterday morning he approached P. A. Markey, who is joint owner of the Bomar Stable with Charles Bohn, with a view to determining the chances Red Neck had in the sixth race. To open the conversation, the scribe asked: "How many horses are you racing here?" Markey replied, "Eight." The writer said, "You mean seven horses and that Red Neck thing." Markey came back with, "I'll give you Red Neck and a piece of rope. I'm not kidding." But the "wise" scribe replied, "Oh, no you won't." A few hours later Red Neck won at a $68 mutuel. Of course, the Bomar Stable will keep Red Neck and the turf writer probably will keep his bad disposition. It might be well for the Benningites to remember that Mont Blanc winner yesterday is much better than that race which he won by a nose. Jockey Litzenberger said that he lost one of his stirrups in the stretch and could not do the colt justice.

BILL.

First race—Queen Vic comes off distance races to accept the issue at the short sprint route. She set an excellent pace on each of her last two appearances and figures to be a keen factor, if not the winner, here. Maid of Arches, gifted with early speed, will go well. Clocker Mike still likes Sic 'Em.

Second race—Jackie D., a first-time starter from the Maemere Farm, is fancied by the clockers and may step down at the first asking. Bravo Caruso has proven consistent and courageous during his abbreviated career. Promises to be a keen contender. Biscayne Blue, bred for sprints, is a possible surprise.

Third race—Quickly is dropping down after running an even race in better company. Gets in with a steadying weight assignment. Wee Wink, an impressive second in the mud last out, prefers a dry course. Kings Pleasure may hold on for the third money.

Fourth race—Faust, a bang-up third to Grog in his most recent outing, was away poorly on that occasion and came with a stretch rush. Alert handling at the post would bring this fellow a set of brackets. Bay Bubble, a consistent one, should be in the pay. Naughty picks up 12 pounds off a winning effort.

Fifth race—Pot au Brooms, a brisk worker, was practically left at the post after being placed on the outside in that last race. This one will like the turf course, I'm told. Mountainy Man runs few bad races and should be a keen figure here. Apprentice won his last on the main course.

Sixth race—Highest Point, sharpened by recent sprints, may show to advantage at a mile and an eighth. Shares top weight with Playful Martha, which looms as the one to beat. Lady Genie is fit and will not be far out of it.

Seventh race—Seawick, in with a feather impost, ran an impressive second last out and had none the best of the racing luck. Clear sailing may find him scoring. John's Birthday was in tight quarters along the back stretch in his most recent effort but closed well. Our Admiral, despite top weight, is a threat.

Benning's Best Bet, Chatterfol, Triumphs To Pay Backers $60

Mr. Bill Bennings, the Post's own race horse prognosticator, who is wintering at Hialeah among the flamingoes, added insult to injury to takers of bets yesterday.

Mr. Beinnings not only said that Chatterfol, in the seventh race, "meets a rather cheap field and there is no reason for mistakes," but he picked the same Chatterfol as his best bet of the day.

Chatterfol won, paid $60.40, $18.50 and $14.30.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—KAWAGOE (entry), $7.90, $4.20, $3.00; EPIBEAU, $10.20, $5.30; FERVID, $3.00.
KAWAGOE, racing kindly and following close to the leaders early, wore FERVID down when straightened into the homestretch, withstood a hard drive gamely and just lasted long enough to withstand EPIBEAU. Latter, timidly ridden while in between the two leaders, closed gamely on his own courage in the final drive. FERVID gained a brief lead when leaving the backstretch, saved ground and continued willingly under a stout drive.

SECOND RACE—Three furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Went to post at 2:55. Off at 2:57. Start good (chute). Won driving; place, same. Winner, Wm. H. Gallagher's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHANTING, $26.60, $8.50, $4.80; PEGOTTY ANN (field), $4.20, $2.80; HATTY, $3.30.
CHANTING, away in the first flight and having good speed, gained command after going a furlong, responded willingly to pressure and came away nearing the finish. PEGOTTY ANN followed close to the leaders from the start and was racing gamely at the close. HATTY had good speed while holding a contending position, but tired when nearing the finish.

THIRD RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,000. Grade C Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Went to post at 3:25. Off at 3:29½. Start bad. Won driving; place, same. Winner, George D. Widener's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GREEK IDOL, $52.80, $20.90, $12.80; ST. MORITZ, $6.80, $5.20; CHIMNEY TOP, $21.20.
GREEK IDOL, away in the first flight and going in improved fashion, challenged readily when put to a drive, swung to the outside of the leaders and came strongly to get up in the last 50 yards. ST. MORITZ beat the gate, opened up a clear lead when reaching the homestretch, but tired suddenly inside the closing furlong. CHIMNEY TOP raced close up from the beginning and held on gamely in the final drive.

FOURTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,200. Grade B, Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Went to post at 4:01. Off at 4:02½. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Winner, Mrs. Frank K. Two-dollar mutuels paid—OLD STORY, $41.40, $10.50, $5.10; LAUGHING SUN, $3.40, $2.60; JUDGE LEER, $3.10.
OLD STORY, going in greatly improved fashion and a keen factor in the early running, rallied strongly entering the homestretch, wore SEMAPHORE down inside the closing furlong and barely lasted to stall off LAUGHING SUN. Latter restrained back of the leaders until well settled in his stride, circled his opponents and, finishing stoutly, would have been winner in a few more strides. JUDGE LEER, rated within striking distance of the leaders, responded to punishment and was gaining slowly at the finish.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,200. Grade B Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Went to post at 4:28. Off at 4:33. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Winner, Mrs. W. Plunket Stewart's ch. g. (4), by Chance Play—Ex Ray. Trained by George M. Odom. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:24 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHANCE RAY, $8.30, $3.60, $2.80; CHESHIRE, $6.00, $3.80; SPIXI, $5.30.
CHANCE RAY, rated on the outside of the leaders, gained fast when put to a drive, took command in the closing furlong and, under strong pressure, came out slowly nearing the finish. CHESHIRE, slow to settle in his stride, circled his field and finished with a belated rush. SPIXI, racing in his best form, followed close to the leaders in the early running, rallied midway of the homestretch, but faltered in the closing sixteenth.

SIXTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,500. Grade A Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Went to post at 5:04. Off at 5:07. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Winner, Arden Farm's ch. h. (6), by High Time—Question. Trained by George M. Odom. Value to winner, $1,100; second, $250; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:24.

†R. L. Gerry and Arden Farm entry.
Two-dollar mutuels paid—QUEL JEU, $6.80, $3.50, $3.00; GO QUICK, $4.50, $3.80; ROCK X, $7.20.
QUEL JEU, outrun for the first half mile, bettered his position readily when shaken up, swung to the outside of the leaders entering the homestretch and closed full of run under punishment to get up nearing the close. GO QUICK, close to the pacemakers in the first five furlongs, secured racing room on the inside after reaching the homestetch, took command, but could not stall off the winner.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Went to post at 5:35. Off at 5:36½. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Winner, W. A. Jones' b. c. (3), by Chilhowee—Stefaly. Trained by T. Seymour. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:38 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRUJILLO, $41.70, $15.40, $10.80; LOLLIES, $8.20, $6.20; TRAGEDIAN, $13.30.
TRUJILLO, going in his best form and having much speed early, disposed of PRETTY BUSY without effort, drew into a clear lead, but had to be aroused sharply during the stretch drive to stall off LOLLIES. Latter followed close to the leaders while saving ground early, swung wide into the homestretch and was wearing the winner down gradually at the close. TRAGEDIAN broke slowly, improved his position on the outside when bettering his position and held on gamely after moving into contention.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Went to post at 6:04. Off at 6:06. Start good. Won driving; place same. Winner, J. U. Gratton's ch. g. (6), by Chatterton—Pola Negri. Trained by W. M. Irvine. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHATTERFOL, $60.40, $18.50, $14.30; SPARKDALE, $4.70, $4.20; CAPABLANCA, $9.40.
CHATTERFOL, showing much improvement, outran his field to the first turn, met strong efforts from SPARKDALE and outstayed the latter under a tenacious drive. SPARKDALE, going in his best form, followed close up from the beginning, rallied nicely when placed to punishment and fought it out willingly after making repeated efforts early. CAPABLANCA improved his position steadily and was going strongly at the close.

CAN YOU ANSWER "YES!" to these Questions?

Do you carry enough life insurance to see your family through the difficult period of readjustment. To complete the education of your children? To meet State taxes and the new Federal taxes, which must be paid in cash, within a specified time?

Have you had your will drawn or brought up to date by your lawyer?

Have you named an executor with wide experience, specialized knowledge of investments, and continuing existence—never out of town, never sick—familiar with your affairs—interested in your family's welfare?

If you can answer "Yes!" to these questions, you can feel that you have laid a sound foundation for your family's security.

Trade Titans Confirm Rise Of Industry

By the Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 29.—Industry's steady push toward recovery last year achieved its greatest momentum in the final quarter, as evidenced by the impressive showing of industrial and railroad earning statements released during the last few days.

General Motors Corporation, giant leader of the automotive industry, reported the largest December quarter earnings in the 28 years of its existence, and for the entire year 1935 the best profits since 1929.

United States Steel Corporation, likewise the leader of its field, ended a long succession of deficits with the first December quarter profit, after preferred stock dividends, in several years.

The steel concern, in spite of a low rate of operations in the first half, finished the year with net income of $1,084,917 compared with a net loss of more than $21,600,000 in 1934.

Railroad Gains.

Most of the important railroads were able in December to raise by a good margin the limits of their gains shown in the immediately preceding months. And in contrast with December, 1934, the improvement in their revenues was considerable, of course.

Aggregate gross revenues of 56 roads reporting for the final month of the year were $212,735,000 against $185,863,000 in December, 1934. Net operating income rose to $31,205,000 from $28,150,000.

Systems serving the important industrial areas were among those showing substantial gains. Some of these were slow to feel the effects of business recovery starting early in the summer of 1935, but in the final months of the year their revenues were lifted sharply. The so-called granger roads generally have experienced equal improvement.

3,000 Tax Districts In Default on Bonds

New York, Jan. 29.—More than 3,000 county, city, town, school and other tax districts in the United States are in default on their bonds, according to the statistical department of the United Endowment Foundation New York City.

Out of 3,053 counties in the country, 307, 10 per cent, are in default in interest or principal of their indebtedness. More than 800 cities and towns, and about 850 school districts have been unable to meet payments on their bonded debt. More than 1,000 drainage, road and other tax districts bring the total number of defaults well over the 3,000 mark.

General Motors Plans Unit for Air Regulating

Delco and Frigidaire to Be Merged Into New Company.

General Motors Corporation plans a program of expansion in a comparatively new industry, air conditioning, and has organized a new company for the marketing of year-round air conditioning and automatic heating products, it was announced today by Alfred P. Sloan, jr., president. The new company will be known as Delco-Frigidaire Conditioning Corporation. Its general headquarters will be in Dayton, Ohio. Sales headquarters for all eastern States will be in New York City.

Organization of Delco-Frigidaire Conditioning Corporation, Mr. Sloan's announcement stated, will place under one direction the marketing of summer air conditioning equipment manufactured by frigidaire division and of winter air conditioning and automatic heating equipment manufactured by Delco appliance division.

"In establishing this new company," Mr. Sloan said, "General Motors is encouraged by the thought that air conditioning, in its complete phase, namely, the conditioning of air the year-round, is needed in virtually every type and size of residential, business or industrial building. We have faith in the possibilities of this new industry and and we sincerely believe that through this new organization the corporation will be able more aggressively to develop, manufacture and market year-round air conditioning equipment that will be of service to mankind in all climes."

Stocks Rally in Final Drive With Utilities, Motor and Aviation Shares Leading.

New York, Jan. 29.—Stocks moved along in rather desultory fashion during the first half of the trading, with the only excitement that provided by a few specialties, part of which were weak. In the afternoon a good rally got under way and it held through with a moderate rise in trading volume. It left the majority of stocks well up on the day, with a turnover of around 2,500,000 shares. May wheat closed 1¼ cents lower at 99⅝ cents a bushel.

In the late rise in stocks the movement was led by the utility and airplane shares, both groups entering new high ground. Lower priced utilities were the favorites. Commonwealth reached its best price in three years. Airplanes soared 1 to 4 points, with Douglas again the leader. Rails also had their buyers. New York Central charged through to a new high price. The Van Sweringen list was active, with rumors about of a higher dividend for Chesapeake & Ohio.

Specialties Rise.

Oil shares joined the rally. Jersey climbed more than a point. Du Pont set up a new level. Fractional gains were made in the steel group. Motors were more active. Chrysler recovered 2 points and Auburn proved to be easy to move. Yellow Truck continued the feature of the trading during the early part of the day, selling at a new high, along with the preferred. United American Bosch was shoved up more than 4 points in short order.

On the weak side American Radiator dropped more than a point on heavy dealings. Its weakness was more than offset by the strength of other specialties. Cuban Americans were buoyant and the busiest they have been in a long time. The preferred reached the best price since 1929. Johns-Manville duplicated its best price of the year.

Another slight flurry in inflation was felt in the foreign exchange market. Sterling and francs moved up, and the force was supposed by some observers here to have been the new drive to bring up in Congress the Frazier-Lemke inflation bill. However, that did not appear to harm the Government bond market, which again was firm, possibly on a little Treasury support.

Trade Activity.

Deprived of excitement among inflation rumors and lacking any fresh stimulus to the imagination, stock traders had to fall back upon their chart reading, for those so inclined, and upon prosaic trade reports, the main guide of the realists. No question is raised over the assumption that business is now a little backward, but evidence is lacking on the point of whether trade has slackened more than seasonally. It would be natural to expect an accentuated winter dullness, because of the unusual activity last autumn; but on the other hand the fact that trade was so lively had led many to expect the momentum to carry quickly over the rough spots of January and February.

Investors aren't worrying much. On long term they are confident of further business recovery, higher profits, more stability in dividend and interest payments and an ultimate return to common sense in politics on economic and social matters. Their optimism on the political side may be put to a severe test in the next year or so, but the background of the Nation supports them.

Midweek trade news was not particularly inspiring. Steel trade reviews were a bit uncertain. The Iron Age, for example, found that motor demand had fallen, partly because of the severe weather, but an offset had come in rising railroad orders. On balance it looks as though the steel industry would gain, for the railroads have run on an extremely low replacement demand in the past few years. Car loadings last week, according to reports of leading carriers, ran above the level of a year ago but fell sharply from the previous week. Production of electricity continued to show large gains over the corresponding period of the previous year.

Taxes.

The taxpayer will literally have to pay the fiddler. When he makes out his income tax form, in another month or so, if he can conquer his indignation at the realization that he is paying for shower baths for dogs at Memphis and other boondoggling, he can realize that his money also will go to cover the costs of the tap dancing lessons conducted by the Government at Atlantic City. As the old song had it—Oh, it's a lovely war . . . against depression.

Among the Magpies.

Chrysler directors must feel like country doctors—subject to call at any time. Inquiry at the offices as to dividend dates always brings the answer: No date for a meeting has been set . . . Almost any bond paying more than 4 per cent and belonging to a company with credit above low-tide level is subject to refunding these days . . . Most preferred stocks also are beginning to take on an air of impermanency . . . Seasonal traders are now looking at the alcohol companies, presumably helped by cold weather demand for motor radiator mixture, and at the retail store shares, in anticipation of the early Easter and the spring trade . . . Guesses may be made on either side; the higher margin requirement to come next month has watered down stock speculation fires, or the lower flames make the Federal Reserve Board's action seem a bit silly.

Freight Traffic.

Car loadings last week showed an unusual decline for this season but held about 3.1 per cent over a year ago, the smallest margin of gain over the previous year since the end of September. Cold weather helped to retard movement of cars. The Milwaukee dropped 12½ per cent under the previous week; the North Western 9½ per cent; Nickel Plate 13½. Missouri Pacific and Southern Pacific, on the other hand, were only a few dozen cars off, and Chesapeake & Ohio was a little ahead.

Rail Financing.

Continued improvement in the market, the New York Central conservatively points out in its application for extension of RFC loans, would make it possible to refund its bank loans. The convertible 6s sold in 1934 are quoted now to yield around 4.40 per cent, compared with a yield to maturity of about 3.75 per cent earlier this month before investors began to worry about the possibility of a call for redemption.

Building Cost This Year Put At 3 Billions

Depreciation and Credit Among Factors Which Spur Activity.

New York, Jan. 29.—A total construction volume of from $2,500,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 is indicated for 1936 in response to the accumulated shortage as a result of deferred building, the growing potential demand resulting from depreciation, fire losses and increasing population, and the present favorable credit conditions, according to Distributors Group, Inc., in a study of the building industry released today.

This would represent an increase of from 40 per cent to 70 per cent over 1935 levels and permit the construction industry to return to what, in comparison with recent years, must be considered boom conditions, the report states. Annual average construction contracts for the past five years have been about $1,800,000,000, or only 35 per cent of the $5,000,000,000 average for the previous 1921-1930 period, the study reports, with the result that there is now an apparent cumulative shortage of about $16,000,000,000 in construction.

Greatest advances this year will probably take place in the field of residential building, according to the study, which states that "if only the same percentage gain in residential building is experienced in 1936 as in 1935, the year will see 200,000 homes built. Compared to the low levels of the last five years, that will be a boom."

In the first 11 months of 1935 75,000 dwellings were provided in this country, compared with only 29,000 in the corresponding 1934 period, a gain of 159 per cent, the report states.

Railroad Maturities $475,000,000 in 1936

New York, Jan. 29.—Approximately $475,000,000 par amount of railroad bonds mature in 1936, exclusive of RFC loans, short-term debt and emergency advances, according to available records.

Although the total is the largest for some time past, no important problems are expected in connection with any issues of the solvent roads, in the opinion of the Standard Statistics Co., of New York.

Woolworth Earnings.

New York, Jan. 29 (AP).—The F. W. Woolworth Co., today reported 1935 earnings equal $3.20 a capital share compared with $3.30 last year. The statement, which included domestic and Canadian subsidiaries, was for the year ended December 31, 1935, and showed a net income of $31,247,230, after depreciation, amortization, Federal taxes, etc., against $32,142,363 during 1934.

Year-End Circulation Highest in 15 Years

Boston, Mass., Jan. 29.—The money in circulation in this country at the end of December was just under six billion dollars, the highest year-end total in 15 years. This figure was exceeded only in March and April, 1933, but hoarding was prevalent in those days.

Steel Companies Vote Dividends

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Directors of the Inland Steel Co. today declared a dividend of 75 cents a share on the capital stock. In each of the two preceding quarters extra payments of 25 cents a share in addition to dividends of 50 cents were declared.

The preliminary report for 1935 for the company and subsidiaries, including Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, Inc., for the last three months, showed a net income of $9,417,818. Inland acquired the Ryerson Co. on October 1. The dividend declared today is payable March 2 to stockholders of record February 14.

Pittsgurgh, Jan. 29.—The United Engineering & Foundry Co. today declared a dividend of 37½ cents on the common stock and the regularly quarterly disbursement of $1.75 on the preferred. Both are payable February 14 to stockholders of record February 4. Three months ago 25 cents was disbursed on the common and just prior to Christmas an extra payment of 50 cents was paid.

United is building many of the new giant hot and cold roll continous strip steel mills.

Directors of the Allegheny Steel Co. also declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on common stock payable March 18 to stockholders of record March 2. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on preferred stock will be paid March 2 to holders of record February 15.

Coffee Consumption 3.03 Cups Per Day

New York, Jan. 29.—Coffee drinkers of the United States consumed 60.5 cups more coffee each during 1935 than in the previous year. Last year also was a record year in point of volume, according to a survey made by the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange.

The estimate figures show that daily consumption amounted to 3.03 cups per person during 1935, compared with 2.86 cups during 1934, a gain of 5.9 per cent.

Boston Wool Market.

Boston, Jan. 29 (AP) (U. S. Department of Agriculture).—Most sales of spot wool in the Boston market were very moderate in volume, but prices were very strong. French combing 64s and finer territory wools in original bags sold at prices mostly in the range 86@88 cents, scoured basis. Fine Ohio delaine were moved at 35@35½ cents in the grease. Greasy fall Texas wools brought around 75 cents, scoured basis.

Selling Wave Carries Wheat Below $1 Level

Prices Are Unsettled by Volume of Offerings From Europe.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Stop-loss selling by holders of futures thrust wheat values down today to well below $1, more than canceling recent gains attributed to inflation talk.

General liquidating sales of wheat at Liverpool, with European continental countries offering freely, did much to unsettle prices. A particular source of weakness abroad was Portuguese government action authorizing wheat exports that will total 11,000,000 bushels.

Wheat closed heavy at about the day's bottom level, ⅝ to 1⅛ cents under yesterday's finish, May 99⅛@99⅝. Corn ¼ to ⅝ off, May 59⅝@59¾. Oats unchanged to ⅛ lower, and provisions varying from 2 cents setback to an equal advance.

BEFORE ANDREW JACKSON DIED

In 1845, viz., on January 30th of that year, the New Jersey Legislature chartered its first purely mutual legal reserve life insurance company, The Mutual Benefit Life of Newark. True to the ideals of its founders, the "Mutual Benefit" has during these 91 years insured hundreds of thousands of citizens of the United States and guarded with unusual success the funds entrusted to its care. It begins today its 92nd year with 586 million dollars of assets. Our local Agency, founded in September, 1845, the oldest life office in Washington, offers experienced professional service.

STEADY WORK—52 weeks a year—open for five responsible men in this district with a company which, 12 years ago, opened its first office in Brooklyn, N. Y., and today operates 293 offices throughout the Nation. This company, during the last five years:

—Has not discharged or laid off a single employee whose character and work have been satisfactory.

—Has not cut any salaries or commissions, but has increased a great many.

—Has increased its business tremendously from year to year.

—Can introduce you to many men with larger weekly pays than they have ever earned before.

—Has, due to increasing business, just completed a 3-story addition to one of its factories which was purchased for cash a few years ago.

—Deals with its own merchants direct, without investment or risk on their part, furnishing tested methods and complete training FREE OF CHARGE that will qualify intelligent men for immediate substantial earnings.

—Pays all incomes IN CASH every Monday afternoon.

—Leaves the door wide-open for those who are seeking HIGHER EARNINGS and ADVANCEMENT.

This company still has more than 75% of its potential market to develop. We will, therefore, employ five men with some business or trade experience at once. Men with flexible minds and responsive to new ideas, between the ages of 26 and 45, preferred. Must be in good health. Wanted—One Jail!

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 29.—The Virginia League of Municipalities has a customer in the market for a jail. A notice in the January issue of the organization's magazine said: "If you have a jail with about six or eight cells you desire to dispose of, write the League of Virginia Municipalities. One of its member towns desires to purchase it."

On the Air Today

AN enormous network of stations will broadcast the "million dollars' worth of dance bands" participating in the President's Ball over the country tonight. The President will address the Nation briefly.

The hour opens with Guy Lombardo, from this city, and will present in order Nat Harris and his Waldorf Astoria orchestra, Jack Hylton, Tom Dorsey (from College Park), Eddy Duchin, Tom Coakley, Enric Madriguera, Little Jack Little, Isham Jones, Ted Weems, Ray Noble, Glen Gray and Emil Coleman. What an array!

Coleman wrote a letter to the President requesting his favorite selections and as a result will play "The Yellow Rose of Texas," "Anchors Aweigh," "Home On the Range" and Halls of Montezuma."

WRC, WMAL, WJSV and WOL present the full hour beginning at 11:30.

In addition, WOR and stations of the Mutual network will broadcast the dance hour. Ordinarily this would not be mentioned since Newark's WOR is not faithfully received here on most listeners' radio sets. However, employes of radio stations and newspapers were the innocent recipients of verbal lashings and in many instances abusive treatment Tuesday night on the occasion of Senator Borah's talk from WOR.

Listeners accused the newspaper telephone operators of deliberately withholding mention of Borah's speech for veiled and insidious reasons. Some said it was because The Post's radio department was anti-Administration; others because the same department was pro-Administration. Which would be extremely funny if it were not serious.

Radio station employes were accused of deliberately conspiring to keep off the air the Senator from Idaho. (He has appeared many times on both major networks).

And until this type of listener learns some few small details of how radio is operated, this trouble probably will continue. The dismal part is that political talks are increasing in number. If this last week is a forerunner, the employes who catch the telephone calls will be insane before summer.

Sixteen beautiful chorines from the show that opens at the Fox tomorrow will be in the line-up for The Post's Spelling Bee tonight, WMAL, at 8. There's this much about it: if they can't spell, the old cry "go into your dance"—or song—will be very appropriate and acceptable. Bill (Pops) McCormick has promised to arrive at the studio for this bee fully wide awake and prepared.

Culbertson On Bridge

ON TO GAME.

It is an important part of my bridge philosophy that few hands should be played at contracts one trick short of game.

The value of part scores always has been perhaps the most bitterly debated point in contract. There are two distinct schools of thought. One argues that no hand should be stretched to game because of the probable loss of a part score; the other scoffs and sneers at the part score when compared to game possibility. Naturally, there are merits to both arguments.

No amount of calculation, however expert, can succeed in placing an arbitrary point value on a part score. The 50-point bonus used in duplicate has no relation whatsoever to rubber bridge.

But the part score is not the whole story. It must be examined hand in hand with the stopping short of or going to game. My philosophy is this: If my partner and myself, of our own volition, approach to within one trick of game on fitting hands, I go the rest of the way! I refuse to "hang" one short step from my goal! My sense of logic tells me, and my experience indorses, that this reasoning is sound.

Not one hand, nor a thousand, can adequately prove what must, of its nature, be only theory, but the following hand happens to fall within the category mentioned.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♠ 10 7 3
♦ A Q 5

WEST
♠ J 9 8 6
♥ Q J 8 5 3
♦ 7 6 4

♠ K Q
♥ A K 10 7 4
♦ 10 9 3 2

SOUTH
♦ K J 8
♣ K 8 7 3

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 Club	1 Heart	2 Clubs	2 Hearts
3 Clubs	Pass	4 Clubs	Pass
5 Clubs	Double (final bid).

North was not justified on his actual holding in bidding game. But he "saw no percentage" in stopping one trick short. He knew that South must have a good hand for his two raises and thought the final outcome must be either four or five-odd—probably the former. But game bonuses usually are not the reward of timidity!

East opened the king of hearts and followed with the ace, declarer ruffing the second. With two losing spades, there was only one chance for success, and declarer promptly grasped it. His first play (to disguise his strip play as much as possible, in case either opponent held the king of spades singly guarded) was to the ace of spades. Two rounds of trumps and three rounds of diamonds set the stage for another spade lead. East had to win and, having no more spades, was forced to lead a red card, which the dummy ruffed while North discarded his losing spade, fulfilling his doubled contract.

The Federal Diary

Registered in U. S. Patent Office.

By Morgan Baker.

QUALIFIED personnel is a vital factor in the maintenance of good government, Miss Anna Lord Strauss, of New York, secretary of the National League of Women Voters, told an audience of Federal employes in the Agriculture auditorium yesterday afternoon.

BAKER.

Miss Strauss and Miss Katherine A. Frederic, secretary of the league's department of government and its operation, were speakers in a special "Public Personnel Day" meeting, arranged to take cognizance of the special Nation-wide observance in the league's campaign for qualified Government personnel. The meeting was sponsored by the National Federation of Federal Employes, whose Agricultural branch of Local No. 2 has a large membership in the Department of Agriculture.

Both speakers summarized the extensive efforts of the league to arouse public support for the elimination of the spoils system and full establishment of the system.

Miss Frederic congratulated the Agricultural employes on the "well-developed personnel polices" of the Department of Agriculture.

"It is to be hoped that the day is not too far distant when all of the permanent agencies of the National Government will have equally well-developed personnel systems," Miss Frederic declared.

"One of the most outstanding features is the encouragement given to employes to secure further training for their work either through courses given at the Department's graduate school or in others offered here in Washington. Such opportunities are of benefit not only to the individual but to the public, which reaps the return in a finer quality of work.

"Federal employes have opportunities to build a better public service by working through their own organizations. It is important for all of us to recognize that Government employes are not a group apart, but are also citizens and taxpayers who share the public interest in efficient Government service."

Former employes of the Labor Advisory Board staff, NRA, will hold a reunion dance tomorrow night at the Hay Adams House. Among those invited as guests of honor are the 12 former board members who are prominent in labor circles. Miss Sylvia Yuster (P), is in charge of arrangements.

Diary Guest Tickets.

IF F, P or C appears after your name in this column, call in person on the Federal Diary editor today only between 3:30 and 5 p. m. You will receive tickets to one of the following Loew's theaters: F, Loew's Fox (stage, Toby Wing, Tommy Monahan and Orchestra and other acts; screen, Gladys Swarthout and John Boles in "Rose of the Rancho"); or to P, Loew's Palace (Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray in "The Bride Comes Home"); or to C, Loew's Columbia (Joe Morrison, Chic Sale and Rosalind Keith in "It's a Great Life").

Diplomas Are Required.

Word comes from Canada that the Canadian Civil Service Commission has put into effect new regulations which will make college graduation essential for initial appointment to all the higher positions in the Dominion government's service, and that there is a widespread apprehension lest this action may close the door to promotions of persons already in the service.

This was revealed last night by E. Claude Babcock, president of the American Federation of Government Employes.

"This development in our neighbor country," the employe leader said, "is exactly what I wanted to prevent here when I made a campaign some weeks ago against undue emphasis on college diplomas for entrance to Government jobs.

"I do not oppose, and never have opposed, giving every opportunity to college graduates. What I have insisted upon is that similar opportunities be afforded other qulified persons who may not have attended college.

"In Canada, under the plan now put in effect, grade 4 positions, paying $1,620 to $1,980, and all higher positions are reserved for graduates of recognized universities. Organized labor is reported preparing a protest to the Dominion government and President Draper of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada declares that this means denial of employment by the government to the sons and daughters of the vast majority of workers.

"College graduates, by reason of their special training, generally possess an advantage over non-graduates, and this is reflected by statistics gathered by the A. F. G. E., which show a direct relation between the degree of education and amount of salary received by groups of Government employes.

"I feel that it would be manifestly unfair, however," Mr. Babcock concluded, "to add to that advantage by disqualifying non-college men from the opportunity to compete for jobs. Moreover, experience has shown that such disqualification would often, even though the cases are exceptional, deprive the Government of splendid administrative or other specialized ability."

A list of "standard science books" recently issued by a Baltimore publisher of scientific books and periodicals (Williams & Wilkins Co.), includes the following items by Federal scientists:

"The New Evolution," by Austin H. Clark, National Museum.

"The Penicillia," by Dr. Charles Thom, Bureau of Chemistry and Soils.

"Rain Making and Other Weather Vagaries," by Dr. W. J. Humphreys, Weather Bureau.

"Animal Life of the Carlsbad Cavern," by Vernon Bailey, Biological Survey.

"Hygienic Fundamentals of Food Handling," by Dr. Charles Thom, chemistry and soils, and Dr. A. C. Hunter, food and drug administration.

"Old Americans," by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, National Museum.

"Manual of Bacterial Plant Pathogens," by Dr. Charlotte Elliott, Bureau of Plant Industry.

Standards History.

Q.—Can you give me a brief history of the Bureau of Standards?—Jimmy Craigin (F).

A.—The National Bureau of Standards was established by act of Congress approved March 3, 1901, continuing the duties of the old office of Standard Weights and Measures of the Coast and Geodetic Survey. In addition new scientific functions were assigned to the new bureau. In 1903 the bureau was transferred from the Treasury Department to the Department of Commerce and Labor (now the Department of Commerce). The original staff numbered 14, and the laboratories were housed in temporary quarters near the Capitol. There are now about 700 employes, two-thirds of whom are scientifically and technically trained.

As now constituted, the Standards Bureau is charged with the development, construction, custody and maintenance of reference and working standards and their intercomparison, improvement and application in science, engineering, industry, and commerce.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.
Advt.
